Madero's Downfall and Death Accomplished by Treacherous Army Leaders.

HUERTA RUTHLESS OF LIFE

CIVILIANS TARGETS FOR SOLDIERS

BY OBSERVER.

Mexico City, May 18.—It was no sooner apparent that the Madero revolution had actually succeeded than conspiracies were started against Madero. The old Cientifico party, which had governed the country under Porfirio Diaz, and the army were at the bottom of these conspiracies. The Cientifico party had no intention of yielding the special privileges which they had enjoyed under Diaz.

The army, which had no sympathy with Madero, was disgusted at having been even nominally defeated by the rebels and was particularly incensed because Madero had put quite a number of his own officers in its various commissioned grades. Immediately everything possible was done to discredit Madero and his administration and to prevent their settling the existing difficulties. The newspapers being mostly in the hands of Madero's enemies were particularly useful instruments.

The active leaders were Generals Huerta, Blanquet, and Mondragon, though none of them appeared openly as opposed to Madero. Huerta, who is practically a full blooded Indian, has played the most prominent part.

Zapata and Orozco Lead Plots.

The two chief outward disturbers of the peace were Zapata in the south and Orozco in the north.

Zapata had come in once, receiving $80,000 for his arms, but had gone out again. A second time he was paid $140,000, but refused to come in. There can be little doubt now that Madero wished to keep him in the field so that he would have some one to fall back on in case of trouble such as happened later and during which Zapata extended no help to him. However, he had gone to Cuernavaca to hold a conference with him. While holding it Huerta's troops, who were in the field against Zapata, broke the armistice by attempting to surround Zapata's troops and firing into them.

Orozco, originally a Madero supporter, had gone out against Madero because disappointed in the reward he had received and because backed financially by the Terrazas family and others of the old Cientifico party. Before Huerta could be persuaded to take the field against Orozco, Madero had to pay him a considerable sum.

Huerta Betrays Madero's Trust.

While in the north, Huerta made no real attempt to suppress Orozco, but collected as much graft as possible. Finally, Madero recalled him and sent out Gen. Rabago, in whom he stated he had implicit confidence. How well this confidence was deserved will be seen later.

While Huerta, Blanquet, and Mondragon were ready enough to overthrow Madero, they did not possess either among the people or the army the requisite popularity. Gen. Reyes was extremely popular with the army as well as the people, while Felix Diaz, who had been chief of police, was a popular idol, but to nothing like the extent of Reyes.

While steadily working to discredit Madero and his administration both at home and abroad, the first active step in the plot was taken. Felix Diaz was to appear at Vera Cruz, take possession of the city, and declare himself to be for Gen. Reyes. Diaz had been promised the necessary backing. However, when he started the revolt as planned, instead of all the troops which were sent against him by the government joining him, as he had been led to believe they would, they proceeded to capture and confine him in the castle of San Juan de Uloa, in Vera Cruz harbor.

Reyes and Diaz Are Tricked.

Gen. Reyes was imprisoned in Santiago prison in the City of Mexico. Thus the two popular generals were both prisoners of the Madero government and therefore where the conspiring generals could compel them to agree to their plans.

The next step was to bring Diaz to Mexico City. Huerta and Blanquet claimed that the castle of San Juan de Uloa was not a safe place and therefore Diaz should be moved to the penitentiary in Mexico City. It would be hard to imagine a place more difficult to escape from than this castle, situated as it is on the outer edge of Vera Cruz harbor and connected with the mainland by a breakwater only. Madero opposed the movement. The two generals, how-

MRS. YOUNG NAMES CAREY AND KENNA BOOK 'INFLUENCES'

MENTIONS HUTTMANN, TOO

RESULT: HALF DEFEAT; HALF VICTORY

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, told the Board of Education yesterday afternoon of pressure brought to bear on her to endorse a spelling book for the Chicago schools.

She named two prominent Democratic politicians of the Harrison following—"Tom" Carey, chairman of the county central committee, and "Hinky Dink" Kenna, First ward alderman.

She also said School Trustees Henry W. Huttmann and John C. Harding tried to force her to the same action. It was made plain that Mr. Harding's motive was to benefit Chicago printers. He is a union printer.

Mrs. Young also said James Plunkett, agent for Eaton's speller, and of "de luxe" book fame, threatened to "get her scalp" if she withstood the pressure. Ald. Kenna at night denied he had concerned himself in any way in the text book matter.

Partial Defeat; Partial Victory.

The school board spent two hours, from 4 to 6, fighting out the text book question. Mrs. Young failed to secure definite action restoring to her the power—taken from her a week ago—to select school books. But at the same time the board refused to indorse the Eaton spelling book, which has caused the row. To this extent she was victorious.

Before Mrs. Young told her story a resolution dropping the speller now in use and arranging for a committee to consider the advisability of compiling a board of education speller was passed by a vote of 12 to 5.

Bitter Words Exchanged.

Later in the proceedings Charles S. Peterson, most recent appointee on the board, began a verbal attack on Trustee William A. Vincent. Referring to him as "this man Vincent," Peterson accused him of ulterior motives in befriending the American Book company, called him the "prototype of the blackhand," and asserted he was fighting out his case in the newspapers. He said he would ask redress from the courts for the alleged attack on his motives in voting in the school management committee to take from Mrs. Young the power of textbook selection.

Mr. Vincent replied by referring to the new member of the board as a "venomous little snake," by saying that he had asserted he believed no member of the board could be implicated in any graft, but that if he were to make the statement again he would say "no member but one"; that he welcomed most heartily any court action. He called the statement of Mr. Peterson "unkind, ungenerous, wicked, shameful, and malicious."

Mrs. Young's Speech.

Mrs. Young asked to be allowed to speak after Mr. Harding and Mrs. John McMahon had said that newspaper articles had influenced their votes on the resolution looking to a board of education speller.

"I suppose that has reference to my statement that there was something behind my recommendation that the board take over the selection of spelling books," she said. "I made the statement. I'll tell the board what was behind it if it wants to know."

Trustee Vincent here asked that she make a statement, and she took the floor.

"Since early in the fall the question of a change in spellers has been talked about among the board members and among a good many teachers," Mrs. Young said, "and again and again I was asked if there was going to be a change of spellers, and I have had brought to my attention always in connection with that question the question as to whether I was going to recommend a certain speller, or else the statement that I ought to recommend one.

No Fault with Present Book.

"I have never heard a word of complaint from any teacher or principal in this city about the spelling book now in use since I was superintendnent.

"We changed readers last year, and it is my firm conviction that two years should elapse between the changes made in any two books in the elementary schools. In the first part of my superintendency I did recommend a geography one year and an arithmetic the next year, and I should not make such a recommendation again. I think to change books in two consecutive years (not the same books) is too severe a tax on the parents of the city.

"Besides, we have to consider the teachers. They cannot work satisfactorily if the books are changed yearly, even though it be only one book that is changed each year.

"Yet this question kept coming before me. I was urged to see how desirable it was for the school system to have peace, and be befriended by the agent of the book that was to be introduced, but I didn't think that was a matter for me to take under consideration.

Agent, Friend, and Alderman.

"So far as I could see, if we were to introduce one speller to pacify one agent whose set of readers had not been adopted, then it was our duty to find as many books for the elementary schools as there were publishers that tried to get their readers in, so as to give each and every house a chance. Why should we select one particular book just because three men were anxious to have

VOTE EXTENSIONS OF 'L' PLATFORMS

LIKE NEW "ISLAND" IDEA

Plans for through routing elevated trains progressed yesterday with more rapidity than has been shown by any traction improvement scheme in many months.

What was thought to be the Gordian knot of the situation—the lengthening of the loop station platforms—was cut with a sharp decision in favor of this step. The council committee on local transportation voted to authorize the extension of these platforms to accommodate two six car trains simultaneously. The aldermen agreed the protests of a few downtown property owners should not interfere with obtaining the greatest possible increase in loop capacity.

Hear New Plan.

The committee also listened to a new plan of operation that would increase this capacity above the maximum set for any previous system outlined. George Weston, city representative on the board of supervising engineers, urged that transfers be made by means of island platforms, instead of over bridges crossing from one side of the loop to the other.

The aldermen liked the idea, and representatives of the Chicago elevated railways said if the estimates of the results obtainable were verified by their engineers and the suggestion is found feasible, they will include it in their through route plan.

Able to Handle More Cars.

Mr. Weston said the island platforms would give the loop a capacity of 1,288 cars an hour, as contrasted with the present capacity of 700 cars an hour, or the capacity of 1,220 cars if the overhead bridges were used.

Mr. Weston proposed the island platforms be built at Clark and Lake streets, Wabash avenue and Adams street, State and Van Buren streets, and Randolph street and Fifth avenue. He said their installation would reduce the length of the transfer station stop to the lowest possible duration. The committee will wait to hear from the company on this point.

Meantime the ordinance for through routing will be redrafted by John W. Beckwith, first assistant corporation counsel, in conformity with his recommendations for protecting the city.

Angered by Loop League Counsel.

The vote to approve the lengthening of station platforms was taken after Morgan Davies, an attorney for the Loop Protective association, had aroused the resentment of the committee by intimating he had not been given a chance to present arguments against these extensions. W. G. Beale, attorney for the roads, suggested Davies' conduct led to a belief he was paving the way for an injunction suit to prevent the platform extensions. The committee voted to send the property owners' association a formal invitation to present its case against the plan.

GARRETT BIBLICAL INSTITUTE SEAL AND TABLETS STOLEN?

Properties Disappear from Desk of Prof. E. C. Eiselen During Commencement Exercises—Student Joke Scented.

The seal of Garrett Biblical institute and two Babylonian tablets were stolen yesterday from the desk of Prof. F. C. Eiselen.

Evanston police look upon the disappearance of the tablets and the seal as a prank played by students.

Prof. Eiselen discovered the property was missing when he opened his desk after the conclusion of the commencement exercises of the institute. He reported the loss to members of the faculty and a search was made at the institute without success. When told by the police they suspected the seal and tablets were taken as a joke Prof. Eiselen said:

"I sincerely hope the seal and tablets were taken as a joke and will be returned."

At the commencement exercises in Memorial hall, twenty-one students received the degree of bachelor of divinity and one student, Rudolph Erickson, the faculty certificate.

W. A. Fouts and Toich Hanada were each awarded the Kadder prize of $25 by the trustees of the institute.

The Witherell scholarship of $50 was awarded to Jesse W. Bunch, the Luke Hitchcock scholarship of $100 to Roy L. Smith and the Slocum prize of $100 to George L. Long.

Saloonkeeper Ousts "Hobo Jack" Burzik—Then Gives Him Job and Later His Daughter.

Several years ago "Hobo Jack" Burzik rambled into the saloon of Jacob Heinz near Church street and the drainage canal, west of Evanston. Heinz threw "Jack" out.

Burzik came back meekly and asked for a job. Eventually he became assistant barkeeper, then chief barkeeper, and finally bought out Heinz, who retired to truck gardening. Last night the former hobo married Heinz's eldest daughter, Margaret, and the couple started east for a long tour. Burzik is worth about $20,000.

"I guess I made a mistake in treating him that way at first," said Heinz over his cabbages. "He's a bright feller."

SISTER'S BOUQUET USED BY ELOPERS

SECRET HELD TWO WEEKS

This is the story of a bride's bouquet that was used twice. A younger sister stole a march on her elder.

Pauline Nanette Lautenschlager, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lautenschlager, 4114 Paulina street, and Hugh W. Hartman were married on May 10 at the residence of the bride's parents.

On the morning of the wedding day Miss Marie Charlotte Lautenschlager, the younger sister of the bride, looked with envious eyes on the preparations making for the marriage. She was silent as she thought of John C. Hays Jr., to whom she was engaged. The young sister is 21 years old and her parents objected to her marriage so young.

She Goes to the Florist's.

"I am going down town to get your bouquet," the younger sister announced petulantly to the older sister. "The florist might not send it out in time and delay everything."

She went down town.

One hour later the young sister and her fiancé who is a bond salesman, stood in a loop flower shop, admiring a large bouquet of orange blossoms.

"They are beautiful," said the girl. "I wish they were for me."

Hays had an inspiration, right there in the florist's shop they had a whispered conversation. Then—

"We'll just have time," said the young man as he looked at his watch in the taxi.

Then Something Happens!

With her sister's bridal bouquet in her arms, the girl and the man were married twenty minutes later in the parish house at the Holy Name church. Father Dunne smiled a "God bless you" with a kindly twinkle in his eye.

The girl with her sister's bridal bouquet was Mrs. John C. Hays Jr. when she alighted from the taxi at her parents' house shortly afterward.

"Not a word now," she cautioned, as she squeezed the arm of the young bridegroom walking beside her.

As bridesmaid, Mrs. Hay accompanied her elder sister to the altar. At that part of the ceremony where the couple joined hands, the bridal bouquet was handed back to the young sister. She buried her face in it and smiled through the blossoms at her secret husband.

Break the News to "Papa."

"Mamma" and "Papa" were told of the secret wedding last Sunday. Mr. Hays returned to his work "on the road" after the marriage of the elder sister and the young sister remained at home. Two weeks was as long as the secret would hold.

Mr. and Mrs. Hays confessed to having used the bridal bouquet first. They were forgiven by "mamma" and "papa" and after some persuading by sister and brother-in-law, now Mr. and Mrs. Hartman.

FRIENDS TESTIFY THAT ROOSEVELT NEVER WAS DRUNK

BAR ON HEARSAY EVIDENCE

Judge Rules Any Person Who Has Seen Plaintiff Only Once Cannot Be Witness.

DEFENSE INDICATES ITS COURSE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Marquette, Mich., May 28.—Men who have been associated with Col. Roosevelt in public life, who met him on the Nile and who accompanied him on various political campaigns, today testified that he is extremely temparate in the use of intoxicants.

It would have been impossible, the witnesses said, for Col. Roosevelt to have been under the influence of liquor without the fact becoming known to his associates. It would have been equally impossible, they testified, for him to have drunk liquor with any regularity without the smell of it on his breath being apparent, to the friends who testified.

The witnesses were Robert Bacon, formerly secretary of state, Truman H. Newberry, formerly secretary of the navy, John Callan O'Laughlin, Washington correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Lucius F. Curtis, a New York newspaper man, and Gilson Gardner, a newspaper man, who after having testified the day before, was recalled.

Excludes Hearsay Evidence.

The day's proceedings were marked by an important ruling by Judge Richard C. Flannigan, which will have the effect of excluding certain kinds of hearsay testimony.

The effect of the ruling was that Col. Roosevelt's general reputation is an issue in the case, and testimony bearing on that issue may be introduced, but that rumors or reports about his reputation coming from persons not qualified by experience to judge, shall not be admitted.

It was explained that a person who has traveled extensively with the former president or who has been associated with him with any degree of constancy may testify as to his reputation, but a man who heard the colonel deliver a political speech, or who saw him for only a few moments in a crowd may not testify as to his general reputation, although he may tell how the colonel acted or appeared at that particular time.

Questions put to the witnesses by counsel today indicated that the defense will endeavor to justify the editorials in the Iron Ore by showing that similar charges have been made in other publication. In regard to this Judge Flannigan made the following statement:

Cover Whole Public Life.

Almost every phase of Col. Roosevelt's public life was touched upon by the witnesses today. All of them spoke with emphasis when they expressed personal knowledge in denying, as the editorial charges, that the colonel "gets drunk and that not infrequently, and that all his intimate friends know it."

It was asserted that whenever Col. Roosevelt drank champagne or wine or mint juleps it was out of courtesy to his host at some public function; that he often only took a mouthful from a wine glass and that on one occasion he ordered a railroad company not to place in his special car the supply of liquors usually placed in such cars.

In varied phrases the same question was put to each witness.

"Have you ever known Mr. Roosevelt to be under the influence of liquor?" or "Have you ever smelt liquor on Mr. Roosevelt's breath?" and the answer invariably was negative.

Calls Drinking Rumors "Silly."

Mr. O'Laughlin, who said he knew Col. Roosevelt for many years and who went to a point on the Nile to meet the colonel on the latter's return from the interior of Africa, put a degree of positiveness to his answers by saying:

"I not only never knew of the colonel's having been under the influence of liquor, but any suggestion that he ever was, appeared to me, on account of my intimate acquaintance with him, to be absolutely silly."

It was a question put to Mr. O'Laughlin that brought about the argument of attorneys over the admissibility of certain testimony. Mr. O'Laughlin was asked whether he had heard a general report circulated among newspaper men that the colonel was in the habit of getting drunk. After the court's ruling, he was permitted to answer. His answer was that he had heard such rumors, but that he regarded them as wholly unfounded and not worthy of notice.

Testimony Given by O'Laughlin.

Mr. O'Laughlin was the first witness called today. When he took the stand he said he had been associated with Col. Roosevelt for twenty years.

"During your twenty years experience with Col. Roosevelt have you ever seen him in the slightest degree under the influence of liquor?" he was asked.

"I not only never saw him under the influence of liquor but it seems absolutely silly to me to have anyone suggest the fact that he ever was," replied O'Laughlin.

"At banquets have you ever seen him drink any liquor?"

"At banquets he sometimes took a glass of white wine. I never saw him drink more than one glass of champagne."

Mr. O'Laughlin described the various dinners, official and otherwise, given at Washington, including dinners at the Gridiron club.

"Will you tell this jury whether Mr. Roosevelt mixed his drinks at all or not?"

"If he took champagne he never took anything else."

A question involving the custom of former presidents in regard to liquor at banquets caused objection by counsel for the defense. The court held it competent for the plaintiff to show whether Col. Roosevelt followed custom in the use of liquor in the White House.

Mr. O'Laughlin said his first experience with presidents began with the second Cleveland administration, and that Col. Roosevelt followed the precedent of Presidents Cleveland and McKinley in serving wines at public dinners.

"Are you not in charge of some work of the Progressive party?" Mr. O'Laughlin was asked on cross examination.

"I am not," he answered.

Tells Mission to Japan.

Mr. O'Laughlin said Col. Roosevelt had appointed him assistant secretary of state and that he had gone on a mission to Japan for the Roosevelt administration. He said he went to Japan the same year that Col. Roosevelt ordered the Atlantic fleet to the Pacific.

"Now, you mention that Col. Roosevelt sent the fleet to the Pacific. Was that a measure taken because of the relations between this country and Japan? Was it to prevent war?"

"Well, yes, it was perfectly evident that Japan would not go to war with this country if it was apparent that this country was more powerful. It was one of the measures taken by Col. Roosevelt to prevent war. It was a measure of peace."

One reference was brought out in Mr. O'Laughlin's testimony to the incident of Col. Roosevelt's visit to Rome with regard to the pope.

Acted as Colonel's Secretary.

Mr. O'Laughlin explained he had been acting as the colonel's secretary after the colonel left Egypt for the tour of the continental capitals, and he communicated with Ambassador Leishman at Rome to arrange for the reception of Col. Roosevelt by the King of Italy and the pope.

"You wrote to Ambassador Leishman to arrange for Mr. Roosevelt's reception by the king and the pope, was that your purpose?"

"Yes, it was to arrange those receptions."

Here objection was entered by Col. Roosevelt's attorney on the ground that this line of questioning was immaterial.

"I regret that this subject came up," said the court. "I suggest that it stop right where it is."

Answer Stirs Up Counsel.

"I will ask you if in 1912 and for some time prior there was not a general report among newspaper men that Col. Roosevelt drank to excess?" asked Attorney Belden.

Mr. O'Laughlin, shaking his finger at the lawyer, replied:

"There was not a reputable correspondent in Washington but who thought the report was silly—too absurd to be regarded or repeated."

Counsel on both sides were on their feet, and the jury was excluded.

Attorney Pound said he found the answer "embarrassing," and Attorney Belden explained that he proposed to show what other newspapers had to say on the subject.

The answer was stricken out by order of the court. The lawyers then suggested, in the absence of the jury, that the legal question of the admissibility of testimony touching on "general" reports that Col. Roosevelt uses liquor to excess be settled.

Tells Defense's Intentions.

Attorney Belden stated it was the intention of the defense to question future witnesses in an attempt to show the position of the defense, "that there was in existence a general report, amounting to a general reputation, that Col. Roosevelt does use liquors and sometimes to excess; that these reports were published in newspapers and that Col. Roosevelt read these reports and this charge never had been contradicted by him; the defendant published the report of the former president's reputed excessive use of intoxicants, believing it to be true and not with any malice."

Mr. Belden maintained that such testimnny was required to show the good faith, the absence of malice in the publication of the defendant's editorial. It could not be, in the presence of widespread comment by the public and in important newspapers, the lawyer said, that Mr. Roosevelt had been greatly damaged by the repetition of charges of intoxication in a remote weekly with a circulation of about 3,000 copies.

"We intend to show," continued the lawyer, "that such charges as were made in the Iron Ore were by no means confined to this region. The plaintiff during 1912 was the most talked of man in the United States, and we expect to introduce testimony to show that adverse comment as to his habits was made in many other parts of the country. This point bears strongly in showing the absence of malice on the part of the defendant.

"Question of Reputation."

"In the declaration to this suit the plaintiff not only included the question of his use or nonuse of liquors but also that of his general reputation." Mr. Belden continued.

The attorney read from the declaration, quoting that Col. Roosevelt never "had been suspected of drinking alcoholic liquors to excess." On this basis, he said, the defense would claim the right to bring out testimony on Col. Roosevelt's reputation as it existed in various parts of the country. The purpose of the defense, as pointed out by Col. Roosevelt's attorneys, was to prevent the exclusion by the court of what is called "hearsay" testimony throughout the trial.

The court asked Mr. Belden whether the defense would combat the position of the plaintiff that malice in the publication of the article was a basis for damages. Mr. Belden answered proof of malice undoubtedly would increase the basis for damages, and the defense would combat the attitude of the plaintiff.

Says Colonel Lessened Amount.

Attorney Pound here rose and said:

"At first I wanted to sue for $50,000, but Col. Roosevelt insisted that the amount asked for should be nominal. He did not want to be vindictive, but wanted merely damages for the publication of a falsehood."

It was stated by Mr. Belden that the pecuniary damages in this case under the law might be any sum from 6 cents to $60,000, regardless of the amount asked for in the suit.

Whether the alleged libel was true or not, Mr. Belden argued, the defendant believed the article to be true, and did not publish it out of malice.

Attorney W. H. Van Benschoten, for Col. Roosevelt, said he would not oppose the attitude of the defense that the admission of so-called hearsay evidence, bearing upon the colonel's reputation as to liquor, was merely to mitigate damages. He contended, however, that such evidence should not be admitted unless it first should be proved that the defendant knew of the reports before he published the article, and believed them to be true, and based his article on them, believing them to be true.

Calls Defense Inconsistent.

"Under the position of the defense," argued Mr. Pound, "a man may be as pure as St. Paul and his reputation may be ruined in a moment by a lot of gossip mongers. The two points attempted by the defense are incompatible. You cannot mitigate and deny at the same time."

Various libel suit decisions were cited by Mr. Pound. In one case a man merely had said "he stole my horse." Another case was that of a woman who sued for libel because an editor had said she stole a pocketbook which she found on the street.

"The defense has said this case is unprecedented," shouted Mr. Pound. "It is true that there has been a revulsion on the part of presidents to come into court, but I can cite you a recent case where the king of England prosecuted a newspaper for charging him with being a bigamist in marrying a woman while he was a sailor and before he married the present queen. Would it have been a defense for the editor to have come into court and say, 'O, I only knew what I heard and I publish what I hear'?"

Ruling Made by Court.

After hearing the arguments, Judge Flannigan ruled as follows:

"The Michigan rule is well settled that the general reputation of the plaintiff is a matter that the defendant may dispute—that is, his general reputation previous to the publication of the alleged libelous article, and evidence of that nature will be received.

"The other question is as to whether or not the defendant may show that other newspapers published similar charges, and may show that it was reported among men that the plaintiff was guilty of similar offenses.

"The court is well satisfied that the defendant is not entitled to that testimony, and no testimony of that nature will be received.

"Gilson Gardner, a witness yesterday, testified under direct examination to the opinion of certain correspondents in Washington. That testimony will have to be considered drawn out by the plaintiff. I think the defendant will have the right to rebut that statement if he is able to do so.

"Whether or not the defendant may be entitled to show the source of his information for the purpose of establishing good faith on his part and belief in the truth of the article, must turn, it seems to me, on the other question of whether or not the damages may be increased by reason of actual malice in the publication, and the court will not pass upon that question now. That question may be properly raised and argued when that testimony is offered. That disposes of of all the pending questions, I think."

No Mitigation of Offense.

"May we not ask newspaper men like Mr. O'Laughlin in reference to this charge published in large papers in the country?" Mr. Belden asked.

"Publications of similar matters by other newspapers are not accepted in mitigation of damages," the judge replied.

Recalled to the stand, with the jury present, Mr. O'Laughlin was further examined by the plaintiff's counsel.

"Did you ever smell liquor on Mr. Roosevelt's breath?"

"Never."

"What do you say as to his language; was it clean or profane?"

"Was he ever profane?"

"Never profane."

Gilson Gardner, another Washington newspaper man, who testified yesterday, was recalled and examined by the defense. His brief testimony was a repetition of what he previously had given.

Describes Colonel as "Clean."

"I have known Theodore Roosevelt intimately for about thirty-six years, having been a classmate of his at Harvard, where we graduated in 1880. At college he was one of the cleanest minded, fearless boys that I ever have known. He was always in the best of training physically, one of his chief recreations being wrestling and boxing. He was a good fighter and I think the fairest fighter that I ever have known.

"During the four years that I was in the state department, under Mr. Roosevelt's administration, I saw him constantly, almost every day, at all times of the day and night, officially and unofficially, and frequently lunched or dined at the White House. The president always was in the best of physical training, reserving several hours every day for different kinds of hard exercise—long walks or rides, boxing, and in other ways. Some of us who were his most intimate friends in the government always accompanied him.

Were Constant Companions.

"On his return from Africa Mr. Roosevelt spent a week at my house in Paris, where I was with him every moment of the day or night except when he was sleeping and since my return I have often seen him either at his own house or mine, for we lived near each other in the country on Long island.

"During all my lifelong association with Mr. Roosevelt, and especially in the four years of my closest personal daily contact in Washington, it was impossible for him to have been a drinking man without my knowledge.

"He is not, and never has been. I know few men who have been so abstemious and temperate. His whole life, both public and private, has been clean and decent, in thought, speech, action, and any suggestion or statement that he has ever been anything but abstemious and temperate to the highest degree is unqualifiedly false. Of this all his friends and intimates are absolutely sure, and I have never heard from any one of them the least suspicion to the contrary."

"You were with Mr. Roosevelt on his trips around the country?"

"Never."

Says Colonel Didn't Indulge.

Lucius F. Curtis, a New York newspaper man, said he was with Col. Roosevelt at various times during the period from June, 1910, until after the election last year, going with the colonel on campaign trips.

"From your first acquaintance with Col. Roosevelt until after the election of 1912, what can you say as to his drinking liquor of any kind?"

"I never knew of his drinking anything except as a courtesy when he was a guest."

"During the time you were with him would it have been possible for him to have been drunk without your knowing it?"

"It would not have been possible."

"You have been often at his home at Oyster Bay—did you observe that he ever drank to excess at his home?"

He did not."

"When you traveled on trains with him on campaign trips, did you ever see him indulge in liquor?"

"He did not indulge in it."

No Liquor on Car.

Mr. Belden, counsel for the defense, cross-examined Curtis.

"Do you know whether a supply of liquor was carried on Col. Roosevelt's private car?"

"I know Col. Roosevelt gave orders that the railroad company should not stock his private car with the supply of liquor as is usually done."

"Did you ever see Col. Roosevelt drink wine or liquor on any campaign trips?"

"Not on the train, but sometimes elsewhere. At the St. Louis Country club I saw him drink about two swallows of mint julep. At Senator Warren's ranch in Wyoming I saw him drink a glass of wine."

"Perfectly Sober," Says Newberry.

Truman H. Newberry, former secretary of the navy, told of his relations with the plaintiff since 1896, when they first met, and through the period when witness was assistant secretary of the navy and secretary of that department.

"Were you at Mr. Cannon's reception in honor of his seventieth birthday?" asked Mr. Pound.

"I was."

"Did you see the plaintiff there?"

"Yes."

At this point Mr. Andrews objected, but the court ruled that inasmuch as the alleged libel charged the plaintiff with drunkenness, the latter was entitled to open up his whole life for the purpose of refutation.

Mr. Pound's next question was to ask if, at the reception, Mr. Roosevelt drank any liquor.

"Not that I saw," was the response.

"What did you see as to whether he was, or was not, under influence of liquor?" pursued the lawyer.

"He was perfectly sober."

Mr. Andrews, on cross examination, asked, "How far were you from Col. Roosevelt when he greeted the host of the evening?"

Asks Arrest of Witness.

Frank Harper, secretary to Col. Roosevelt, said today he had received a telegram asking him to cause the arrest of James Martin Miller if he should appear in Marquette. The telegram said Miller was wanted in New York on a charge of grand larceny, and was signed "J. P. Reynolds."

Miller was one of forty persons who signed depositions for the defendant, George A. Newett, in the Roosevelt libel suit.

Attorney Horace Andrews of the defense said that Miller could not be brought here as a witness, as he was beyond the jurisdiction of Judge Flannigan's court, and that the defense had by no means settled on what depositions would be introduced in evidence.

Reynolds Confirms Report.

New York, May 28.—Assistant District Attorney James B. Reynolds today confirmed the report that he had asked for the arrest of J. Martin Miller, formerly consul at Aix-la-Chapelle, if he appeared at Marquette as a witness in the Roosevelt libel suit. Miller is under indictment here on a charge of grand larceny in connection with a check transaction. Mr. Reynolds sent a dispatch to Frank Harper, secretary to Col. Roosevelt, requesting that word be sent here if Miller appeared in Marquette.

BELLS TO TOLL FIVE MINUTES AT NOON ON MEMORIAL DAY.

Weather Man Gives Fair Prospects for Tomorrow's Parade—Gov. Dunne and Mayor Harrison to Lead Marchers.

Civil war veterans who will form the van of tomorrow's annual Memorial day parade have a fair prospect of marching in comfortable weather. The forecast says weather today and tomorrow will be unsettled, but generally fair.

Aside from the various gatherings in the cemeteries the veterans' day will begin at noon with a response to a general request, dating from the recent convention in Rochester, N. Y., that all bells be tolled for five minutes as a feature of the memorial.

The parade north in Michigan avenue will start from Twenty-sixth street at 3 p. m. Gov. Dunne, Mayor Harrison, Col. Hoyle, commanding the department of the lakes; Chief Marshal William P. Wright, and their staffs will leave the ranks at Van Buren street to review the veterans.

ANOTHER FIANCEE NAMES MORRISON

KNEW HIM FOR SIX YEARS.

Prostrated by Discovery; Two Widows Seek $25,000 Believed Hidden in Vault.

Another woman—the fourth—appeared last night in the strange case of the late Homer Edward Morrison, "man of many widows." She is Miss Elnora Ostrander of 4548 Indiana avenue, who was to have been married during the day to Morrison as "W. E. Morrison." The police believe there are many other women in the country who are mourning Morrison as husband or betrothed.

Two Widows, Two Fiancees Now.

Mrs. R. W. Thompson, who was married seven years ago. She lives at 4247 West North avenue.

Mrs. Homer E. Morrison, 4919 North Winchester avenue, who was married four years ago.

Miss Pearl McDivitt, 2901 Belmont avenue, who was to have been married to Morrison this summer.

Miss Elnora Ostrander, 4548 Indiana avenue, who was to have been married yesterday.

Miss Ostrander is prostrated. Like the two widows and other fiancée of Morrison, she has been ill in bed since she learned the identity of the man she was to marry. She is 27 years old and has known Morrison six years.

"Believed He Loved Me."

"I met him on Oct. 23, 1907," she said. He wanted to take me home. I was attracted by his polite manner, and I believed he loved me. For six years he has taken me to parks and theaters and has given me costly presents. He never appeared to be a man afraid to be seen out in public and during those six years we went to many places together. He told me he was a widower. He said his wife died in 1904, but he never told me her name.

"He has been sick for a month and on Saturday morning, May 17, he called me up and said he wanted to come to see me. I told him I was going out and he postponed his visit. He said he would come on the following Wednesday and make the final arrangements for the wedding, which was to have taken place today. I heard no more of him until I saw his picture in THE TRIBUNE. He told me his name was W. E. Morrison and that his folks had a jewelry store in Lincoln, Neb.

Agent for Rooming Houses.

"He told me he was in the real estate business and was an agent for several rooming houses. I had no cause to distrust him, because I thought he had been true to me all the time I have known him. I can hardly believe a man could deceive a woman like that man has.

"I can hardly believe the whole thing, but the picture in THE TRIBUNE and the circumstances have convinced me. I never have given him a cent, and I would have been greatly surprised had he asked me for anything. He appeared to love me and he was kind and considerate. When I did not hear from him at the appointed time I felt something was wrong. I have a copy of the picture which appeared in THE TRIBUNE. I hardly know what to do. I loved him and never would have believed he was leading a double life."

Miss Ostrander wept while telling of her experience with Morrison. She is a dressmaker. The two widows and Miss McDivitt say the circle has been completed. They sum it up as follows: From them he accepted money; he gave costly presents to Miss Ostrander.

Widows Seek Hidden $25,000.

Search for a fortune, thought hidden in a Chicago safety deposit vault, was begun during the day by the two widows of Morrison. Detectives will ask the aid of United States authorities. It is believed Morrison had more than $25,000.

Mrs. Thompson believes her husband had a small fortune invested in lands in southern Illinois.

Mrs. Morrison believes her husband had the money in cash and thinks it is concealed in a safety vault.

Mrs. McDivitt, who gave him $1,000, thinks a business partner of Morrison has the money.

A man known as Harry Palmer is hunted by the police. Palmer, according to Mrs. Morrison, was told in a special delivery letter, written by Morrison, to take the money and leave the city.

Bids Palmer to Skip.

A letter was written by Morrison two days before he died at the Ravenswood hospital. It was addressed and mailed to Palmer by Mrs. Morrison. It read:

Clean out everything and skip. I think we are getting in bad. It may blow over, but I am not sure. H. E. M.

"I believe my husband was getting at the end of his rope," said Mrs. Morrison. "At the time he wrote the letter I had no thought he was the kind of a man he has proven himself to be. I think he and this Harry Palmer were in collusion and had planned to skip with all the money. After my husband had been ill four days he knew the woman he married as Thompson would begin an investigation which would mean his undoing, and wrote Palmer to take everything and skip."

MRS. ZERO MARX SUES HUSBAND FOR SEPARATE MAINTENANCE.

Also Asks Injunction Restraining Sign Painter from Disposing of His Business.

The troubles of Zero Marx, head of the sign works of that name, and married for thirty-eight years, were resumed yesterday when Mrs. Amelia Marx filed suit for separate maintenance and for an injunction restraining her husband from disposing of his property.

In October the husband left in a huff, angry at criticisms by her and others of the family, directed at his newly developed ideas on religion and literature. The family split forced a readjustment of the business, from which the founder eventually was squeezed out in favor of his sons. The family was left in control of the residence at 942 Fullerton parkway.

Marx also gave his wife the capital stock of the sign company, but she discovered, she says, this was of no value.

Mrs. Ethel M. Douglas, 809 Sherman street, Evanston, has obtained a divorce from Robert J. Douglas Jr., manager of the Booth Cold Storage company. Cruelty was charged.

Judge McKinley refused to grant a decree to Harry H. Folgar, an attorney at 106 North La Salle street, who charged desertion. The court read a statement from the wife making counter accusations.

DEATH UNITES AGED COUPLE

BECAME ILL AT SAME TIME.

Neither Knew That the Other Was Dangerously Ill.

That an aged couple died twenty hours apart without either knowing the other was dangerously ill became known yesterday.

Several months ago William H. Lyberg, a civil war veteran, was taken to a sanitarium, suffering from the effects of a sunstroke received years ago. His home was broken up. Mrs. Lyberg went to live with a family in North Seeley avenue. There she did her knitting and waited for the news of the return to health of her husband.

Both became seriously ill almost simultaneously. Mr. Lyberg died on Monday. The information was kept from his widow for fear it would prove fatal to her. The next morning Mrs. Lyberg died.

Double funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the First Swedish Methodist church, Orleans and Oak streets. They are survived by three married daughters.

VON KLEIN BELIEVED ON WAY BACK TO PACIFIC COAST TOWN.

Following Denial of Habeas Corpus, Detectives Disappear with Prisoner Without Announcing Destination.

E. E. C. von Klein, Minneapolis diamond broker, former Evanston horseman, and the principal in an arrest in the Blackstone hotel several weeks ago, is believed to be on the way to Portland, Ore., in care of Detective Joseph Day, there to stand trial for "skipping" with the jewelry of his supposed wife, Ethel Newcomb.

Von Klein's habeas corpus plea was denied by Judge Kersten in the morning, and while his attorney, Charles E. Epstein, was planning another appeal for a writ, the detectives drove up to the county jail in an automobile, assisted Von Klein aboard, and moved out of sight without announcing where they were going.

According to leaders of the garment workers' union, 300 men quit work yesterday in two of the factories at South Kedzie avenue and West Twenty-first street.

GEBHARDT TO BURY SUICIDE

Sends Agent to St. Paul to Claim Divorced Wife's Body.

SHE PLUNGES INTO LAKE.

Woman Takes Life Following Talk with Intended Husband.

The body of Mrs. George F. Gebhardt, who committed suicide by leaping into Lake Como, near St. Paul, yesterday, will be buried in Chicago by her divorced husband, Prof. George F. Gebhardt of the Armour institute. Prof. Gebhardt sent a representative to St. Paul to claim the body.

Mrs. Gebhardt was divorced from her husband in 1910. They had been friendly since, but there was never an attempt at reconciliation. A daughter, Mildred, 14 years old, is in school at Godfrey, Ill.

Mrs. Gebhardt had been living with her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. James A. Adams, 3316 Calumet avenue. She left home on Friday and said she would be gone for several days. She went to a hotel in St. Paul and registered as "Mrs. D. S. Dearhart, Chicago."

She was seen talking to a man until late Tuesday night. The next morning she left the hotel and hired a boat and rowed out on Lake Como. She was seen to take off her hat and coat and leap into the water. The body was recovered. Friends say her mind was disordered at the time of the suicide.

The man to whom she was talking was Robert Burnham, formerly a close friend of Prof. Gebhardt. Burnham told the St. Paul police he had intended to marry Mrs. Gebhardt.

GUILTY OF MURDERING CHILD.

Jury Sentences Charles Rose to Twenty-five Years for Smothering 3 Year Old Daughter.

Charles Rose, 703 Sibley street, member of the campaign committee of the Socialist party at the last election, was found guilty of the murder of his 3 year old daughter, Patricia, by a jury in Judge Baldwin's court yesterday.

The defense was one of insanity. The jury found him sane and fixed his punishment at twenty-five years in the penitentiary.

GARY PUPILS PAID FOR SCHOOL WORK

LAGGARDS SHOVE AHEAD.

Paint City Buildings, Run Lunch Counters, and Design Steel for the Mills.

Pay in school currency has been adopted in Gary's public vocational school as a substitute for the usual school "credits." Instead of getting a percentage mark, the students get a check on the "vocational credit bank" and deposit it. When they have saved up $80 in checks they are entitled to one full course credit.

The plan was devised by Prof. G. E. Wulfing, vocational director, as a part of the schools' business management and as an incentive to further work. The success of the experiment is indicated by the fact that the slower students rapidly are pulling out of the 30 cents an hour class into the 60 cent class, the highest awarded. They want the "maximum wage scale."

Girl Directs Bank.

Miss Rose Matthews is director of the bank and makes up her daily report for the bank examiner. She has her deposits verified by the student timekeeper. All the officials are students.

The branches of the school teach practical work. The cooking class conducts the school café, managed by Miss Ethel Horner, and turns out 1 cent meals. The paint class decorates the schools of the city. The printing class supplies the board's stationery. The drafting class prepares plans and blueprints for the school additions. Some of the iron and steel details were used by the American Bridge company in fabricating steel for the board's uses.

For Immediate Self-Support.

The schools' vocational work is designed chiefly to fit the students for immediate self-support. Instead of delaying work of this sort until the child reaches high school age, the courses include study which may be started in the fourth and fifth grades. One of the principal aims is that of supplying fairly skilled labor for the big mills in the steel town of Indiana. There are special courses in business training and qualifying boys and girls for office work at the steel plant.

In addition to the bank which deals entirely in vocational credit as currency, there is a students' savings bank. This is under the management of a boy, Grant Wilson, whose work is checked up by the school authorities. All work of this sort is under direction of Walter Behn.

GARY LID LIFTING BALKED

WOMEN RETURN TO 'PATCH.'

Mayor Knotts Denies All Knowledge of Reopening Project.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Gary, Ind., May 28.—[Special.]—Early today more than sixty women, driven out of Gary's "patch" by Mayor Knotts' order of last week, crept back to the resorts. A few hours later copies of THE TRIBUNE arrived here containing news of the $10,000 "slush fund" Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton of the Juvenile Protective association, says has been collected to pay for the prying up of the lid.

The sixty women stayed in their quarters, but under cover, and the houses continue closed. Local authorities believe the publication of the slush fund program has delayed the reopening for some time.

Mayor Professes Ignorance.

Mayor Knotts professed to know nothing about the affair, and declared his order was given to stay. J. A. Patterson, the prosecuting attorney, complains because Mrs. Britton did not send her information to him instead of withholding it for presentation to Gov. Ralston.

"It isn't right," he said. "They ought to let me take care of it. I don't know of any such condition."

"Mike de Pike" Hides.

"Mike de Pike" Heitler, who has an interest in one of the houses here, is supposed to be in town, but has not shown his nose on the street. If he does, and if a policeman can see him, Mike is in danger of arrest on the mayor's order. There is no explanation offered. Mike and the mayor were supposed to be friendly. No warrant is out.

Esteem for the mayor was expressed by "Emma," known as Mike's wife, who runs the resort at Tenth avenue and Jefferson street, now dark.

DEATH OF STUDENT NURSE BARES HER SECRET MARRIAGE.

Miss Marie Dickey, Believed to Have Died from Sleeping Potion Effects, Wife of Lawyer R. H. Grunewald.

The romance of Miss Marie Dickey, a student nurse at St. Luke's hospital, was revealed yesterday at her funeral at Rockford, Ill. She died on Monday night, supposedly from an overdose of sleeping powder.

J. C. Dickey, her father, announced a few minutes before the casket was lowered into the ground that his daughter was married at St. Joseph, Mich., last August to Attorney Reuel H. Grunewald of 4118 North Robey street. They had kept their wedding secret from all save Mr. Grunewald's aunt, Mrs. Marie Hart, at whose house the lawyer lives.

"They were very happy," said the aunt. "They thought best to keep the marriage a secret until her graduation from the school, due to occur next month."

COOPER TO MAKE VOTE JURY RULING

Judge Will Decide Jurisdiction Issue with Kersten-Hoyne Body Today.

Appear Before Special State's Attorney Day, but Withhold Fraud Testimony.

Special State's Attorney Clyde L. Day and his special grand jury yesterday broke its own record and got two witnesses before it. The witnesses—William A. Cunnea and Frank D. Ayers—refused to testify until the question of jurisdiction between Judges Cooper and Kersten has been settled. Judge Cooper is expected to give his decision today.

Cunnea and Ayers both agreed to return on Tuesday and to testify if Judge Cooper decides to allow Judge Kersten's jury to have jurisdiction. Day announced himself as satisfied with this arrangement.

New Conflict of Authority.

The special grand jury has caused another conflict of authority in its efforts to investigate the alleged election frauds. Mr. Day announced he would ask Judge Owens to allow the grand jurors to look at alleged fraudulent ballots found during the recount. Judges Owens and Baldwin indicated they would allow this.

Charles H. Mitchell, attorney for the election board, who has given a decision that the commissioners would commit a misdemeanor if they permitted the ballot boxes to be reopened except for a recount, announced he would stand by his opinion.

"The Appellate court opinion is plain," said Mitchell, "and if the commissioners ignore the law I will resign and will file informations against them myself."

"The election board will not stoop to quibble and try to block the grand jury investigation," said Chief Clerk Stewart. "We will give every assistance possible."

Commissioner Czarnecki said if Judge Owens issued the order for the opening of the ballot boxes he would do it himself and take the brunt of any possible prosecution.

All Ward Committeemen Called.

Subpœnas were issued last night for all the ward committeemen of the Republican the Democratic parties to appear before the board and testify in the fraud investigation.

Ald. Kenna and Senator Frank P. Brady will be the first to appear. They will testify this morning or this afternoon.

Judges and clerks from the Forty-eighth precinct of the Twenty-first ward will be called today to explain conditions in what Commissioner Czarnecki characterized as the "worst precinct in the city." The recount has shown a discrepancy of fifty-two votes and Dennis Maloney, a Democratic clerk, admitted he had allowed a policeman to do the tallying on election night and that there had been many examples of carelessness in the precinct.

CALUMET HARBOR PUT UP TO DUNNE

Kleeman Bill Passed by House and Is Sent Over for Signature.

CHANGE O'CONNOR PLAN.

One Amendment Retains Present Powers for Sanitary District Board.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]—The Kleeman Calumet harbor bill, as amended in the senate, was passed by the house tonight by a vote of 103 to 14. It now goes to the governor for his signature.

Representatives of the Calumet district are asserting that Gov. Dunne in his primary campaign and in his preëlection speeches in South Chicago promised he would sign such a bill as the Kleeman act if he got a chance and they expect his signature at the proper time.

Governor May Ask Hearings.

It is understood, however, that Gov. Dunne approaches the Calumet harbor proposition with an open mind, as one of his close lieutenants said tonight, and that it is possible there will be a complete hearing on all interests before the bill is acted upon by him.

Gov. Deneen refused to sign a similar bill during the last session of his administration, although it had been passed through both houses.

Change Outer Harbor Bill.

The O'Connor outer harbor bill was called up on second reading in the house by Representative Kleeman immediately after the senate amendments to the Kleeman bill had been agreed to. Amendments inserted by the committee of which Representative Kleeman is the chairman, were adopted. They provide that the sanitary district shall retain its original privilege of building wharves and docks within the city of Chicago irrespective of any action which the city may take in building the outer harbor under the terms of the O'Connor bill.

Corrects Former Measure.

Representative Kleeman says this was a provision of the outer harbor bill passed two years ago and omitted by mistake from the O'Connor bill. He says that it is a protection to the Calumet harbor measure as a matter of fact.

The O'Connor bill is scheduled for passage tomorrow if it can get to a roll call, although Representative Shanahan, chairman of the appropriation committee, served notice that he would not give way longer to measures of general interest and defer the appropriation bills.

PUTS AND CALLS BILL WINS

Chicago Board of Trade Measure Passes in Illinois House.

NOW UP TO THE GOVERNOR.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]—The "puts and calls" bill, a trouble maker in every session of the legislature for the last eight years, was passed by the house tonight and goes now to the governor for his action.

The bill legalizes puts and calls on the board of trade declared illegal by the act of the legislators several years ago. It is the bill offered by Senator A. C. Clark, over which John Hill Jr. stirred up the trouble which resulted in his summons before the bar of the senate.

Hill Warned by Senate.

The result of this hearing was the warning from the senate that Mr. Hill should not again intimate that questionable tactics had been employed in pushing the passage of the bill.

Mr. Hill wanted to know, he said, why board of trade men had raised a fund to enhance the trip of the measure through the legislature. The evidence was that a fund was collected, but it was not shown that any of it had been used improperly at Springfield. Mr. Hill, only last week, reiterated his questions as to the why and wherefore of the fund, but the senate took no action.

Opposed by Downstate Men.

The bill was passed by the house without a whimper, although twenty-four negative votes were cast against it. Most of these came from downstate members, who were in the last house and stood with Speaker Adkins in his winning fight against the passage of the bill. It is a matter of legislative history that Speaker Adkins "sat in" on the bill, and, holding the gavel, refused to let it come to a final vote in the house.

Friends of the bill say it will be signed by the governor. Representative Frank McNichols handled the bill in the house, backed up by Representative Harry L. Shaver.

DEATH TAKES LORD AVEBURY.

MRS. YOUNG NAMES CAREY AND KENNA

HUTTMANN'S PART IN IT.

it done, the agent, a friend, and an alderman?"

Mrs. Young was asked to give the name of these three men. She said James Plunkett was the agent, Thomas Carey the friend, and Mr. Kenna of the First ward the alderman.

"I stood out against recommending the Eaton speller," Mrs. Young continued, "because, so far as the list of words was concerned, it was not as good as the book we have. I was asked by two members why I didn't recommend the Eaton book. I said it had never been customary to introduce any book without furnishing an opportunity to every firm that published a book of that kind and wished to enter into competition to send in books. Then the books could be examined and the best one recommended. These gentlemen agreed to that, but as I understood it then, and I have not changed my mind, the intention was to adopt and recommend the Eaton book.

Takes Vote of Teachers.

"I sent out a questionnaire to the teachers and received from 600 teachers replies opposing the present speller, 1,100 were indifferent, 1,300 preferred the one we have, and 600 didn't want any speller at all.

"After considering these replies, I thought, in view of the fact that the board had reported poor spelling—which I believe is no poorer today than it was in our schooldays—I would accept the opinion of the board and the Association of Commerce that the spelling is poor today. So I recommended a new book on the possibility that the spelling of the children might be improved.

"I knew that if I did not recommend the speller desired I should go through all I went through last July and September about the readers. I knew that, because Mr. Plunkett, who told me he would get my scalp—told me that in the rooms of the board of education—was a man who had been listened to by board members and who had induced them to urge the adoption of his speller.

Said He Was in the Mayor's Office.

"Plunkett had an appointment with me, and called up, saying he was in the mayor's office, and asked me to postpone it for half an hour. He called up twice after, and I then instructed my clerk not to put him on my wire again.

"I didn't intend to stand for such maneuvers. He said his friend Carey was going to see the mayor, and he said the mayor wanted me to put in my report on the readers earlier. After much abusive language and such talk as that man used in my office and then up and down the streets with regard to the rejection of his book, I do object to being told that we ought to put his book in in order to have peace."

"What abusive language did he use?" asked Mr. Smietanka.

"Well, he said that he would 'get my scalp,'" replied Mrs. Young, "and he said one other thing that I don't understand. He said I had 'double crossed' him."

President Reinberg then asked Mrs. Young if she really thought Plunkett was in the mayor's office at the time.

"No, I don't think so," she said. "I don't believe the mayor keeps any man in his office an hour."

Trustee Smietanka asked Mrs. Young who the two members of the board were who had asked her to recommend Plunkett's book.

"They were Mr. Huttmann and Mr. Harding," she said. "Mr. Huttmann asked that Plunkett's book be recommended in order to have peace. We all know Mr. Harding's devotion to the cause of labor. He said he would like the book in order to have a book printed by union printers in Chicago."

Peterson-Vincent Clash.

"The superintendent's report was opposed by Vincent, who is known to be friendly to the company whose book is being dropped," said Peterson. "I attached little importance to this person when he first opposed it, and I attach still less importance to him now.

"Irreparable injury has been done by this Vincent to the reputations of the members of the board by his statements in the newspapers. I for one shall seek from this man such redress as the courts will give. I don't suppose I will get much, for, like his prototypes of the Black Hand, he fires from ambush.

"I have the greatest respect for Mrs. Young and the other members of this board. For this person I have not a trace of respect."

Reply by Mr. Vincent.

"I would like to answer the false, spiteful and contemptible remarks just made," said Mr. Vincent.

"I am in my third year as a member of this board. I have tried to be frank and open always. I admit that Mr. Helmar, agent of the American Book company, is a friend of mine, but not in a business way. I have opposed the change in spellers because I am opposed to changing any school books. I believe any competent teacher can teach from any competent book. In regard to the gentleman's (Mr. Peterson's) suggestion that he will seek redress in the courts I will welcome him with bloody hands to a hospitable grave.

"Now the newspaper men are assembled here and I am very glad of an opportunity to say to everybody, except Peterson, that I have never used the word graft in any interview, that I have never charged any member of this board with graft.

What He Said to "The Tribune."

"Last Sunday I consented to give an interview with THE TRIBUNE, which was written out, and in which I said distinctly that I didn't believe there was a single member of this board who could be influenced by money. If I knew then what I do now I probably would have made one exception.

"We are discussing personal matters—let me say something else. I did not know that this resolution last week would come up in the absence of Dean Sumner. I asked that it be postponed two weeks because of the absence of Dean Sumner, who had to come here at his own expense—$60 railroad fare, which is no small item to him. I did not receive the courtesy of a second to that motion. It is an unfortunate thing that for the first time in my life, at my age in public affairs, it rests in the mouth of a man who has not long been a member of this board to insinuate, directly or indirectly, that I have been dishonest.

"Mr. Chairman, I insist that I am the wronged man. I insist that the people who were at that meeting have treated me discourteously—those people with whom I have tried so hard to be patient. I have told the truth, and you can verify it. I say it is unkind, it is wicked, it is shameful, it is malicious."

For Mandatory Spelling.

There was trouble in the meeting when the resolution of Robert J. Roulston, that spelling be made mandatory in the schools, was brought up. Roulston asserted that newspaper statements that he had not read the resolution when he presented it, were untrue, and that he was no one's "rubber stamp."

Alfred R. Urion asserted that the adoption of the resolution would publish to the world that Chicago was far behind all other large cities in educational development. He read from the school course of study showing that spelling was mandatory in all the grades. He said it was calling down unjust criticism on the school system.

Dean Sumner asked that the resolution be sent back to the school management committee.

Vote on Loeb Resolution.

Trustee Loeb introduced the resolution providing for an inquiry into whether the board shall issue its own school speller. The resolution was adopted. Alfred R. Urion, Dean Sumner, Mr. Vincent, Mr. Smietanka, and Thomas Kelly voted against it. Those who voted for it were Peter Reinberg, Mr. Harding, C. O. Sethness, Harry Lipsky, Mrs. MacMahon, Mr. Loeb, Mr. Huttmann, William Rothmann, Dr. O. F. Warning, Mr. Roulston, M. J. Collins, and Mr. Peterson.

Afterward Mr. Urion said:

"When school book agents, labor agitators, and would be politicians select the course of study, the text books, and the firm that shall manufacture them it will be a sorry day for people who have children in school. If the resolution is effective all these things will be made possible. Indeed, it is made mandatory on the superintendent of schools to do the bidding of them all."

The vacation schools to be opened are as follows: Agassiz, Burnside, Burr, Copernicus, Dante, Gladstone, Graham, Green, Hamline, Holden, Jackson, Jenner, Jungman, Marquette, McCormick, Raymond, Smyth, Talcott, J. N. Thorp, Von Humboldt, and Washington.

I. AND R. BILL DEAD BEYOND REVIVAL

Death Warrant Signed When Republicans Fail to Attend Caucus.

SESSION TO END JUNE 18.

Satisfactory Compromise Agreed To Regarding Teachers' Pension Bill.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]—The initiative and referendum resolution is past revival, in the judgment of nearly everybody, including the governor and his advisers. The last hope went glimmering when the Republicans failed to get more than twenty-five members to caucus tonight on the compromise proposition coming from the governor's office. There was also a postponement of the Progressive caucus called for tonight for the same purpose.

The Republican caucus went over until Tuesday and the disposition is to do nothing. The Progressives will not act until the Republicans have played their hole card.

The Democrats are split wide open and cannot be lined up solidly while the legislative calendar is in its present state.

Session May End June 18.

The sine die resolution for adjournment on June 18 was introduced in the senate by Senator Jones this morning and probably will be adopted. It provides for the last roll call on the passage of bills on June 18 and a recess until the last day of the month, while the governor has the ten days for acting on bills before him. All bills not passed by June 18 would die automatically.

June 18 falls on Wednesday. This means that all bills to pass must be put through second reading not later than Tuesday, June 17, and means, in substance, that all bills which do not get out of committee this week in the house in which they originated are dead without further ado.

This was the feeling evidenced tonight, and the last effort to push bills out of committee will be made tomorrow. The banks and banking committee of the senate has been called for 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and probably will report out the Waage private banks bill, amended so as to be substantially satisfactory.

Teachers' Pension Agreed On.

The teachers' pension fund came out of the education committee on both sides, amended so as to be satisfactory as a compromise to all conflicting interests. It provides for an executive commission of nine, six teachers and three members of the board of education, with the chairman of the finance committee of the board chairman of the commission. This closes one of the tightest fights of the session.

The registered nurses bill, which had encountered strong opposition in certain quarters, went to third reading in the house after friendly amendments curing the objections of those who had raised substantial points, and is likely now to be passed without great difficulty.

The senate passed the house bill appropriating $10,000 for the expenses of the Butts investigating committee to open up the conditions surrounding the voting machine proposition in Chicago. The committee may be named tomorrow. The senate members will be named by the executive committee and the house membership by Chairman Watson of the elections committee.

The senate appropriations committee today went on record in favor of the $200,000 item for the maintenance of the College of Physicians and Surgeons in Chicago as a part of the University of Illinois.

The senate election committee voted to seat Senator Kent E. Keller of Ava, whose seat was contested from the Murphysboro district.

Chicago Election Bill.

Agreement has been reached which means, probably, the passage of a nonpartisan election bill applicable only to aldermen in Chicago. The final draft of the bill will come down from Chicago on Tuesday.

The Pennsylvania-Burlington union depot bill, authorizing the incorporation of a $50,000,000 company to build a passenger station, was signed by the governor today.

The administration fish and game bill, amended in many particulars and hardly recognizable as the original bill, was passed in the senate this morning. A much amended bill was reported out of the house committee.

A much amended county civil service bill went to third reading in the senate today after an hour of wrangling debate. Its real test comes on its passage.

Senator O'Connor presented a bill for $339,000 agreed upon by the appropriations committee as proper for the rebuilding of the levees at Ciaro, Shawneetown, and Mound City.

The twin Butts bills abolishing capital punishment were made a special order on third reading for Tuesday in the house. Following this nothing will be considered but appropriation bills.

PUBLIC TO SEE MORGAN ART.

New York, May 28.—The art treasures collected by the late J. Pierpont Morgan are to be placed on view for the American public as soon as arrangements can be completed, it was announced today at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in this city.

The art objects, numbering about 4,100, will be exhibited temporarily in one of the museum's new wings, now nearly ready for occupancy, early in 1914, according to present plans.

Eventually it is expected the exhibit in its entirety will find a home in another and larger wing of the museum now building.

COL. LEWIS MADE WHIP OF SENATE

CHOICE OF PARTY CAUCUS.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois was elected assistant Democratic leader of the senate today, with the duties of a parliamentary whip. He was the unanimous choice of the caucus of Democratic senators.

Long ago it was prophesied that the advent of him of the lambent whiskers would upset senatorial traditions and cause a number of the oldest inhabitants of the "greatest deliberative body in the world" to tingle with new sensations.

Well, so it has, so it has.

The senate never had a whip before in all the 124 years of its history and never before was a fledgling senator elected to anything.

Points Out Grave Symptoms.

Col. Lewis had not been in the senate six weeks before he discovered all was not well with the state of the nation, that the Democratic party in the senate did not appear to be getting anywhere. It was encountering opposition, was slipping down hill on its legislative program, and was failing to get confirmation of sundry appointments of lifelong Democrats.

The senator declared the whole Democratic machine antiquated and urged the adoption of up to date methods. He proposed more team work, particularly on the confirmations, and suggested the creation of a whip to take charge of the operations.

Senator Thomas of Colorado carried the suggestion to President Wilson, by whom it was approved. Then in the Democratic caucus Senator Lewis outlined more fully his plan of solidifying the majority forces and bowling over Republican obstruction of legislation and confirmations.

Declines Honor from Lewis.

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]—Senator Walter Clyde Jones tonight respectfully declined the federal job which United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis, apparently, was about to offer to him.

Washington dispatches indicated that Senator Lewis had taken cognizance of the services of Senator Jones and Senator Hugh S. Magill in settling the late Illinois senatorial deadlock and had initiated arrangements to have them appointed by the president as members of the Mississippi waterways committee.

Senator Jones sent to Senator Lewis this telegram:

"Thank you for your kindness in suggesting my name in connection with the Mississippi improvement committee, but would be unable to accept that or any other appointment."

SAYS "NO" TO REPUBLICANS

Progressive Party in National House Spurns Amalgamation.

INTENDS TO KEEP UP FIGHT.

Extends Welcome Hand to All Those Who Favor Social Justice.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—The Progressive party in the house of representatives went on record today in opposition to the amalgamation with the Republicans proposed in the recent Chicago and Washington conferences of leaders of the Republican party.

At a meeting presided over by Progressive Leader Murdock it was asserted that the party is growing phenomenally and that it offers the only refuge for progressive Republicans and Democrats.

The resolutions adopted recited that "at the several recent so-called Republican harmony meetings a few of the many abuses committed by the reactionary leaders of the Republican party were openly confessed and the fundamental reasons for the formation of the new party made doubly apparent."

Progressives Call for Recruits.

It was pointed out that the Progressives have a distinct program of legislation for social betterment. The resolution concluded:

> The Progressives of the Sixty-third congress, in open conference, moved by the deep conviction of the permanency of the Progressive party, hereby extend to the progressive men and women of all parties a sincere invitation to join the Progressive party, which, unallied now and for all time with anything reactionary, stands for social and industrial justice for every man, woman, and child in this great nation, and as a living protest against the evil influence of special privilege.

Plan of Fusion Spurned.

"All the old party is about to do now is hold a post-mortem," observed Representative Murdock. "I for one will never go back to the Republican party, and I believe the rank and file of Republicans will come to us."

"There can be no amalgamation of the Progressive and Republican parties at the top," said Representative Hinebaugh of Illinois, who offered the resolution. "Murdock, Payne, and Cummins never could get together. The only amalgamation possible would be at the bottom. But there are no signs of amlagmation being desired by the rank and file of the Pregressives."

GOOD ROADS BILL ADVANCED TO THIRD READING IN HOUSE.

Amendments Made to Meet Objections to Some Features Likely to Insure Passage of Measure.

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—The state aid good roads bill under which the state automobile license funds will be distributed to the counties for the construction of main highways was advanced to third reading in the house today after second reading consideration lasting several hours, during which several important amendments were adopted.

The bill was made a special order on the house calendar for next Thursday and indications are that the measure will pass.

As finally advanced the bill retains the chief feature of state aid on the main highways which shall be constructed under the approval of the state highway commission.

The counties are to put dollar for dollar toward the construction of the state aid roads, which are to be turned over to the state for perpetual maintenance after they are once improved.

Representative Tice offered an amendment by which the three highway commissioner system as it now obtains in the townships of the state was left unchanged, but the people of a township have the right to vote to reduce the number to one if they choose.

One of the big fights of the day was on an amendment offered by Representatives F. B. Roos and J. J. O'Rourke from the country towns around Chicago guaranteeing that Cook county would get at least 50 per cent of the money it pays for automobile licenses and toward the general state tax for good roads. The opposing forces agreed upon a compromise by which Cook county is guaranteed 25 per cent of its donation to the state aid fund.

"OBSERVER" ON HUERTA'S COUP.

In today's TRIBUNE appears an article by "Observer" on Mexico. The article describes the course of the Huerta coup d'etat and the astonishing plot leading up to the overthrow of Madero and his murder. It interprets the otherwise mysterious events of the "revolution" of Felix Diaz and his subsequent obscuration. It also points significantly to the American embassy as a factor in events tempting further inquiry.

AT EACH OTHER'S WEASANDS.

The Balkan confederacy, for other than the military necessities of a campaign against the enemy of all four nations, was an unstable thing in the beginning, cemented with gunpowder. It was fortunate further in finding that strategy mapped out four theaters of war and gave each nation its separate part.

Bulgarian, Servian, and Greek have fought each the other two for years over territory which now is free of the Turk and up for delimitation. Men who know the difficulties have thought that hostilities would be avoided for the present, owing more to the necessity for recuperation than to anything else, but were confident they could not be in the future when granaries were full again, wounds healed, and the war chest heavy once more.

The fact that armies face each other in the territories in dispute is the worst circumstance. An act of aggression in the field may defeat the aims of considerate statesmanship in the capitals.

PROTECT THE MURDERED ALSO.

Without dogmatically asserting that the repeal of the death penalty will remove a powerful deterrent to the crime of murder, we cannot help noticing the strength that accrues to sentimental measures of doubtful value compared to the movement for undoubted constructive reform.

If the bill to save murderers from the fate which they maliciously brought to others does not pass the general assembly, it will not be for lack of enthusiastic supporters.

These supporters, so anxious to preserve the lives of murderers, extend little or no effort to make murders less common and less safe. They do not labor to increase the efficiency of the police in the eradication of crime or to increase the swiftness and certainty of the course of justice.

It is timely to remind the American people that in their very excellent sentimentality they ignore to a dangerous degree the practical administration of public affairs, and that it is to this lack of common sense that a large part of our evils is due.

THE REGISTERED NURSE.

There are, according to the best obtainable statistics, 20,000 trained nurses practicing in the United States who have obtained a thorough preparation for their work in hospitals. There are, on the other hand, from five to ten times as many other women practicing as trained nurses whose education and training are limited to a correspondence school course or something equally unsatisfactory.

At present there is no standard by which the really trained nurse can be distinguished offhand from the nurse of mediocre or no training. In smaller communities the family in need of the services of a nurse can, through personal inquiry, distinguish between the capable nurse and the one who is only half prepared. In a city like Chicago, where each person, not to speak of each family, is a world unto itself, this is much more difficult.

For the protection of the sick who wish and are able to employ the best and nothing but the best nursing a bill has been introduced in the state legislature which, if it becomes a law, will standardize nursing and will make it extremely easy to distinguish the highest grade in the nursing profession. The bill is senate No. 312 and house No. 499. By the terms of the bill a state board of nurse examiners is created and is given power to examine and inspect the various hospitals where nurses are trained. The board is also empowered to "outline and establish a course of instruction to be followed by accredited schools for nurses." Graduates from these schools, and all others who can show satisfactory evidence that they have received a training equivalent to the standard prescribed by this board, will then come up for examination before the board. Upon satisfactorily passing this examination a certificate as a "registered nurse" will be issued to each candidate and will entitle him or her to append the letters R. N. to his or her name.

The state board of examiners by the provisions of this bill are not to interfere with "any person nursing the sick for hire who does not in any way assume or pretend to be a registered nurse." Those persons who either cannot afford or are not in need of the services of a registered nurse will not suffer by this standardizing of the nursing profession, as they will be free to employ nurses of partial training. The person, on the other hand, who is able to employ the best and most scientific service will know where to find it. All he will need to do to make sure that the nurse he engages is of high standing in her profession is to ask her to produce her certificate as a registered nurse, her R. N. degree.

The bill is eminently fair to both the nursing profession and the public. It gives the highest credit where the highest credit is due. The nurse who has spent three arduous years preparing for her work is given due recognition, while the partly trained nurse, for whom there is a great demand and a large field of usefulness, is not prevented from earning a livelihood.

WAIT.

Chicago has waited many years for railroad terminals of decent appearance and adequate capacity. Now, it will do the railroads no harm to wait a few months. To ask the city council, with the little knowledge the aldermen have, to accept plans is to ask the city, blindfolded, to buy something on the glib professions of a plausible salesman. If the city were to decide now it would be by chance alone that it would satisfy its interests.

LIGHT IN THE SOUTHWEST.

THE TRIBUNE has expressed its views in opposition to the full crew bill pending in the Illinois legislature, a measure obnoxious to right principles of public utilities regulation, injurious to the public, and bound to react upon railroad employés themselves in the long run.

In this view the governor of Oklahoma concurs. He has just vetoed a full crew bill passed in that state, and in his veto message said some sensible things respecting legislation of this kind which should be pondered prayerfully by many legislators who think they are protecting public interest by ill considered measures. Here they are:

> Another thing I have learned to believe is that those who have made a lifetime study of railroad operations are better judges of the proper method of operating them than I am, and I believe that this is equally true when applied to a majority of the members of any legislative body. The trouble in Oklahoma is, and has ever been, that in dealing with public service corporations we have assumed to know more about how properly to operate them than those who have given the matter careful study. Public service corporations need to be regulated and need to be controlled. Oklahoma has undertaken to do this by the creation of a corporation commission, and has clothed that commission with unusual authority in dealing with such matters. That commission, after having studied this question, is better able to place suitable regulations upon the railroads than is the governor or the legislature.

Too many politicians, even some of the most sincere, have assumed that any anti-corporation law is propublic. That has often been a blunder costly to the public. The full crew bill is not in the public interest and should be defeated. It is an example of how not to regulate public service in the public interest.

A LESSON FROM CALIFORNIA.

In an adjoining column is published today the report of an observer of the California anti-Japanese legislation who was "on the ground" during the whole proceeding and who had given some previous study to conditions in that state. This report strongly corroborates other evidence tending to show—if, in fact, it does not prove conclusively—that the situation was trumped up for political purposes. Our correspondent, who was nonpartisan and unprejudiced, points out that the legislation finally permitted to pass left the economic position of the great majority of the Japanese virtually as it was before and the material interests of California in Japanese industry uninjured. He reiterates the fact, insisted upon in other well informed quarters, that the Japanese are not increasing nor the nature of their holdings changing, that there was no crisis to be met, and no unusual pressure of public opinion impelling immediate restrictive legislation. There was, indeed, a latent opposition and even dislike to the Japanese among the people at large, the always present hostility of organized labor in fear of competition and that of the Asiatic Exclusion party. But these forces were either inactive or no more active than at any other time and nothing had occurred to precipitate the spectacular action which has taken place.

If these reports are true, as there is good reason to believe, we have to reflect that a piece of political tactics has raised prematurely and unnecessarily a question of the greatest national and international delicacy and gravity. That question is named and discussed frankly in the London Times. It involves principles of national sovereignty and international right. It involves policies political, military, economic, and social affecting many nations and hundreds of millions of men. It raises, in their most embarrassing forms and at a most inopportune time, issues profoundly affecting our future as to our foreign commerce—which more and more must be considered in our national polity—and our international relations with the Pacific powers.

That all this should be brought about by a piece of very cheap partisan tactics and without any apparent consideration of the situation to be created is a matter for deep concern and humiliation. It discloses a very grave defect of the federal system and a very serious need for measures to prevent any future precipitation of dangerous and far-reaching complications by small groups, cliques, or interests operating upon the too responsive powers of a state. That California has acted within her constitutional rights emphasizes the unpleasant potentialities of this situation.

LANDSLIDES in the Culebra cut, however, are believed to have no political significance.

THIS episode in northern Michigan may be the means of spreading abroad more widely the information that in "Ishpeming" the accent is on the "Ish."

WHEN the fact becomes generally known that Denver has on its tourist circuit "the largest railroad tunnel on the North American continent," honeymoon trips by any other route will be a rarity.—Omaha Bee.

Honeymoonstruck couples care little for the size of a tunnel. Can you tell them that it is the longest tunnel?

HEALTH IS WEALTH

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

BUYING MEAT.

WE are great meat eaters in this part of the world. In spite of everything that will be said, in spite of the prices that will prevail, we shall continue to be heavy meat eaters. However, we should take the trouble to be discriminating meat eaters, and that we are not now.

About one-third of the cost of food for an American family is spent for meat, and yet we blindly order one of a small number of cuts and leave the balance of the animal in little demand.

Hall and Emmett of the University of Illinois (Illinois state bulletin No. 158) say that one-quarter of the weight of the carcass (loins and ribs) sells for one-half of the total selling price of the carcass. In other words, the failure of the people to buy other parts just about doubles the price of porterhouse and sirloin.

The "tastier" portions of the meat are those in the neighborhood of bones. The great health need is for greater consumption of fiber, skin, and tendon, and yet the premium is put upon muscle fiber—the portion which is only "tasty" and individual in flavor when a skillful cook seasons it with substances to give it savor.

Hall and Emmett had a set of animals slaughtered under their eyes. They then cut the carcasses according to the approved lines of division. They next determined the amount of lean, fat, and waste per pound in every cut.

From this, using the retail market price of the different cuts, they estimated the cost per pound of nutritious elements in each cut. They found that when a woman buys porterhouse hip bone at 25 cents she pays 29 cents for the usable food purchased. At the other end of the line was hind shank, middle cut (soup bone), selling at 5 cents and worth 6.3 cents. In between came porterhouse, regular price 25 cents, cost 27.2 cents; sirloin (round bone), 20 cents, cost 21.1 cents; round steak (first cut), 15 cents, cost 15.3 cents; roast beef (rump), 12 cents, cost 12.8 cents, and round pot roast, 10 cents, cost 10.1 cents.

On the whole, the data clearly show that the cheaper cuts of beef are by far the most economical sources both of lean and of lean and fat. Not only did they find that the food value is not in relation to price but there is no relation between flavor and cost. Furthermore, cooking tests showed that waste and shrinkage are not necessarily greater in the cheaper cuts.

In buying for the lean, the neck, shanks, and clods head the list, and rump, rib, and loin bring up in the rear from the standpoint of fuel value. The flank, plate, neck, and shank are cheapest at the price, and rib, loin, and roast are the most expensive. From the standpoint of all combined, clod, chuck, and plate hold the head of the list.

It would be worth a good deal to farmer and consumer to have this bulletin in everybody's hands.

LINSEED TEA NOT INJURIOUS.

"Miss Anxious" writes: "Will the continued use of linseed tea with lemon be in any way injurious? I have found it a relief for indigestion."

REPLY.

GOOD GENERAL EFFECT.

O. P. writes: "Is a reasonable treatment of the surface of the heart and chest in a daily morning and evening self-massage all over the body (by a long handled fibre brush in the back) conducive to a regular activity of that organ, and apt to be a protection against heart failure or paralysis? I am 76 years old."

REPLY.

To massage your skin in the way indicated will have a good stimulating general effect. In cold weather be careful not to carry the exposure to cold water and cold air beyond your reacting capacity. If you do not come out of it in a glow the massage is doing you no good. It will have no special effect in preventing paralysis or heart failure.

CURE FOR CANKER.

J. N. writes: "Would it not be well enough to add to your acid prescription for canker for the use of children, and especially sensitive people, listerine? I do not know whether all cankers are of the same breed or whether listerine would help all. But in my own case I put on listerine probably ten times, and the canker is subdued. I do this as soon as a canker appears, and do not allow it to get troublesome."

REPLY.

Cankers get well of themselves. Cure after ten applications of listerine is scarcely prompt action. A canker is a weather vane, an index, a measure. It means that one is eating indiscreetly—too much of something or too little of something. The proper cure for canker is to change the eating habits.

LITTLE KNOWN OF RAYNAUD'S.

J. M. T. writes: "Will you more fully explain Raynaud's disease? I arise, eat breakfast, and depart for work hurriedly. For about two hours my fingers are white and numb, although the circulation seems all right when I get up and eat breakfast. I work in a warm building and wear canvas gloves. Could this be a form of anæmia or heart disease? This condition developed last fall."

REPLY.

Little is known about Raynaud's disease. It is supposed to be due to a spasm of the circular muscle fibers in the small blood vessels of the affected part. It is generally worse in winter. It affects the fingers or the toes or the ear or the nose—exposed locations.

There is nothing that you can do except to keep your hands, feet, ears, and nose warm, unless you wish your physician to experiment on you with some of the ductless gland secretions. It does not especially endanger life.

So much for the more typical forms. Osler thinks some of the milder disturbances of sensation—unexplainably cold feet, hands, toes, and fingers—are mild manifestations of Raynaud's.

DOCTOR BETTER THAN PAMPHLET.

G. B. F. writes: "I inclose herewith a pamphlet describing a compound called 'Aphro,' which is guaranteed to do wonders in building up the human system. Could you give me any information as to its reliability, etc.? I have a friend in a badly run down condition who is thinking of trying it, but I advised him to get your opinion before trying it."

REPLY.

The pamphlet does not inspire confidence. A badly run down condition might mean anything. Have your friend go to his physician and find out what is the trouble. If he finds that he needs goat lymph he will give it to him. There is no particular mystery about the medicine. It is not necessary to go to advertising doctors for it. Any physician can give it.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1913: By the Brentwood Company.]

WHEN one finds a baronet of old lineage serving drinks from behind the bar of a country town saloon—public houses as they are called in Great Britain—it usually means that he has come down in the world and met with reverses.

This it not, however, the case with Sir Henry Echlin, eighth baronet of his house, who has just given up his license as publican of the Seven Stars, at Bledlow, in Buckinghamshire, at the end of a seven year endeavor to make the place pay sufficient to furnish the means of livelihood for himself, Lady Echlin, and his 20 year old daughter, Margaret.

Sir Henry, whose elder brother, Thomas, and predecessor in the title, was a private in the ranks of the Irish constabulary, began life as a footman to the late Sir Gerald Aylmer at Donadea castle, in County Kildare, and in London.

Afterwards he enlisted as a private in the Second Lifeguards, but deserted, and then joined the Liverpool police, where he used to see his name printed every day in the Police Gazette as a deserter, and was instructed, along with the other members of the police force, to look out for the capture and arrest of the fugitive—that is to say, of himself.

Eventually he surrendered to the military authorities. The officers composing the court martial were so hugely entertained with the idea of his being set to catch himself that they let him off with a merely nominal punishment.

Subsequently he became barman in a public house—that is to say, saloon—and, in course of time, managed to get set up in business for himself by one or another of the great breweries or gin distilleries, and has kept in turn the Wheelwrights' Arms at Marlow, the Criterion at Windsor, the Rupert Arms at Reading, the Red Lion at High Wycombe, the Rose and Crown at Woburn, and, last of all, the Seven Stars in Bledlow.

Sir Henry's daughter is a school teacher, and, as such, possessed of a considerably greater amount of education than her parents, whose training is that which is customary in people of the domestic servant and bartender class. He has no sons, and on his death his baronetcy will go to his only brother, John Echlin, who until recently was station master of a small village station on the Midland railroad of Ireland, but has now a minor place in the Dublin offices of that company.

John has three sons, all of them grown up, so that there is little prospect of the title becoming extinct. One of his sisters, Emily by name, makes her home on this side of the Atlantic, being married to an American farmer of the name of Bernard Norton of Ann Arbor, Mich.

It seems difficult to realize that there is any one living today who is able to describe as an eyewitness that remarkable scene which took place at St. Petersburg in 1825, when Nicholas I., shortly after his accession, showed himself suddenly and quite alone amidst the mob of insurgents who crowded the vast plaza in front of the Winter palace clamoring for his death, in order that his elder brother, Grand Duke Constantine, might take his place.

Nicholas knew that he could not rely upon the troops, whose loyalty was wavering. It was only by a coup de théater that he could save the situation.

This coup was his appearance, without a single attendant, among the crowd, which he dominated by his enormous stature.

Taking advantage of the sudden silence caused by his dramatic advent upon the scene, in a voice the metallic tones of which could be heard far and wide, he ordered the crowd to its knees. In a moment the people obeyed, and the insurrection was at an end.

The survivor of this historic spectacle is the venerable Princess Leonille Sayn-Wittgenstein, née Princess Bariatinski, who, born shortly after the battle of Waterloo, was a girl of 10 and living with her father, a great dignitary of the Russian court, in the Winter palace, from the windows of which she saw the entire affair.

Today, at the age of 98, she lives all the year round at her beautiful villa at Ouchy, near Lausanne, on the beautiful shores of the Lake of Geneva, where, retaining in the most astonishing degree all her mental faculties, her marvelous memory, and a still more surprising physical vigor, she is engaged in the completion of another and final volume of "Reminiscences."

Her villa is a bourne of pilgrimage to many crowned heads and royal and imperial personages, and few of them ever visit Switzerland without calling upon her.

Thus the dowager Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, herself nearly a nonagenarian and the only surviving granddaughter of King George III. of England, has lately been paying her a visit.

One of the old princess' most intimate friends and constant visitors was the late Empress Augusta of Germany, who made numerous stays at the Sayn-Wittgenstein villa at Ouchy.

The so-called Decembrist insurrection of 1825 at St. Petersburg was not the only one that the aged princess has witnessed. She was in Paris when the revolution of July broke out in 1830, which drove King Charles X. and his infant grandson, Henry V., into exile, and resulted in the accession to the throne of the Duke of Orleans, as King Louis Philippe.

Then, again, in 1848, she was at Berlin, and was a witness of the scene when King Frederick William IV. and his queen were obliged by the mob to stand on the balcony of their palace, the king bareheaded, in token of respect to the dead bodies of the insurgents killed by the bullets of the royal troops.

In 1870 the princess was at Coblentz with Empress Augusta, who, yearning above everything else for the restoration of peace with France, asked her if there was not one person whom she knew in France who would have the power, the prestige, and the authority, in behalf of that nation to initiate negotiations for peace with Emperor William and Prince von Bismarck at Versailles.

The princess mentioned the famous Mgr. Dupanloup, bishop of Orleans. Empress Augusta was delighted, and obtained an intimation from Emperor William and from Prince von Bismarck at Versailles that they would welcome any steps that the bishop might take in that direction, and also that he would be most acceptable as a negotiator.

Princess Sayn-Wittgenstein left Coblentz, accompanied to the railroad station by Empress Augusta and provided with all sorts of German safe conducts, in order to personally urge the bishop at Orleans and at Tours to undertake the mission.

However, by the time that the princess had reached Orleans she received a telegram from Augusta stating that the bishop would no longer be acceptable as an emissary of peace, in view of the fact that a few days previously he had issued a pastoral letter inciting the members of his diocese, and, indeed, all patriotic Frenchmen, to resist to the last the Prussians, whom he compared to the Huns, likening Emperor William to Attila, who in ancient days was known as "The Scourge of God."

THE defense of the Michigan editor is that he printed the story about Col. Roosevelt "without malice." He gave currency to the charge that T. R. was frequently soshed just as he might have printed, "Forecast for tomorrow, fair and cool."

MALICE, too, is furthest from the thought of the Hon. Did-More Hearst, who, after scanning the testimony, builds the line, in s. h. type, for his first page: "Mint Juleps Tempt Roosevelt."

The Barmecide Banquet for J. U. H.

Honored (unduly) Sir: All arrangements have been completed (Jar 17) for the banquet, May 30, in honor of the late (as usual) J. U. H. It will be held at the lunch counter in the Dearborn street station, which is the place where you mind a Barmecide banquet the least. The speakers will include Walter Moody, Senator (Short) Cummins, Neal Brown, and Frank Lydston. Ed Orr will sing (also Barmecide) "I Go Through All the Motions, but I Never Have the Change," written and composed for Harry Lauder. W. D. Nesbit will read an (alleged) original (alleged) poem, "Why Allow the Speakers to Articulate at All?" As for the toastmaster—leave it to us. Will J. Davis will pour.

If a speller can be found that will teach Cook county how to spell accurately it will be sold "from China to Peru." But no such speller exists, for the simple reason that the science or art of spelling is an innate gift resulting from direct inspiration and nothing else. It is said that a crow can be taught to count up to five, but after that the bird gets tired and quits. Just so it is with unhappy souls who must write through this life with a vest pocket dictionary always at their thumb tips. They can spell up to a certain kind of word and then they balk and finger the dictionary.

POEMS YOU MAY NOT KNOW.
(W. E. Henley.)

Where forlorn sunsets flare and fade
On desolate sea and lonely sand,
Out of the silence and the shade,
What is the voice of strange command
Calling you still, as friend calls friend
With love that cannot brook delay,
To rise and follow the ways that wend

Hark in the city, street on street
A roaring reach of death and life,
Of vortices that clash and fleet
And ruin in appointed strife,
Hark to it calling, calling clear,
Calling until you cannot stay
From dearer things that you own most dear

Out of the sound of the ebb-and-flow,
Out of the sight of lamp and star,
It calls you where the good winds blow,
And the unchanging meadows are:
From faded hopes and hopes agleam,
It calls you, calls you night and day,
Beyond the dark into the dream

NOTICES OF ASSESSMENT.

Chicago, May 23.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The sewer on East One Hundred and Sixth street, between Avenue H and Indianapolis avenue, is practically completed, and also the sewer on Avenue G, between One Hundred and Sixth street and One Hundred and Fifth street. The majority of the property owners on this street have already received notices giving the estimated cost of the sewer for each lot, size of pipe to be used for running sewer to the house, taxes, etc. They have also received notices to put in cement sidewalks.

Will you kindly inform me through your columns why it is I have not received any of these notices? I own two lots on this street, and would like to know what this is going to cost me.
JOHN FEDOSKY.

Under the law all notices of special assessments must be mailed to the name and address, as the same appears on the records, of the party last paying the general taxes on property to be assessed.

In docket No. 36,192, special assessment for sidewalk on Avenue G, from One Hundred and Third street to One Hundred and Sixth street, there is an assessment against the following described property:

In warrant No. 40,363, sewer system, East One Hundred and Sixth street, between Avenue H and Indianapolis avenue, and Avenue G, from 300 feet north of East One Hundred and Fifth street to East One Hundred and Eighth streets, there is an assessment against the above property as follows: Lot 12, $37.50; lot 13, $37.50.

The records show at the time of mailing the notices that the last general taxes on the property were paid by "J. Fedosky by E. F. Eggers, 10,200 Avenue L," and therefore the notices were mailed accordingly.

If the owner of the property will see that his address is properly entered when the general taxes are next paid on his property he will be sure to receive all notices in regard to same.

Both of the above improvements will be completed this year and the assessments will be in collection next January.

All our records in the above proceedings are open to inspection at any time that the property owner may care to call upon us for particulars.

CHANGING A STREET NAME.

Chicago, May 25.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Why should Cherry place be called Hamburg street, when it is a continuation of Shakspeare avenue? X.

Cherry place was changed first because it was a duplicate of Cherry avenue, Cherry place being only one block long, whilst Cherry avenue is three-quarters of a mile long. Cherry place, Hamburg street, and Shakspeare avenue are all practically on the same line, Cherry place being separated from Hamburg street by only one short block, and from Shakspeare avenue by three-eighths of a mile. It was, therefore given the name of the nearest street lying practically on the same line.

There would not, however, be any very serious objection to changing the name to Shakspeare avenue. This, however, can only be done by petition of the majority of the property owners on this street, directed to the city council.

INQUIRIES ABOUT LIGHTS.

Chicago, May 26.—[To the Friend of the People.]—In reply to your request for information we can state that Sixty-second street east of Cottage Grove avenue is in a district which is to be lighted by tungsten lamps. The work of installation is now in progress, and will probably be completed about Aug. 1.

We have investigated the complaint of your correspondent relative to the absence of light in Fifty-second avenue, between Lake street and Madison street. There has been no report of outages of the electric lamps in this location. It is probable the complaint was occasioned by some slight local trouble that adjusted itself without the attention of the repairer.

INSURANCE AND INHERITANCE.

Chicago, May 23.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please tell me: 1. If a lady who has secured a divorce from her first husband and remarried again must have her insurance policy changed to her present name? The policy was taken out before the divorce and made out to her son by the first husband. 2. Can any one else claim the insurance in case of death? 3. Would it be wise for present husband to adopt the child, who is not in this country, and if so, how would we go about it, about how much would it cost, and how long would it take? Would it be necessary to get permission first from former husband? 5. Would the child ever be able to claim any property, money, etc., from the stepfather's death, if he does not adopt him?
A CONSTANT READER.

1. It would be well to notify the insurance company of the divorce and second marriage.
2. No.
3. Adoption is necessary to make the child inherit from the adopted parent. Adoption is obtained by an application to the County or Circuit court. The court costs are about $15. The adoption of the child will be completed in about a month.
4. Yes, the consent of the child's father must be obtained.
5. No, unless the stepfather made a will in favor of the child. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

THE CALIFORNIA SITUATION.

Sacramento, Cal., May 19.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It is difficult to understand how the Japanese question in California can be settled by any measure short of the elimination of Japanese from the state.

The anti-Japanese agitation has its foundation, not in economic conditions, but in racial antipathy. The passage of the anti-Japanese land law with popular approval was possible only because it does not affect economic conditions in any particular, but is a flat, open slap at the Japanese people and the Japanese government.

Another important element in bringing it about was the fact that it enabled a Progressive state administration to take a similar slap at a Democratic national administration.

Two elements in California have been agitating against the Japanese for many years. Union labor is genuinely opposed to the Japanese and is now seeking a referendum on the law passed on the ground that it is not sufficiently effective in injuring the Japanese. The Democrats have gained political credit by their anti-Japanese stand, but have introduced their land bills at each legislative session with the knowledge that they would be killed by the majority. And when, at the last session, they had an opportunity to make the law forbid leases to Japs and thereby drive them out of the state, they "welched," either at the bidding of Bryan or to avoid disturbing the present economic status.

Most of the members of the legislature are necessarily representative of the land holding interests of the state. These interests are profiting dollar for dollar with the Japanese in the Japanese agricultural operations. The avowed spokesmen of these interests, chambers of commerce and real estate boards, passed resolutions during the recent agitation opposing any anti-alien legislation and praising the Japanese as invaluable aids in the development of the grand old state of California. By "necessarily representative of the land holding interests" I mean that almost every one in California is financially interested in the development of some section of raw land.

Leaders of the Progressive party from the Los Angeles district are particularly closely identified with the big corporations which find the Japanese farmers a big asset. They never have been and are not now in favor of interfering with the present status by which they rent $50 an acre land to Japs for $10 an acre per year. And they have passed a law which will not cause them to lose a dollar, which will not relieve a single white farmer of Jap competition or neighbors, but which satisfied the popular demand for a slap at the Japanese.

The Imperial valley, where the richest soil and the hottest climate in California produce the largest crops in the United States, is owned for the most part by Los Angeles business men and corporations. In few cases did the land cost more than $50 an acre to put in cultivation, but it is held at $100 to $200 an acre. I talked to many nonresident owners of Imperial valley lands and found that they would no more think of going down there and farming in summer than an Irish peer would think of digging potatoes in Donegal. Therefore they lease their land to Japs, who demand no houses or other improvements, simply squat on the land and squeeze limit crops out of it.

I traveled all through the Imperial valley, talked to real estate men in each town, and asked them about the Jap situation. Every one of them told me that he did not know of an acre of land in the valley owned by a Jap. Each one testified that the Japs did not want to BUY land, because they could LEASE about ten times as much land as they could BUY, and make big profits each year on every acre of it.

Japanese must be paid as high wages as white men or higher.

During my trip through the Imperial valley I heard no one express the slightest hostility to the Japanese, though there can be no doubt that their competition is felt keenly by those cultivating their own land. While I was in a real estate office in Calexico a Jap came in to hurry up a deal he had on for the leasing of 15,000 acres of land just across the border for the raising of cotton. He said he had all arrangements made for the importation of the coolies from Japan and wanted to close the deal as soon as possible. The land was to be rented from the California-Mexico ranch, owned by Gen. Harrison Gray Otis and his "crowd." It consists of 1,000,000 acres obtained from Mexico for [it is said] about 50 cents an acre and valued at at least $100 an acre. It is cultivated by Chinese coolies working for about 50 cents a day.

Until the Japanese, the administration at Washington, and eastern newspapers stirred up the question and touched the pride of the "sovereign commonwealth of California," the bill was by no means certain of passage. It is claimed that when, in the early stages, a committee from the San Francisco exposition approached Gov. Johnson quietly on the subject he promised them that no anti-Jap bill would be passed.

The agitation, however, aroused an unquestionable anti-Jap feeling and a determination to vindicate at all hazards (almost) the right of the state to pass its laws regardless of Washington or Tokio.

The "almost" refers to the possibility of war with the United States unprepared. The extraordinary action of the president in sending Secretary Bryan to Sacramento convinced a large proportion of the people and of the legislators that Japan was ready for war and threatening war and the United States was unprepared. There was then a general sentiment in favor of postponing action "until the completion of the Panama canal and the strengthening of the fleet in the Pacific."

But Bryan and Jordan refused to give the slightest countenance to any rumor of threats by Japan or danger of war.

Bryan's proposal that California pass a law barring all aliens from holding land was absurd, as any one could have told him. California is spending much money advertising for foreigners to develop its lands.

His proposition then simmered down to a request to the Progressive legislature that it refrain from passing a law which he admitted it had every right to pass, and which the people of the state were clamoring for, and allow the Democratic administration to handle the matter.

His argument was so weak and ineffective that at the end of the first day's conference few of the legislators believed that he had told them his real message yet. They still thought that he had something to tell them of importance and that his cipher message to Wilson and his dense secrecy had something to do with it.

When at the end of the second day they realized that he had nothing to present to them except assurance that war was not impending, the senate met in night session and by unanimous action placed the Webb-Birdsall bill on third reading. The next day on orders from Gov. Johnson, acting at the instance of the big land owning interests of the state, the amendment permitting the leasing of land was introduced.

At this point the Democrats could have killed this amendment and forced the passage of the bill in its most stringent form, but were prevented by Bryan. At this point only did Bryan do something. He was able to do it because practically all the senate Democrats are after federal jobs. His chief supporter has since received the one he sought. J. C.

PLANS REDUCTION FOR TAXPAYERS

Board of Assessors Draws Up Bill to Make Cut of One-Third.

HITS BOARD OF REVIEW.

Prohibits Altering Penalties Imposed for Failure to File Schedules.

One-third will be cut from the personal property taxes of honest taxpayers in this county if the bill drawn by the board of assessors at its meeting yesterday becomes a law. This bill prohibits the board of review from altering the penalties imposed by the board of assessors for failure to file personal property schedules. If it becomes law there will be little work for the reviewers, as all who file schedules swear to their accuracy, and consequently cannot complain of their assessments.

"I believe that this will reduce the tax rate from 1½ to 1 per cent," Assessor Koraleski said: "that is, the tax on $5,000 worth of property will be $50 instead of $75."

Last year the board of review reduced the assessed value of property in the county almost $60,000,000. The county thus lost about $900,000 in taxes.

New Bill in Part.

The bill, in part, is as follows:

"Section 35 (a)—No board of review in any county of this state containing 125,000 or more inhabitants shall have any power or authority by reason of anything in this act contained, or otherwise, to review, revise, increase, reduce, or otherwise change or modify any assessment on personalty made by the board of assessors of such county where the individual or corporation, required by the laws of this state to list or schedule such personalty with such board of assessors, fails or refuses to list such . . . personal property and file such schedule in accordance with the provisions of the revenue laws of this state. All laws and parts of laws inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed."

Another bill also was prepared which will compel the casualty insurance companies to pay taxes on their net receipts. These companies contend that under the present law they are not required to do this.

Both will be presented to the legislature at its present session.

To Investigate Yager.

An investigation has been ordered into the schedule filed by William A. Yager, vice president of the Arms Palace Horse Car company, whose home was robbed and jewelry valued at $20,000 taken last week.

According to Mr. Yager's report to the police, jewelry valued at $20,000 was stolen from his home by thieves. Following the theft Mr. Yager offered a reward of $5,000 for the return of the jewelry. The robbery occurred on May 25.

According to the records in the assessor's office, William A. Yager filed a schedule of his personal property which stated that he had one stickpin valued at $150 and an automobile valued at $1,000. His total assessment is $1,150.

When questioned about it Mr. Yager declared the jewelry was the property of his wife. He said he would be forced to borrow the $5,000 which he offered for the return of the jewelry.

Frank W. Koraleski, secretary of the board of assessors, said it made no difference.

REVEALS LOSSES OF WOMAN IN PIT

FIRM'S BOOKS PRODUCED.

Brother Aids Sister Suing to Recover Money Under Gambling Statute.

Six months' losses of Mrs. Mattie D. Barnard, amounting to $16,937, were disclosed yesterday in the books of Clement, Curtis & Co., brokers, by Arthur Lindley, former office manager. He was testifying in behalf of Mrs. Barnard, who is suing the brokerage firm for $25,000 under the gambling ordinance. Municipal Judge Martin will decide today whether all the brokers' books must be produced.

Lindley, who is now with another brokerage firm, Frank R. M. McMullen, testified this account was kept in two classes of ledgers by Clement, Curtis & Co. One showed only transactions made by Mrs. Barnard and the others the results of the transactions.

Pledged Shares to Trade in Pit.

Mrs. Barnard, who lives at 1519 East Sixty-sixth street, had borrowed $17,000 from the Northern Trust company, depositing as collateral 368 shares of Commonwealth Edison stock. She paid 4½ and 5 per cent on the loan. Later the brokerage firm took up the loan on the same security at 4 per cent, and Mrs. Barnard used the money in board of trade and cotton operations. In January, 1910, the testimony showed, the stock was sold to cover her losses.

W. A. Dubreuil, a brother of Mrs. Barnard, was on the witness stand much of the day. He, too, operated through Clement, Curtis & Co., and today is expected to tell of his losses. He corroborated previous testimony as to the gambling features, saying he had never actually handled nor expected to handle a bushel of wheat or a bale of cotton, though buying and selling these commodities extensively.

Warned by Brother.

Dubreuil admitted he had advised his sister to sell her cotton before delivery date and that he had spoken to Clement about her plunging too deeply and had advised her against dealing so extensively.

He denied that he had asked the brokers to continue his sister's account when it had been decided to close her out.

Burned by Cartridge Explosion.

Charles Stout, 4229 Kenmore avenue, sustained powder burns yesterday and narrowly escaped being wounded when a cartridge with which he was tinkering exploded.

LONDON PAPER ADVISES JAPS TO CUT OUT RACIAL PRIDE.

Standard Suggests That Nippon Treat the California Situation as a Purely Business Matter.

LONDON, May 29.—3 a. m.—In an editorial on the California situation the Standard advises Japan to deal with the question as a purely business matter, rather than to import into it sentiments of offended racial and national pride.

"As the allies of Japan and the firm friends of the United States, the British people would deem it a misfortune of the first magnitude if the negotiations left behind feelings of exasperation on either side," it says.

The Standard proceeds to show that the occidental world is interested in the larger aspects of the question raised by the California land law. In British Columbia, no less than in California, feeling against the settlement of Japanese and Chinese is strong. Australian democracy has its own decided views on the subject, even if the danger of a Japanese invasion is not great.

However, the paper adds, the precedent of unrestricted admission would be dangerous should awakening China demand the same privileges, because a Chinese is a most efficient machine, and has learned, through a grimy struggle for existence in his own overpopulated country, the secret of subsisting on a minimum.

"These considerations," continues the paper, "should be borne in mind when the Japanese talk indignantly of the California attitude as an insult to their nation. The Japanese, if they have undergone a self-examination, must be conscious that race feeling plays no small part in their attitude toward the foreigner."

A Tonic For Your Business— Alco Trucks

Old John Smith has a business his father handed down to him. John is running the business the way the old man did. He has his clerks behind the dusty screen cage in the time-honored but antique office.

His books are kept the way the old man kept them. His salesmen breathe to the customers the old fashioned atmosphere of an old fashioned business. The letterheads are almost a curiosity: they are the vintage of 1880.

Out in the shipping room John's men move about with the lassitude of self-satisfied old gentlemen on a hot summer's afternoon. The men who drive John's horses consume lots of time loading and unloading the wagons. But John says he is satisfied. "Father ran the business this way" he says, "and father was successful."

Since the old man died and the day John took hold, the town has increased in size about 60 per cent. John's business has decreased about 10 per cent. John thinks his horses are all right.

* * *

Across the street is the business house of Henry Cook. Henry and John used to be competitors in business.

There isn't much competition now. Henry is up-to-date—very modern. His office, his salesmen, his books, his goods, all show the mark of progress. He has adding machines, cash registers, corner cutting systems.

Men going back and forth through the offices move with celerity. Out in the shipping room there is hustle.

Backed up to the shipping platform is a row of Alco motor trucks. Each has a quickly removable body. There is an extra body for every truck and while the truck is out making deliveries, the extra body is loaded; and when the truck comes in, the empty body is taken off and the loaded body placed on the truck in less than five minutes. The truck is then off again with scarcely a moment's loss of time. Henry thus eliminates a waste common to many businesses, one which for instance runs up John's cost a great deal. But, of course, John does not know of this, as he has no cost system to inform him.

Henry is doing a nice business now. He has grown with the town. He does about four times the business John does. He covers about four times the business territory John does, because his Alco trucks lead him into new fields which John could not reach by horses. People like to do business with Henry. He is responsive, alert and keeps his delivery promises.

* * *

John Smith and Henry Cook are common almost to every city. John needs a tonic for his business. He could tone up his business immensely if he would purchase Alco trucks and go out and get some of this trade that Henry has so steadily attracted away from him.

Alco trucks are often a remedy. They liven up things. The boys that drive them are smarter, faster workers and they in turn speed up the shipping department.

The shipping boys speed up the office and the office speeds up the salesmen and everybody gets more business. Speed, more speed, is what all the John Smiths need today. They need Alco trucks—a tonic for your business. Let us show you.

The First Cocoa

The first cocoa ever made for drinking and cooking purposes, was prepared by C. J. Van Houten in 1828. From that time to this, Van Houten's Cocoa has been pre-eminent—because of it's rich, chocolate flavor. It's the original Dutch process Cocoa.

All the way from Holland comes this pleasing Dutch nutriment, so that you, too, now can enjoy it.

VAN HOUTEN'S DUTCH COCOA

Van Houten's Dutch Cocoa costs less than domestic Cocoas because it goes twice as far. One-half a teaspoonful makes a cup of this delightful food-drink. When you want to make cakes, icings, fudges and dainty dishes, use Van Houten's Cocoa instead of chocolate—the flavor is much richer.

MEXICAN REVOLT TREACHERY TALE

Madero's Downfall and Death Accomplished by Guile of Army Leaders.

HUERTA WITHOUT MERCY

ever, had the Supreme court in their hands and it ordered Diaz's removal to Mexico City.

The next step in the plot was to put Diaz in such a position that he would have to do as the three generals told him; to kill Reyes, whose popularity they feared, and to show Madero's inability to handle the country, thus compelling his resignation or death.

Diaz Leads Nominal Revolt.

To bring this about it was arranged that both Diaz and Reyes should be released and lead a revolt. Diaz would take possession of the Ciudadela or citadel of Mexico City, while to Reyes was given the honor of attacking the palace. The governor of the penitentiary, the governor of Santiago prison, the governor of the Ciudadela, the Tlalpam cadets, and most of the officers of the army were in the plot as far as it was directed against Madero, but were ignorant as to the intentions of the three generals regarding the two popular idols, Reyes and Diaz.

On Sunday morning, Feb. 9, the Tlalpam cadets attacked the penitentiary and Santiago prison. The governor of course immediately yielded and Diaz and Reyes were freed. Diaz collected a crowd of police and civilians and threw himself into the ciudadela where, of course, there was no real resistance. Gen. Mondragon joined him there. They then occupied the surrounding streets and prepared to defend their position.

In the meanwhile the Tlalpam cadets attacked the palace. Through some error the officer in charge was loyal. He resisted the attack and succeeded in capturing six of the cadets, whom he summarily executed. Among the six was Gen. Blanquet's son.

Cadets Shoot Their Officers.

The colonel and commandant of the cadets being surprised at this unexpected resistance, wanted the cadets to withdraw. Instead of doing this, they shot him for suggesting it. During the pause which followed the unsuccessful attempt of the cadets on the palace, the loyal officer in charge of its defense brought his troops out in front of it. Gen. Reyes then came along at the head of the First cavalry. When near the door of the palace he was shot and killed by men stationed there for that purpose. From the time the cadets were repulsed until the death of Reyes there had been no firing. The firing then commenced again. The Zocalo, as the plaza in front of the palace is called, was full of men, women, and children. The troops in front of the palace and the First cavalry were not 100 yards apart. Though they were supposed to be firing into each other at this short distance, there were only fifteen soldiers killed. Of the spectators, forty-one children, 160 women, and 290 men were killed.

No further evidence is needed as to the intention of the troops not to fire into each other. What became of the loyal officer whose troops killed him so miserably is not known.

Huerta Deceives President Madero.

Madero, who was in the president's palace at Chapultepec, which is on the outskirts of the city, immediately he heard of the disorder, mounted his horse and, escorted by the Chapultepec cadets and the Forest guards, came into the city. He was well received by the populace. Huerta told him the place for him was in the palace and there he went. On the way he and Huerta had their pictures taken together.

Madero put Huerta in absolute charge, thus turning his government and his life over to him for safe keeping. Huerta, with his chief of artillery, Col. Navarete, then proceeded to place their troops in position.

Though this was on Sunday and the provisioning of the ciudadela was going on in the most open manner, not a thing was done until Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, when the firing commenced. From then until 5 p. m. the following Tuesday the firing was practically continuous with the exception of a few hours on Saturday.

Madero paid Huerta $10,000 a day starting with Sunday and promised him $100,000 the day he captured the ciudadela.

Plot Involves American Envoy.

On Tuesday, Feb. 18, Huerta sent Henrique Zepeda to the American embassy. This Zepeda is known as Huerta's nephew, but in reality is his bastard son. Zepeda was closeted with the American ambassador and a number of his advisers (not members of the embassy) for one hour. He then returned to the palace. As they were coming out of the room one of the advisers was heard to say to another:

"By God, he made them guarantee he would get his before he would agree to their plot."

On Thursday night Huerta and others demanded that Madero resign, as he was unable to control the situation and his resignation would end the fighting, that being all Diaz was after. Madero refused. Huerta then demanded more troops. Madero ordered him to telegraph Gen. Rabago in Chihuahua, whose morning report showed he had 11,000 men, to send 3,000. Rabago refused to do so.

They had previously to this wired Gen. Blanquet, who was at Pachuca, a short distance north of Mexico City, to bring in his troops. He had always refused, saying his men could not be trusted. This time he came, but camped just outside the city. Many of his officers went to the ciudadela and remained there.

Blanquet and Huerta Confer.

Friday night Blanquet and Huerta had a conference.

On Monday morning Felix Diaz announced he would be a candidate for president and that all he wanted at this time was to be chief of the army. On Monday evening Huerta, Blanquet, Mondragon, and Felix Diaz had a conference at the ciudadela. At this conference Diaz was made to realize his position. He was shown how he was virtually surrounded and plainly told by Huerta that if he did not agree to their wishes that Huerta would capture the ciudadela the following day, as he could have done at any time had he wanted.

Diaz, seing his position, yielded to their plan, which was that Huerta was to be president, Mondragon secretary of war, and Blanquet chief of the army. Diaz was told he could be a candidate in the coming elections if he wished.

Huerta announced that night that the next day he and Blanquet would take the ciudadela with the troops. While it is called the citadel (ciudadela), it is nothing but a large, one story stone barrack and storehouse, incapable of resisting any serious attack.

Shells Do Little Damage.

The federal artillery fired more than 3,000 rounds from their guns at it and hit it eleven times. However, after the fighting was over the chief, Col. Navarete, was made a general for his brilliant services. Far more damage was done to any number of buildings which were not directly in the line of fire.

What the Japanese ambassador thought about the effort which was being made to take it is shown by his offer to bring into Mexico City in less than twenty-four hours 3,000 Japanese soldiers living in one of the provinces who would take it in short order.

Were nothing known of the plot of the three generals, the results of the firing would be sufficient to show an intention to deliberately shoot up the city to prove Madero's inability to handle matters, and thus force his resignation. Everything American was shot up. Of 3,000 people killed, it is estimated that not more than 800 were soldiers. Of these a large number were rurales whom Huerta, fearing their loyalty to Madero, had ordered to charge down a street against defenses at the other end of it. They had absolutely no chance for success.

Huerta Constantly Asks Troops.

Every day Huerta had asked Madero to resign. Each time the president refused. Each time he refused Huerta asked for more troops, finally asking for 50,000.

All Monday night and Tuesday until 5 p. m. the firing was kept up. This was the heaviest firing done.

On Tuesday at noon Blanquet, instead of attacking the ciudadela, appeared with the Twenty-ninth infantry at his back in front of the palace. He asked for his son. (He had been told of his death the day it happened.) He was told that he had been executed. He then broke his sword, declaring he was done; he would fight no more for Madero. At this some of his officers with a detachment of troops rushed into the palace and up to the room where Madero and his cabinet were sitting. The officer in charge said to Madero, "You are under arrest."

Madero jumped up, saying: "You have no right to address the president of the republic in that manner. I command you to cry, 'Long live the president of the Mexican republic.'" The officer and the soldiers with him did so. Immediately, however, the officer repeated, "You are under arrest."

Cabinet Members Shoot Soldiers.

At this the members of the cabinet, all of whom were armed with pistols, commenced firing at the soldiers, killing a number of them. Madero succeeded in escaping from the room. He took an elevator to the floor below, where he was surrounded by Huerta, Blanquet, and a Col. Rivarola. The colonel said: "You are under arrest, whereupon Madero shot and killed him. He then tore open his coat with his hands, saying: "Kill me, my general. I will die president of Mexico." Huerta said, "No, but we arrest you," and thereupon confined him with Vice President Suarez incommunicado in a room in the palace.

(C) Zepeda, who had taken part in the fighting with the cabinet, had two fingers shot off. Without waiting to get them dressed he rushed to the American embassy. The doctor at the embassy dressed them. While it was being done Zepeda, who was very much excited, said: "I have made good. I did what I promised I would do. Madero is arrested."

He then went into the room where was the ambassador with a number of his advisers.

Huerta Arrests Gustavo Madero.

That afternoon Huerta was drinking with Gustavo Madero in the Gambrinus restaurant. After Gustavo had paid for the drinks Huerta went to the street brought in some soldiers who were there, and arrested him. They tied him up and kept him in the cloak room of the restaurant until 11 o'clock that night, when they took him to the cindadela and tortured him to death.

Tuesday evening Felix Diaz, Huerta, and a number of prominent politicians met at the American embassy and formed a provisional government. On Wednesday, Feb. 19, Huerta was proclaimed the provisional president.

Madero, the president, and Suarez, the vice president, were killed in the palace in the room in which they had been held incommunicado since their arrest. Madero was stabbed twice in the back and shot in the back of the head. Suarez was shot twelve times. Capt. Cardenas of the rurales killed them and was made a major in the regular army for doing so.

Their bodies were taken to the penitentiary. When near there the false attack was made, which was given out as the cause of their death. The reason given for moving from the palace was that it was not a safe place. The guard of the palace consisted of four regiments of infantry and two field guns.

O'Sullivan's
Heels of New Live
Rubber

You Want to Pass the Crowd?

The winners in the world's race are those who have learned to conserve their energy, to make every motion count, to walk straight and think straight. You must travel with ease as well as with speed, if you expect to get there. That's why O'Sullivan's Heels of New Live Rubber are an invaluable aid to efficiency. They protect the body from the impact of walking; they conserve nervous energy; they make the step light and easy; and they lessen fatigue.

It's perfectly natural—if you stop to think it over.

Nature gave us heels to walk on—and Nature's heels are cushions of flesh to take up the shock of the body's weight when the foot is thrown forward.

Civilized man has defeated Nature's purpose with his hard shoe-heels of iron nails and armor-plate leather. Every step you take on hard leather heels is like the blow of a hammer.

Weak feet, backaches, nerves out of sorts, strained leg muscles, and a general feeling of wanting to go home and lie down, are all the results of hard leather heels.

Heels of New Live Rubber

In wearing O'Sullivan's Heels you are merely going back to Nature. These cushions of springy rubber, placed under your heels, take up the jar and shock of walking. They make every pavement feel like a well-kept lawn.

Successful people wear O'Sullivan's Heels, for they have learned that these wonderful aids to walking lessen fatigue, and make more efficient the men and women who wear them. They are invisible when attached; as they have the shape and color of leather heels.

Their cost is fifty cents, which includes the labor of putting them on. Any shoemaker has them, and it takes about fifteen minutes to change from hard leather to elastic rubber. Suppose you give them a trial, and

OPPOSE FRISCO LINES' PLAN

Bankers May Object to Persons Chosen as Receivers.

SEE BONDHOLDERS' LOSS.

Speyer & Co. Near Clash with Management of Roads.

New York, May 28.—[Special.]—The strain in the relations between the Frisco management, centered in Benjamin F. Yoakum and associates, and the bankers for the road, Speyer & Co., which was shown on the day of the receivership announcement, increased today to the point of possible disagreement over the question of the receivers appointed by the federal court in St. Louis.

The bankers are dissatisfied with the selection of B. L. Winchell, president of the road, and Thomas H. West of St. Louis, both of whom are Yoakum men and members of the syndicate which controlled the road through the $50,000,000 stock ownership.

The bankers, who represent an important part of the great bonded indebtedness of $293,937,972 of the company, feel that the bondholders' interest is paramount and that the receivers appointed should not be allied with the stock interests in the railroad, which are practicaly bound to be in conflict sooner or later on questions of reorganization and dominance of interest.

Seek Independent Receivers.

It is thought that representations will be made in an effort to secure receivers all of whom will either be independent of any financial interest in the road or who will represent more equitably the widely variant classes of interest.

The intimation that has been thrown out in the financial district that the New York banking interests in the road were not consulted either about the receivership or the personnel of the receivers added much to the belief held that evidences of deep lying disagreement between the banking and the stock interests in the road have only begun to show.

A high authority in Frisco affairs said the unfolding of the affairs of the road in the reorganization process would lay bare certain conditions that would make the financial district sit up and take notice.

AUXILIARY PAPERS FILED.

Springfield, Ill., May 28.—Auxiliary receivership papers were filed here today in the United States district court in the case of the Railway Steel Spring company vs. the Chicago and Eastern Illinois Railway company.

The papers show William J. Jackson, vice president of the road, and Edwin Winters of New York as being the receivers for the railroad company.

As a result of the receivership proceedings, work on the new branch of the Frisco line, under construction through Sangamon county, has been halted.

PAINT BLASTS PERIL FIREMEN.

Explosions in Heath & Milligan's Plant Cause Fire Fighters to Stay at Safe Distance.

The lives of firemen were endangered for a time last night at a fire in the Heath & Milligan Manufacturing company's plant, a five story brick building at 1833 Seward street. The fire followed a small explosion on the third floor, where paints and oils are stored. Several small explosions occurred, but firemen had been ordered to keep a safe distance. The loss was $2,000.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 28.—The Daily Mirror today began the publication of a symposium of ideas regarding ideal happiness, apropos the recent utterances of the bishop of London that for every miserable person he could find nine happy ones. The duchess of Marlborough, contributing her opinion on the subject, says the man who would be truly happy should not try to enlarge his estate but contract his desires.

Draw an oval on the map. From Boston up to Montreal, across to Chicago, down to St. Louis and Cairo, up by way of Louisville and Cincinnati into the new Grand Central Terminal at New York, and so around. You have enclosed half the population of the United States.

Every day the all-steel 20th Century Limited (the most famous train in the world) and a long list of other splendid trains of the New York Central Lines ply back and forth between all the important points in this oval.

In the equipment of their trains—the physical characteristics of their lines—the refinement of their passenger facilities—at every point at which the New York Central Lines come in touch with the public or with any individual, the effort is towards the highest standards of what a railroad should be.

The 50,000,000 people within this oval directly served by the New York Central Lines—with their 13,000 miles of railway—are not the only people affected by such service.

Wherever you are, it means something to you.

Goodrich Tires

are best in the long run

Not because the makers of practically half 1913's output of new cars have bought Goodrich Tires to equip them—

Not because so many well known car makers have always equipped their output with Goodrich Tires—

But—

Because the Goodrich principle of unit molding, which was crystalized from our twenty-seven years of experience in rubber manufacturing before we made the first American clincher tire and which we have never changed, demonstrated its soundness from the start—

And because our long experience in selecting the best crude rubber and compounding it gave us the ability to give it toughness and durability and at the same time keep the buoyant life in it—

And because we make Goodrich Tires of the finest fabric that can be woven of Sea Island Cotton—fabric that costs as much as silk—and of pure rubber—

The thick, tough tread, being of the tire and not merely on it, naturally cannot strip or peel.

Our single vulcanization makes all the tire at once—a unit—and frees you of the danger from weak spots or dead places caused by over vulcanization cooking the life out of the rubber.

Your tire dealer will supply you with whatever style of Goodrich Tire you need—but there is only one kind and quality.

Write for free set of folders telling you how to get the most service from your tires and how to avoid the common tire injuries.

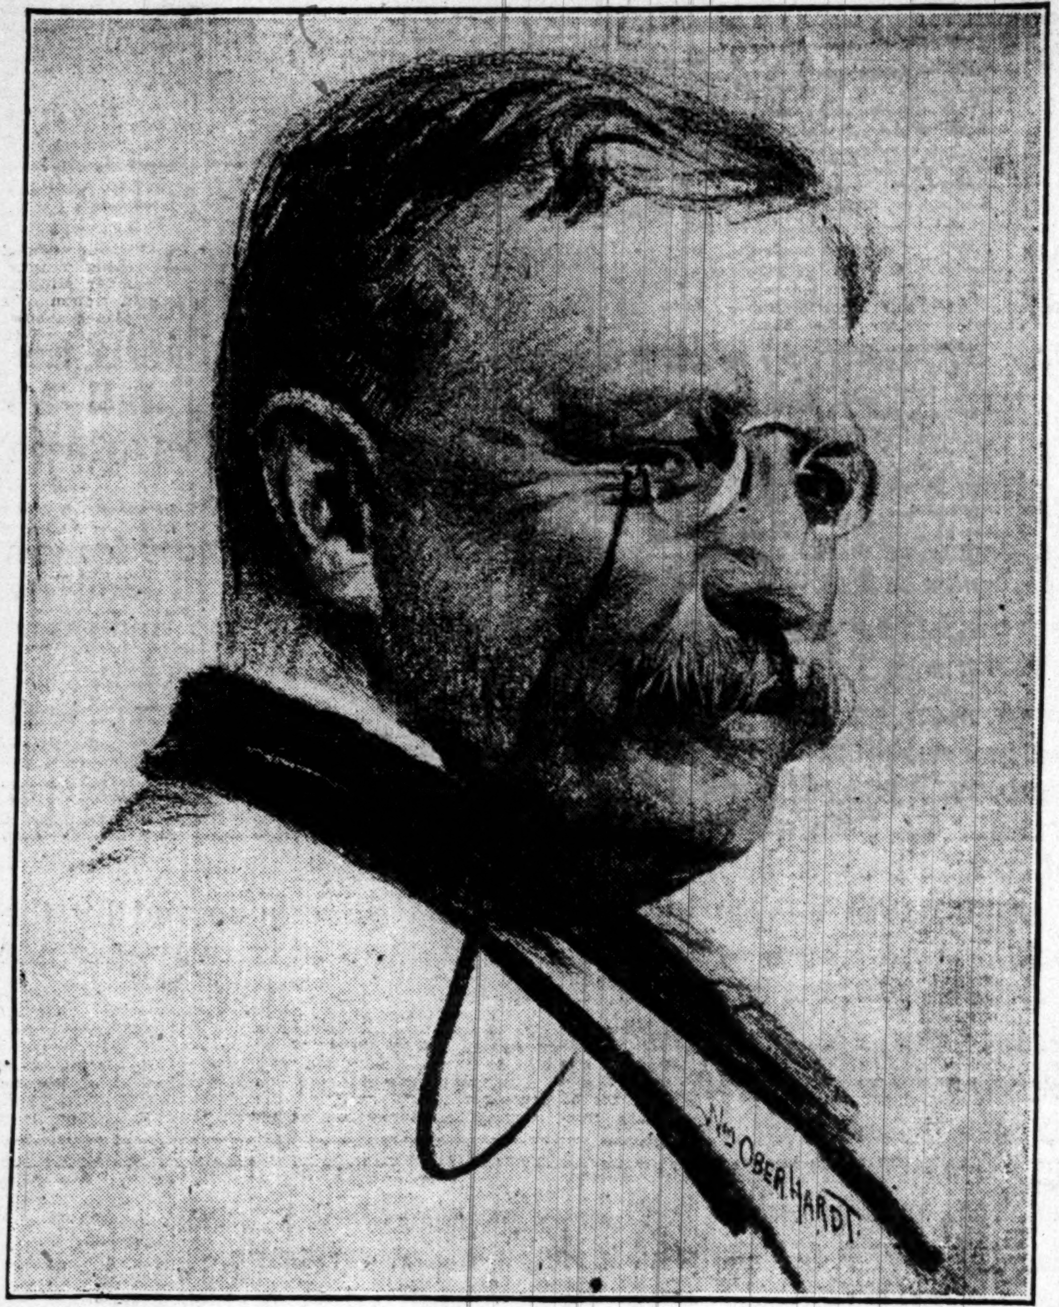
COL. ROOSEVELT'S OWN STORY

SOME CHAPTERS OF A POSSIBLE AUTOBIOGRAPHY

Published by special arrangement with the Outlook, of which Theodore Roosevelt is the Contributing Editor



By courtesy of the Outlook.

THE DAILY NEWS has great satisfaction in announcing the publication every Saturday, beginning this week, of a series of papers by Theodore Roosevelt, which are certain to be of intense human interest. They will be not only of national but of international importance in their interpretation of a personality which during many years has probably attracted more widespread attention in newspapers, periodicals and among the people than any other single personality of the present day.

The world knows Mr. Roosevelt chiefly as a statesman and public servant, as an orator and soldier and writer.

Only a few know him as a private citizen, and many of the personal experiences that have helped to mold his remarkable career are known only to his close friends and co-workers.

In these papers Mr. Roosevelt will talk with greater intimacy than he has on the platform, in his books or in his editorial writing, and the American people, as well as the greater public, will learn about his experiences, his philosophy of life, and so much of his achievement as will illustrate why he has come to hold the views he now holds and what he believes can be taught thereby to others.

They will meet him at close range.

Mr. Roosevelt, coming to the presidency after his stirring experiences in the Spanish War, took the initiative in many of the most important events of our time—both national and international. These articles give him for the first time a unique opportunity to tell the history of these events as he saw them. The prosecution of criminal trusts, the settling of the Russo-Japanese War, the inception of the Panama Canal, the voyage of the American fleet around the world—these are examples of the kind of public events from which Mr. Roosevelt may choose subjects for narrative and comment.

There are many things which Mr. Roosevelt has learned, not from books or from what others have told him, but at first hand—from life itself.

He was, for instance, a delicate and rather timid boy. He has learned to acquire health and courage by practice. He was a ranchman in the West, and one reason why he knows his fellow Americans is to be found in the companionship he had with the sturdy cowpunchers of the old frontier. He has some strong convictions about social conditions. These he developed as a consequence of his experiences as legislator and as Police Commissioner, when he saw what those social conditions meant to living men and women whom he personally knew.

So through his life—as a boy on Long Island, as an undergraduate at Harvard, as a ranchman in Montana, as a member of the New York Assembly, as Civil Service Commissioner, as Police Commissioner of New York City, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, as Governor of the State of New York, as Vice-President of the United States, as President, as an army officer, hunter, naturalist, student of history, editor—he has always been a learner as well as a leader.

In these papers, beginning next Saturday, Col. Roosevelt will tell some of the things he has learned and how he has learned them, telling them primarily with a view to the help that may thereby be given. This autobiography will afford keen satisfaction and high inspiration to the young people of the country, who are all especially interested in personal narrative of active achievement.

Irrespective of one's agreement or disagreement with Col. Roosevelt's political views and policies, these articles cannot fail of the widest popular interest as a revelation of the character of the most unique personality in American public life to-day.

The articles will be fully illustrated with portraits, facsimiles of various documents, pictures of buildings and localities, and other appropriate matter.

Susan Phelps a Bride at Saturday Service.

THE marriage of Miss Susan Phelps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Phelps of Kenilworth, to William F. Zimmermann Jr., also of Kenilworth, will take place at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Phelps residence. A reception will follow. Miss Phelps will have her sister, Miss Carlotte Lewis Phelps, for her maid of honor and Miss Ruth Paine of Boston, Miss Elizabeth Olcott of Duluth and Miss Helen Seymour of Hubbard Woods for her bridesmaids. Her two small cousins, Katherine and Emily Hamill, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamill, will be the flower girls. Herbert Zimmermann will serve as his brother's best man and Hilmar Zimmermann and Robert Hamill will stretch the ribbons.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fechter Matthes of 5312 Washington boulevard, Austin, announce the coming marriage of their daughter, Carolyn, to Roy W. Kemper of Austin, at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, June 11. The wedding will mark the second event of the kind in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Matthes within two months, the bride-to-be having served as maid of honor on April 19 at the wedding of her sister, Miss Florence Matthes, and Robert Newman Erskine. Mrs. Erskine and Mrs. Gay Harrington are to be matrons of honor at the coming service and Miss Dorothy Matthes will be the maid of honor. Miss Catherine Beegle of Oak Park and Miss Ethyl Emerson of New York will be the bridesmaids. Little Josephine Matthes and Margaret Beegle will stretch the ribbons. After a short trip Mr. and Mrs. Kemper will be at home in the Walnut apartments, Austin.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Amy-Lina Morier, daughter of Mrs. Edmond Morier of 1919 Greenleaf avenue, to Thomas H. Matters Jr. of Omaha for the evening of June 12 at 7 o'clock at St. Paul's church, Rogers Park. The betrothal was announced shortly before Christmas of last year.

Mr. and Mrs. James William Ramsey announce the engagement of their daughter, Josephine, to Robert Bagley Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert M. Foster of Evanston.

Mrs. James S. Dunham announces the engagement of her daughter, Anna Mary, to John Rice Reilly, son of Mrs. Henry J. Reilly of Winnetka.

Chicago is interested in the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. George E. Shaw of 6368 Drexel road, Overbrook, Pa., of the engagement of their daughter, Edythe, to Ensign John P. Dalton, U. S. N.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Klein of 4953 Grand boulevard announce the engagement of their daughter, Amy Lenore, to David B. Eisendrath of Racine, Wis., son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Eisendrath of 4339 Grand boulevard.

Miss Ethel Marie Wattis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Wattis of Ogden, Utah, and William Rice Kimball, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Herbert Kimball of Oak Park, were married last evening, May 28, in the First Presbyterian church in Ogden.

John J. Sonsteby, member of the board of education, and Miss Alice R. Osland, graduate of the Art institute and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Birger Osland, 4133 North Forty-first avenue, were married in the presidential suite of the Hotel La Salle last evening by the Rev. O. C. Grauer of Oak Park. The wedding is the outcome of a romance which began at a dance held by the Quartet club in the Grand Pacific hotel four years ago. There were no attendants and only immediate members of both families were present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Sonsteby left for a tour of the Pacific coast after the wedding dinner and will live at 2323 North Kedzie avenue on their return to Chicago in July.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Nulla Buck of Wilmette and John Dean of Evanston on June 8 in the Wilmette Methodist church. Mrs. J. C. Primm, 1200 Noyes street, Evanston; Miss Mabel Tucker and Miss Lydia Swanson of Evanston, and Miss Rose Durest and Miss Florence Steffens of Wilmette will be her attendants. A reception on the Monday evening following the wedding will be held at the residence of Mrs. Primm. Mr. and Mrs. Dean will be at home at 630 Park avenue, Wilmette, after July 15.

Mrs. Orren Sanford Peabody, 246 Moraine road, Highland Park, has issued cards for an at home from 3 until 6 o'clock on Thursday, June 5. The date is the first anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Peabody (Alice Lolita Parliament).

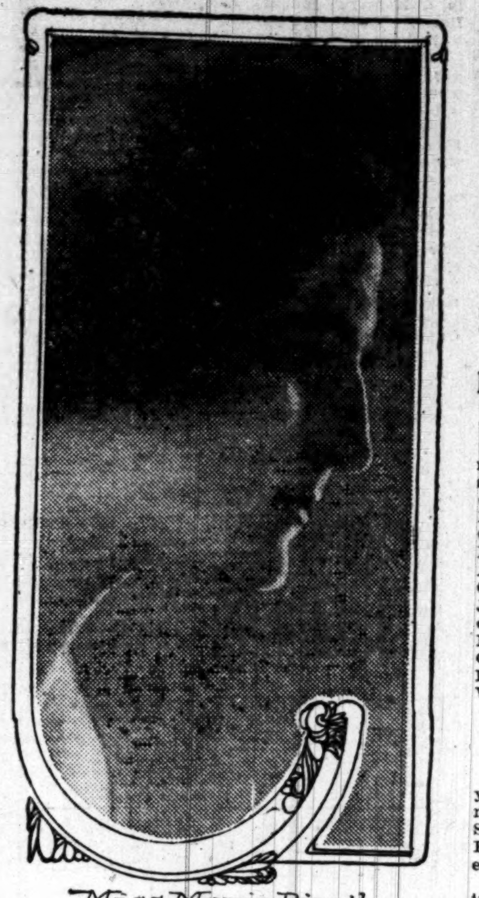
Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence G. Hallberg gave a theater party and supper last night for eighteen young people in honor of their son, Laurence G. Hallberg Jr., and his financée, Miss Eva Crane Vail. This evening Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Cowdery, 1367 North State street, will give a dinner-dance for the bridal party—the wedding is to be an event of June 3—and tomorrow Miss Vail will give a luncheon for her bridesmaids, followed in the evening by Mr. Hallberg's bachelor dinner, which is to be given at the Hotel Sherman. On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Vail will have the bridal party at dinner at the Blackstone hotel.

Mrs. Harry F. Williams of 1360 Dearborn avenue gave a dinner-dance last night in compliment to her niece, Miss Lilly Dorothy Magnus, who is to marry Sydney L. Berg on June 4. This evening Mrs. Edward Heissler of 701 Gordon terrace will give a dinner-dance in honor of the young people and tomorrow three of the ushers for the coming wedding—Harold Wiley, Harry T. Smith, and C. Lewis Woodruff—will give a supper-dance at the South Shore Country club. On Saturday evening Miss Mildred Murphy, 3305 Michigan avenue, will give a dinner-dance and on Sunday Mr. Berg will give his bachelor dinner at the South Shore Country club. Mrs. Jacob Loeb, the bride's mother, will give the bridal dinner on June 2.

Mr. James S. Moore, president of the Amateur Musical club, will entertain the directors and members of the program and social committees of the club this afternoon in the parlors of the Chicago Woman's club. Plans will be discussed for the coming season and tea will follow. Mrs. Rossiter G. Cole and Mrs. Clifford Williams will be at the tables.

Mrs. E. F. Lawrence, Mrs. A. C. McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mandel, Mrs. Leon Mandel, and Miss Blanche Mandel are among the Chicagoans who will sail today from New York to Europe.

Mrs. Claude Bernard Davis, 2116 Warren avenue, gave a luncheon in the presidential suite of the Hotel La Salle yesterday.



Miss Marie Pierik.

Miss Marie Pierik, a young Chicagoan, was chosen to give a group of piano selections at a reception yesterday at the executive mansion by Mrs. Dunne to the women of Springfield. Lester Alden, also of Chicago, gave a program of readings. This evening Miss Pierik again is to give the program at the reception which Gov. and Mrs. Dunne will give to the members of the general assembly and their wives.

Progressive Club Housewarming Tonight

The Progressive club of Chicago will give a housewarming and reception this evening upon the occasion of the opening of their new clubrooms in the Maurice Rothschild building, Jackson boulevard and State street. A program in charge of Mrs. J. F. Presnell will be given by Miss Jessie Armager Power, canteuse; Mrs. Charles Krum, soprano; and Mrs. J. Rawson Pennington and Mrs. William Todd, pianists. Addresses will be made by Medill McCormick, Charles E. Merriam, Harold Ickes, Walter Clyde Jones, Thomas B. Knight, and Clarence Strauss of Virginia. Among the women interested are Mrs. Harold Ickes, Mrs. Medill McCormick, Mrs. Charles E. Merriam, Mrs. George Bass, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. Thomas B. Knight, Mrs. W. A. Evans, and Mrs. James F. Presnell.

"Economy Class" at Stockyards.

The "economy class" touring the stockyards yesterday to learn the less expensive cuts of meat and how to prepare them, included Mrs. S. H. Holbrook of Park Ridge, a niece of the late Russell Sage, New York financier, himself an exponent of economical living.

"The serious phases of the high cost of living are going to be lessened by just such study," she said. "If housewives would learn what I have learned today there would be much less cause for complaint."

Mrs. Holbrook's enthusiasm was tested severely when Mrs. Mary Ament, one of the teachers, declared a family of five can live on $15 a week and live comfortably.

Co-eds Hold May Revels.

Girls of the Cumnock school of oratory at Northwestern university yesterday held their May revels, crowning Miss Helene Hain queen of the May. The queen's coming was heralded by Harold Wasser, as jester, and she was accompanied by Miss Addie Henderson, Miss Emma Auer, and Miss Lillian Walker. Following the crowning there were folk and interpretive dances by the various groups, with Miss Claire Murison as "Spirit of the Spring." The girls intend to make the revels an annual event.

Blame Society for College Failures.

Middletown, Conn., May 28.—"Undue attention not to athletics but to society is responsible for the most serious dissipation of student energies and for the majority of failures in college work," says the Western University Bulletin today.

Discussing student social life there, it adds: "The multiplication of social functions and their increasing expense during recent years is becoming a serious problem in undergraduate life."

Masons at Exposition Today.

A procession of 1,000 Knights Templar in full regalia from the Coliseum to the Auditorium theater at 7 o'clock tonight will be the feature of today's celebration of "Masonic day" at "The World in Chicago." The Masons have reserved the entire theater for this evening's performance. The exposition at the Coliseum will open at 10 a. m. to accommodate the visitors.

High School Students Give Plays Tonight.

STUDENTS of the University High school will give two plays tonight in Mandel hall at the University of Chicago. They will be "The Far Away Princess," by Hermann Sudermann, and "The Romancers," by Edmond Rostand. The patrons and patronesses are made up from the Parents' association of the school and the attendance is confined to students and friends of the school.

The Chicago Hebrew institute will celebrate Decoration day today and the Sons of the American Revolution will present an American flag to the institute. The exercises will begin at 8 p. m. Jacob M. Loeb will accept the flag.

Several meetings have been held this week in preparation for the open air festival for St. Sebastian's church on June 12, 13, and 14. The members of the Japanese tea booth met at the residence of Miss Loretta O'Malley. Miss Mary Moran entertained her assistants for the pantry booth. Plans for the daily sales for the public market were made at the residence of Mrs. W. T. Kane.

The Degree of Honor lodges of Cook county will give a May dance and card party tonight in the drill hall of the Masonic temple. Among the guests will be Mrs. Frances Buell Olsen of St. Paul, Minn., national president of the Degree of Honor.

There will be a special meeting of the Chicago chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution at 10 o'clock this morning in the English room of the Blackstone hotel.

The Hyde Park Choral club and orchestra will give a patriotic concert tonight at the University Congregational church.

The young women's sodality of the St. Nicholas church, Evanston, will give a three act comedy, "At the End of the Rainbow," tomorrow evening in the parish hall. The sodality will be assisted by young men of the church.

The Oak Park hospital benefited yesterday from a performance of "Six Sharps and One Flat" at the Warrington theater, Oak Park. The performance was held under the auspices of the Woman's auxiliary of the board.

Charles H. Wacker, chairman of the Chicago plan commission, will give an illustrated lecture before the members of the Electric Club of Chicago at a luncheon at the Hotel Sherman today. In the club's bulletin this week it has incorporated the motto, "Where 'we will' there's a way."

The Baron Hirsch Woman's club and coworkers will hold their annual outing on Thursday, June 12, at 2 p. m. at the Bismarck garden. Bridge whist and lotto will be played, after which a luncheon will be served. Handsome prizes have been procured for the winners.

More than six hundred women attended the first birthday party and luncheon of the Edgewater Catholic Woman's club in the Hotel La Salle yesterday. The guests who responded to toasts were Mrs. Frederick A. Dow, president Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs; Mrs. Samuel K. Wilson of the protectorate of the Catholic Woman's league; Mrs. George Watson, president North End club; Mrs. R. H. McColl, president Evanston Catholic Woman's club; Mrs. Mary Hight, Miss Magda Huermann, Miss Gladys Sloan, Miss Mary Halpin O'Brien, and Mrs. A. Reilly Harrison.

The young people of St. Vincent's parish tonight will give an old time concert for the benefit of the new nursery and kindergarten of the Italian Settlement of Santa Maria de la Rosa. The affair will be held at Roti's hall, Grand avenue and Sangamon street.

Mrs. L. H. Manson, 844 Leland avenue, has recalled her invitation to the Illinois Women's Press association for next Saturday because of the death of one of the officers of the organization.

How to Earn Money at Home

The purpose of this department is to find profitable employment for women in occupations which they can carry on at home without interfering with their domestic duties. To stimulate suggestions The Tribune will award $1 each for every help published.

Address—Sally Joy Brown, care The Tribune, Chicago.

The exhibit room in The Tribune building is open from 9:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. except on Saturday, when it closes at 1 o'clock.

What Will You Give the Bride?

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

WHAT will you give the bride?

Have you decided that important question?

It is one that is becoming more important every minute that the time goes on and the time for the wedding comes closer and closer.

Do you wish to give something personal to the bride—something that she would treasure for years?

How about a bit of real lace that could be used on her wedding gown and afterward on other gowns?

One of the home women working through THE TRIBUNE Home Workers' Market Place is making the Limerick lace that is so exquisite and so fashionable.

Wonderfully dainty it is with the delicacy of cobwebs and the wearing qualities of heavy laces.

It can be had in collars, handkerchiefs, fichus of filmy lightness, at prices from $5 to $25.

Then there are lingerie sets that the bride would be sure to appreciate—hand made garments of fine workmanship and excellent materials.

All of these are things that the bride is sure to like and appreciate.

The dainty, exclusive, personal things are the ones that the young girl wants and that are often so hard to find at reasonable prices.

These are the sort of things that the home women can make for you in such exquisite taste and at the most reasonable prices that you could imagine.

Hand embroidered breakfast caps of sheer material that show the gloss of the hair through them.

Caps trimmed in laces, ribbons, ribbon flowers, and all with an individuality that is striking.

These sell for from 50 cents to $2.50 apiece and make charming gifts for bride or graduate.

Then there is the new shadow lace cover to wear under the sheer lace or lawn waists.

These are made by one home woman for from $1.50 up to $4.

Don't these things appeal to you as the sort of gifts that you would like to send?

Don't the prices appeal to your pocketbook?

That is a mighty important appeal when there are so many things to buy—so many people to be remembered.

Why not remember them with the gifts that they will like and that you will like to give?

These are the home woman gifts that are being made by the home women advertising in THE TRIBUNE Home Workers' Market Place and exhibiting their work in THE TRIBUNE Home Workers' exhibit room.

Gifts that are unique, that are different, these are!

Have you taken the time to see any of them?

What will you give the bride?

They can solve your problem in the best possible way.

By making the things that you want at the prices that you want to pay.

Washcloth Cases.

Little wash cloth cases will prove very useful to people traveling, who, after washing hands or face, find they have no convenient place to keep the wet cloth. They should find a ready sale just now, as people are already planning their summer vacation trips, and as they are simple to make, there is a good profit in them. One can make them any desirable size and of linen, cretonne, or pieces of pretty silk and ribbon, which can be picked up from remnant baskets for very little. I make them fourteen inches long and six and one-half inches wide, cutting two pieces, one of the outside material and one of rubber sheeting for the lining. Cut one end pointed like the flap of an envelope, fold square and up two-thirds of the length and bind all edges. Fasten flap with hook and eye. The rubber sheeting may be bought for 55 cents per square yard and the covering costs very little, as one can utilize pieces of goods in this way. Remnants of lovely Persian ribbons make pretty cases, and if one can knit or crochet wash cloths and enclose they form an added value. The cheaper cases sell for 25 cents; the others according to material used.

MRS. J. BARTHOLOMEW, Lawton, Mich.

Laundering Fancy Waists.

I earn my vacation and other spending money by washing and ironing fancy waists, tea aprons, and fancy underwear for business women in our neighborhood. I get more work than I can do, and it doesn't interfere with my work at home.

MARY HOLMES,

Sells Relishes.

A woman I know earns a profitable income by making at home horse radish, mustard, chow-chow, and piccalilli. She puts each in a clean wooden pail, covering them neatly with clean granite tops. The relishes look so tempting one cannot resist buying. She also has regular customers whom she visits monthly.

FANNIE H. KRAMER,

For the Girl Graduate.

Graduation time draws near and many gifts suitable for the "sweet girl graduate" are in preparation. One woman is making and successfully selling dainty slipper trees. The ordinary wooden slipper tree is covered with shirred satin ribbon of a delicate shade. On the arch is placed a bow of the same fastened with tiny rosebuds. With this she often sells beautiful ribbon garters made of the same colored ribbon shirred onto a circle of rubber. These, too, are finished with a dainty ribbon bow fastened with a bunch of the rosebuds.

One other clever little set that finds a ready sale is a coat and skirt extender. A wooden coathanger, padded with cotton, is covered with shirred ribbon, the hook part being bound tight with a narrower width. A pretty rosette is placed at the base of the hook, with a few dainty little flowers. The skirthanger has its wooden portions gilded, the steel being bound in the same ribbon as is the coathanger. A soft bow of ribbon finishes the hook, and smaller ones at each end of the extender, each having the flowers as an added touch.

These gifts are truly irresistible, and while costing little, may be sold for $2.50 a set.

MILDRED HARRIS,
4938 Washington Park place.

Tastes Like Champagne.

The recipe given below for a cordial is popular with many, because it contains no alcohol and makes a heathful and pleasant drink for something in place of wine. It is simple to make and has sold readily. It should bring 35 cents a pint and even 50 cents in some places. Four gallons of water, twelve pounds of white sugar, one quart and one-half pint of fresh elder flowers. Beat the whites of two eggs and boil them with the sugar and water till sugar is thoroughly dissolved. Remove from the fire and add the flowers. When cold put in three teaspoons of lemon juice and one-quarter cake of compressed yeast. Let it stand for nine days in a stone jar, stirring every morning. Then put four pounds of seeded raisins chopped in the bottom of a six gallon jug or keg, strain the liquid onto it, cork it tightly, and let it stand six months. Then bottle it. Tastes like champagne.

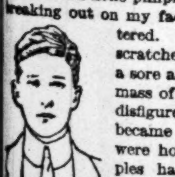
FACE WOULD BURN AND ITCH

Little Pimples Like White Specks. Then Festered. Face One Mass of Sores. Could Get No Rest. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In 2 Weeks Pimples Gone.



459 Division St., Blue Island, Ill.—"I first noticed little pimples like white specks breaking out on my face. Then they festered. The moment I scratched them they made a sore and my face was one mass of sores which caused disfigurement. My face became marked and there were holes where the pimples had been. I would wake up in the night and my face would be burning and itching and I could get no rest. I tried many kinds of salves and different things but all to no relief. After I took to Cuticura Soap and Ointment in about three days I found I could sleep nights and that the pimples were fast disappearing. Two weeks later I noticed that they were gone. Cuticura Soap and Ointment effected permanent relief." (Signed) George Warner, June 21, 1912.

For red, rough, chapped and bleeding hands, itching, burning palms, and painful finger-ends with shapeless nails, a one-night Cuticura treatment works wonders. Soak hands, on retiring, in hot water and Cuticura Soap. Dry, anoint with Cuticura Ointment and wear soft bandages or old, loose gloves during the night. Cuticura Soap (25c.) and Ointment (50c.) are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Educational and Church News

Bids Protestants Unite to Convert Foreigners.

GREATER coöperation of Protestant churches of all denominations and the universal use of the downtown cathedrals by them all in social work was urged yesterday by ministers of five denominations at the Auditorium hotel. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Chicago Coöperative Council of City Missions and is, as one minister termed it, "a clearing house for interdenominational problems."

The Rev. Shailer Mathews presided and in his closing address urged, as one of the greatest problems confronting the Protestant churches, the education of the foreign element in the city.

"Our responsibility," he said, "lies with the foreign element. If the suburbanites say 'golf before God,' let them have it. We are all agreed on how many churches the suburban residents will stand. Coöperation in the education of the foreigner is what we should aim at.

"We haven't enough of the crusading spirit. To use football slang, we should stop shouting 'Hold 'em,' and should start to cry 'Touchdown.' And what is more, we need team work to get the ball over."

The Rev. James Rowe, associated with the Methodist mission movement, pointed out how little success the churches had had with the foreign element.

"The Baptists tried for fifteen years to break into the Polish element," he said, "and at the end of that time they had fifteen members. The Methodists got two converts after a considerable campaign. If we ever save these foreigners it is not because they are Baptists or Methodists or any other sect, but we bring to bear all the forces of Protestantism."

A similar idea was proposed by Dr. J. C. Armstrong, superintendent of the Presbyterian city missions.

"All the churches should pool their information about the problems of the city, and coöperate in their social work," he said.

Challenges Critics of United Charities.

A challenge to critics of the United Charities to come into the open and specify their complaints was issued yesterday by Prof. Charles R. Henderson, speaking before the Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle. His defense of the organization's methods and results is taken as an answer to recent veiled attacks.

"The only man who makes no mistakes is the man in the graveyard," he said. "There is no false cry from him, and we do not criticise the dead. The United Charities challenge criticism. We beg for it. But we want our critics to tell us of our faults to our faces. We'll either correct those faults or we'll show the critic where he is wrong.

"We are $70,000 in the hole today. When I say the United Charities faces that deficit it does not mean merely that the organization must suffer. Gentlemen, 100,000 dependent families face that deficit with us."

Form Dog Home Finding Body.

A home finding society for dogs has been organized in Evanston by Mrs. Emma A. Rosine and other women connected with the Illinois Humane and Anti-Cruelty societies. Mrs. Rosine declared it cruel to kill the dogs collected and shipped to the pound. Now, instead of their being killed by gas after their five days of grace, the animals are to be given a ride to the northwest part of town, farmed, and held there until new homes are found. The fees from the new guardians are expected to take care of operating expenses.

Year's Attendance 85,000 at Sunday Evening Club.

IN an annual statement addressed to the board of trustees, the Chicago Sunday Evening club points to a total of 85,000 guests during the season just closed, and emphasizes that a growing percentage of this attendance consists of young men.

The sixth yearly series of meetings, concluded last Sunday, included thirty-four evening services in Orchestra hall. Eight times the assembly was addressed by a local speaker, while twenty-five visitors from other cities appeared on the platform. Of these orators ten were laymen and twenty-three were preachers of several creeds.

As a protest against segregated vice, the service of Oct. 13, 1912, was transformed into a massmeeting.

On the basis of the financial statement of the preceding year and of the total attendance the cost of every visitor was about 22 cents per service. Only voluntary contributions were received to cover this budget.

In addition to the attendance at the main meetings over 53,000 women were addressed by President Clifford W. Barnes at study meetings preceding the regular program. Also the Men's league, an auxiliary to the club, has held open house every Wednesday night at the City club.

It appears the past season's record of popularity was reached on Feb. 9, when Dr. Henry Van Dyke of Princeton university was the speaker. Fifteen minutes after the doors of Orchestra hall opened every seat was taken.

Among the year's orators were a Japanese evangelist and a Canadian editor. A contribution of Jacob A. Riis of New York to the World's Work, describing the activities of the club, not only was reprinted in almost every American state, but also crossed the Pacific to Australia, where it was published in the Southern Cross at Melbourne.

The Chicago Sunday Evening club was founded by Clifford W. Barnes after he had succeeded in establishing similar services in the Latin quarter of Paris. The Chicago organization is also noted for its musical attainments, comprising a choir of eighty voices which has found artistic recognition.

Hahnemann Alumni Elect Officers.

Dr. A. A. Whipple of Quincy, Ill., was chosen president of the Hahnemann Medical College Alumni association at its fifty-third annual banquet in the Hotel La Salle last night. The other officers are: First vice president, Dr. C. H. Cogswell, Cedar Rapids, Ia.; second vice president, Dr. A. A. Hinckle, Evanston, Ill.; secretary, Dr. W. E. Boynton, Chicago; treasurer, Dr. R. A. Melendy, Chicago; necrologist, Dr. Clifford Mitchell, Chicago.

Women Plan Rose Carnival.

Preparations for the Rose carnival to be held on June 4 for the benefit of the Frances Willard hospital are being completed at headquarters in the Hotel La Salle. Natural roses will be offered for sale throughout the city. For advertising purposes 100 decorated machines will appear in parade on the preceding day. The tissue paper flowers required are now being made by a committee of women.

A Final Tribute to the Art of Eugene Ysaye.

BY GLENN DILLARD GUNN.

EUGENE YSAYE made his last appearance for the present season as soloist with the Chicago Symphony orchestra Tuesday evening in the second concert of the North Shore Music festival. The gymnasium of the Northwestern university was completely filled, a fact which may be interpreted as evidence that the patrons of these events indorse the claims of those who describe Mr. Ysaye as the greatest of the violinists. Convinced that this claim represents no exaggeration, but may be supported by the most potent arguments, it becomes the task of the reviewer to state with such precision as may be commanded the qualities of art that entitle him to this exalted position.

That task is made easier by the circumstance that he elected to say farewell with such familiar selections from his repertoire as the Saint-Saëns B minor and Bruch G minor concertos, to which he was persuaded to add as an encore the Saint-Saëns Introduction and Rondo Capriccioso. Many hearings have given the average concert goer that intimate acquaintance with these works which alone may prepare the casual listener to appreciate fully and in detail Ysaye's marvelous powers of definition.

The predominating quality of his art, the quality that distinguishes it above that of his great colleagues, is not tone, though his tone is as noble and as varied as the violin may produce; nor yet virtuosity, though every mechanical consideration is dissipated by his superlative technical command of the instrument. It is a quality analogous to speech.

To state the musical thought with such clarity that the listener may visualize it, and in the moment of presentation to endow it with every attribute of emotion that it may symbolize; to give it throbbing, pulsing life, movement, color of tone and of mood; to underscore its every accent, tender or wistful, grave or gay, with the convincing impulse of eloquent inflection—this, so far as it may be set forth in words, is the peculiar faculty of Ysaye's genius that places him above and beyond all others on the heights of art and of fame.

To enumerate the great moments in his performance Tuesday evening is to confess that there were moments less great. Mechanical perfection in such measure as was attained in his performance of the Mozart concerto early in the last season may not be claimed for his readings of Tuesday evening. But the blemishes were all to be listed in the category of accidents. The first movement of the Saint-Saëns concerto was distinguished by the appealing beauty of tone and mood wherewith he invested the second theme. The romanza was ideal and the finale reached a climax in the delivery of the brilliant coda which attained a most exciting and exhilarating tempo.

To the Bruch concerto he brought solemn earnestness that found voice in stately tempos, in serene, uplifting song, in a certain measured eloquence of utterance that sounded greater depths of feeling than were disclosed in the brilliant Gallic work. But for either he defined interpretative standards with a completeness that this generation of concertgoers probably will not witness again. All the glory of the performance may not be bestowed upon Mr. Ysaye, for Mr. Stock and the orchestra supplied accompaniments that were models of sympathetic support.

In view of the arduous labors which await him in the Wagner program Saturday evening Mr. Stock elected to make the orchestral contributions to Tuesday's concert somewhat popular. Hadley's clever overture "In Bohemia," which is distinguished by its wealth of apt characterization, and Oldberg's Theme and Variations were the most important numbers. The composer conducted the latter work, which upon second hearing impressed by its objective and contemplative spirit, by a certain reticence which imparts to it an atmosphere and a quality of beauty almost classic. Its relationship to the music of the present is attested by an occasional suggestion of the manner of Elgar.

The orchestra contributed, further, Enesco's worthless but brilliant Roumanian rhapsody and Tschaikowsky's Marche Slave. Tonight Gabriel Pierne's cantata "The Children's Crusade" will be presented by the festival chorus of 600 voices, a chorus of 500 young women from the Evanston high schools, and the orchestra. The soloists will be Mrs. Mabel Sharp Herdien, soprano; Miss Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano; Miss Edith Chapman Goold, soprano; Paul Althouse, tenor; and Gustaf Holmquist, bass. Dean Lutkin will conduct.

Fighting Cost of Living.

BY MARY ELEANOR O'DONNELL.

"Happy Though Poor."

We are doing better now on the same salary of approximately $90 per month than ten years ago, and the family now numbers five instead of two. The reason?—experience and careful study of suggestions offered by older housewives and culled from THE TRIBUNE. At first I did my best, but without system and chafed at being poor. While I would like more of this world's goods, contentment and making the best of what we have have made me happy, though poor. First and most important, I keep books. Every cent spent is accounted for. I attend to all buying personally—never order by phone. I buy the best (this does not mean the most expensive). "Left overs" are reserved daintily. Not a crumb of bread is wasted. Left over vegetables form a basis for salads. Some staples we buy in fairly large quantities; rice and such as do not deteriorate by standing, as macaroni and sphagetti do. I do my own laundry, except the large pieces, which I am not strong enough to handle. I do all my own sewing and mend every piece before it is put away. This makes clothes last much longer, especially stockings.

MRS. H. B. WHEAT, 523 South California avenue.

They Plan Together.

Our family consists of my husband and myself. We do light housekeeping, paying $20 per month for three rooms. I try in every way to keep down the high cost of living. My husband makes $75 a month and we pay $5 a month for a lot. My grocery bill I watch very closely, buying staples in a quantity and apples by the box, which I keep in a cool place. A box containing about seven dozen I pay 69 cents for and they are good, sweet apples. I buy a quart of milk each day, which we drink. I find it takes the place of meat. My grocery bill, milk, included, is never over $14 and I have everything that is nice and wholesome. I make all my clothes and trim my hats, which I find a great help. I wash all the handkerchiefs, hose, and napkins. My laundry bill is small. My husband is always clean and neat, but very careful of his clothes, doing his own pressing. I make my husband's shirts, which I find last so much longer. I watch the papers for the sales on all dress goods and toilet articles. I have a book in which I keep account of all expenses. Therefore at the end of a month I know exactly how much and where my money has gone. My husband belongs to several lodges, where we get so much enjoyment from social functions. We plan together and each month strive to see what we can bank toward a home or "rainy day." We manage so that we always can take a nice trip in the summer and not feel that we have to skimp, either. We try to live within our means and be contented with what we have.

MRS. E. T.

Keeps a Boarding House.

I am a widow, with one little girl 4 years old. I have five boarders, some at two meals, some at one, and some at three. In all I receive $21 a week. With careful management my groceries do not exceed $11. My rent is $5.50. I do my own washing, and with it I do a small washing for a woman. With little more gas I add $2 to my income every week.

I trade by the week and settle every Monday, and when all is paid I have $5 or more left for clothing or things needed in the house. Besides I have a little coin bank; also one for my little girl. That way I manage to save from $1 to $2 a week.

MRS. P. L.

Garden and Chickens Help.

My husband receives $60 a month. There are just two of us in the family. Our expenses for one month for fuel, groceries, and meats is $14. One load of wood costing us 50 cents will last us one month. I do my own baking, washing, and ironing. I have fruit trees and can all of my own fruit. I have a small garden, in which I raise all of my vegetables. I have forty chickens, which furnish me all of my eggs. We put $18 in the bank every month.

Freak Newspapers.

A few years ago a journal called the Lunatic Herald made its appearance in London. There is a beggars' journal regularly published in Paris, which gives particulars of charitable institutions and of "pitches" that are worth "working," besides announcing in advance the big society weddings, funerals, parties, etc., where a beggar may do good business; and there is published in Zurich, Switzerland, the Engaged Couples' Advertiser, the object of which is to furnish advertising firms with the names and addresses of those who are about to set up housekeeping. The latter profit by the numerous samples of goods sent them. The Hirmondo of Budapest is the only "newspaper" in the world which telephones instead of printing its news. For half a crown a month the subscriber has all the news of the day phoned to him. At noon he may take up his receiver and listen to an enthralling short story, and in the evening he may listen to the music and singing at the Grand Opera house.

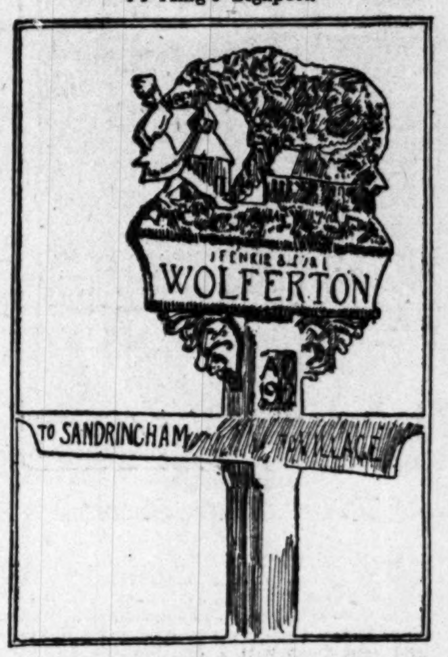
A King's Signpost.



The illustration shows a signpost remarkable for its decorative qualities which King George of England has just had erected by the roadside near Wolferton railway station on the Sandringham estate. The post is surmounted by a device in oak, carved, painted, and gilded, depicting the god Tyr trying to wrench his arm from the jaws of Fenrir, the great mythological wolf of the old Norsemen, after whom, it is supposed, Wolferton was named. The wolf was symbolical of Fate. In the background is a representation of the gilded roofs of Asgard.

Jumping Fish.

Jumping as a means of locomotion is shared by a variety of animals of widely different classes. Kangaroos and jerboas among the mammals, thrushes and robins among the birds, as well as such familiar forms as frogs, cockles, crickets, and fleas, all illustrate this proneness to leap, mostly as a means of getting quickly over the ground, and even lions and tigers, which never spring in ordinary circumstances, readily adopt this method of attacking their victims.

A considerable number of fishes are remarkable for their leaping powers, and several of these performers are on that account specially favored by anglers, since by jumping clear of the water, in some cases many times in succession, they tax the fisherman's skill more severely than fishes less active and thereby give added zest to their capture.

Members of the salmon family are universally famous for their high jumps. The sea trout are untiring acrobats, and a fish of a pound weight will more than once jump several times its own length out of the water when hooked before coming to the net. Unless the fisherman responds by promptly lowering the top of his rod the fragile gut is likely to break, and as it is part of every sportsman's creed to appreciate his pastime in proportion to the difficulties it presents, the sea trout stands high in the angler's estimation.

At their best salmon can jump at least ten feet above the surface, a feat achieved by slapping the water with the powerful tail and flexing the body until the head and tail all but meet.

The grandest of all these leapers is the tarpon, which may measure six or seven feet and weigh a couple of hundred pounds.

COURT MADE AN ART GALLERY IN SUIT OVER TREE PORTRAIT.

Egard Leon Demands $3,000 from Estate for Picture of Late Chicagoan Painted in 1904.

Judge Pomeroy's courtroom yesterday presented the appearance of a section of the French salon, during the hearing of the suit of Egard Leon against the estate of Lambert Tree. The jury faced a gallery of paintings propped up on a bench, and the witnesses were mainly local artists.

Upon the death of Mr. Tree on Oct. 9, 1910, Leon presented a bill of $3,000 for a portrait he had painted in 1904. The estate refused to pay, and the Probate court upheld it. Leon appealed the case.

Howard G. Grey related a conversation he had concerning the portrait. He said Leon had begged Tree to sit for a portrait, saying if he once had a well known Chicagoan for a patron he would have plenty of commissions. Tree replied that he did not have the time to spare. Leon met this with the statement that he would paint from a photograph and would thus require but two or three sittings. Tree finally consented to the arrangement.

The Bonnat portrait of Tree, which hangs in the Newberry library and cost $2,500, was introduced in comparison. John D. York, Edgar S. Cameron, Christian Abrahamsen, and William J. O'Brien were among the artists who testified.

SOCIETY WOMEN WIELD HOES.

Wabash, Ind., May 28.—[Special.]—Ten Wabash society women this afternoon cleaned up a vacant lot in the business section of the city, using shovels, rakes, and hoes in their work, which was done under the supervision of the Wabash Civic league. Flower beds were arranged and trees planted.

RESINOL HEALS ITCHING SKINS

And Clears Unsightly Complexions.

The soothing, healing medication in Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap penetrates every tiny pore of the skin, clears it of all impurities, and stops itching instantly. Resinol positively, speedily heals eczema, rashes, ringworm, and other eruptions, and clears away disfiguring pimples and blackheads, when other treatments prove worse than useless.

Resinol is not an experiment. It is a doctor's prescription which proved so wonderfully successful for skin troubles that it has been used by other doctors all over the country for eighteen years. No other treatment for the skin now before the public can show such a record of professional approval. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap, but you can test them at our expense. Just write to Dept. 27-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md., and we will send you a generous trial by parcel post.—Advertisement.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN LOSES PART OF MAIN BUILDING

South Wing, Housing, Valuable Collections and Records, Destroyed by Fire—Estimated Damage $100,000.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 28.—[Special.]—The south wing of University hall, the oldest building on the University of Michigan campus, was destroyed by fire today. The property loss probably will amount to $100,000.

The burned part of the building had been used by the mechanical and zoölogical departments, which lost valuable apparatus. Valuable botanical and zoölogical collections and records were housed there. Half a dozen large private libraries of professors and the university treasurer's office were destroyed. The fire originated from chemicals in the laboratory. The section destroyed was built in 1848.

The university water plant was not connected, men having been at work upon it for some time to increase its efficiency. About 3,000 students turned out to fight the blaze, and their efforts saved the rest of the building.

WIFE GETS HALF OF ESTATE.

Arthur J. King, Late President of Piano Company, Leaves Balance to Two Sons.

Arthur J. King, late president of the King Piano company, who died May 21, left an estate estimated at $340,000, mostly in personal property. His widow, Mrs. Angeline E. King, 6332 Kenmore avenue, receives one-half of the estate under the terms of the will, which was filed yesterday in the Probate court. The remaining half is divided in equal shares between two sons, Frank King, Buffalo, and Arthur C. King, who resides with his mother. Miss Elizabeth King, a daughter of King by a former wife, is left unprovided for in the will.

GIRL ELOPES IN NIGHTGOWN.

Joliet, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]—A ladder leaning against a second story window informed Robert Jones of Wesley township this morning that his ward, Alice Hopper, who six months ago had been paroled from the Geneva Home for Wayward Girls, had eloped in her nightgown with Wallie Jones, a cousin of Jones, the guardian. Alice and Wallie never had spoken to each other, but used the rural free delivery privilege to advantage. Wallie is 35 years old, a bachelor, and is worth $60,000. Alice is 17 and an orphan.

See Where It Comes From—Note the Little Appliance Which Furnishes All the Hot Water for the Seven Warm Refreshing Baths Which the Seven Members of This Chicago Family Will Enjoy Every Day This Summer.

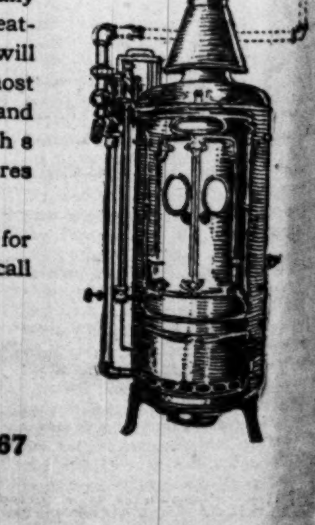
Every night is bath night in this home. With absolutely no limit to the hot water and no waiting for it to heat.

When a bath is desired, the opening of the faucet starts the gas flame that heats the water as fast as it flows through a coiled pipe in the heater. Closing the faucet extinguishes the flame. Thus the heater works only while the water is actually running into the bath.

The several people who enjoy the luxury of these baths never give the heater a bit of care or a minute's thought summer or winter. They couldn't get better hot water service through a pipe line to the hot springs.

Once installed in any home an automatic heater of this type is an asset as valuable and quite as permanent as any other feature of the house.

The sketch in the lower right hand corner shows one of these automatic heaters in outline. It stands about 3½ feet high and can be set up in the basement or any out-of-the-way part of the house.



We install literally thousands of these heaters every year. You will appreciate one most during the Spring and Summer months when the other fires are out.

Jumping Fish.

Jumping as a means of locomotion is shared y a variety of animals of widely different asses. Kangaroos and jerboas among the ammals, thrushes and robins among the birds, well as such familiar forms as frogs, cockles, ickets, and fleas, all illustrate this proneness leap, mostly as a means of getting quickly er the ground, and even lions and tigers, hich never spring in ordinary circumstances, adily adopt this method of attacking their ctims.

A considerable number of fishes are remarkble for their leaping powers, and several of ese performers are on that account specially vored by anglers, since by jumping clear of e water, in some cases many times in succes on, they tax the fisherman's skill more severe than fishes less active and thereby give added st to their capture.

Members of the salmon family are universally mous for their high jumps. The sea trout are tiring acrobats, and a fish of a pound weight ll more than once jump several times its own ngth out of the water when hooked before ming to the net. Unless the fisherman reonds by promptly lowering the top of his rod e fragile gut is likely to break, and as it is rt of every sportsman's creed to appreciate s pastime in proportion to the difficulties it esents, the sea trout stands high in the gler's estimation.

At their best salmon can jump at least ten et above the surface, a feat achieved by slapng the water with the powerful tail and flexg the body until the head and tail all but meet. The grandest of all these leapers is the tapon, which may measure six or seven feet and eigh a couple of hundred pounds.

The World's Cooks

By Jane Eddington

The Battuto (a Stuffing or Hash).

ROME.

THE word "battuto" occurs in many Italian recipes, followed by an enumeration of its ingredients, which are to be chopped and used variously, often as a stuffing. In some cases the battuto is exactly equivalent to the French farci, and again it is but a tiny mixture of many chopped things, used principally to season a dish. Again it is a dish by itself.

In a Neapolitan cook book there is a perfect treatise on the battuto, with twenty-six recipes. The subtitle describes the book as "'a work containing a great number of recipes for meat dishes, pastries, preserves, liquors, ices, etc., indispensable to the heads of families who desire to have economical cookery, familiar and wholesome, to give the best dinners and suppers, to make dishes for the sick and convalescent, to learn the best manner of carving meat, etc."

The subject in question has the following introduction:

"The battuti and the amorsellati (minced meat with egg) are the meat dishes that are the most economical, the most savory, and the most necessary for the family and for any kitchen of the first grade. An expert cook and father of the family must study these compositions in order that he can at small expense make new dishes and employ such parts of meat as would otherwise not be used."

The Italians, like other Europeans, if they are up to date, have the meat chopper, but in the following the direction is to chop with a half moon of iron or with another sort of chopping knife, well sharpened.

SIMPLE BATTUTO—Take some cooked meat, some bread soaked in a good broth or in milk, a little onion, the least bit of garlic, some parsley, and a small pepper. Then chop all in a wooden chopping bowl until as fine as possible. Then put the mixture into a deep plate or saucepan, and add some egg, some grated Parmesan cheese, some salt, and some grated nutmeg, and if it is not an even composition mix it until it is, forming it into a kind of mush which one can use for stuffing, for meat rolls, for croquettes, for molds of meat, etc.

BATTUTO OF HAM—In place of beef used in the above use good ham, or half beef and half ham.

There follows these recipes one containing a long description of a stuffing of many mixtures, with a foundation of cooked chopped meat, egg, grated cheese, and bread soaked in broth, with a proportionate quantity of any vegetable the cook is pleased to use, green beans (cooked and chopped), little pumpkins, mushrooms, artichokes, green peas, carrots, beets, spinach, turnip, onions of various sorts, etc. All these vegetables must be blanched or half cooked in boiling water, and then finished in butter, and seasoned with salt, pepper, etc. If the stuffing becomes too wet grated bread must be added in necessary proportion.

BATTUTO OF FOWL—Take the flesh of a large boiled fowl, bread crumbs soaked in broth or milk, half the brain of a calf and powdered spices without any pepper. Pound all in a mortar, and chop in a chopping bowl with a chopper. Add to it two eggs, two ounces of grated Parmesan cheese, four to six leaves of parsley, chopped fine, and form into a mushlike composition.

Stuffings like this the Italians use in little squares and rounds of paste which they cook and serve as they do maccaroni in a savory sauce. The meat composition or paste is as smooth almost as butter, and the pastry is cut and folded in different shapes, so that the completed thing has many different names—"capelletti" (little hats), "tortellini" (little tarts), etc. Some of these little meats in paste are fried in deep fat and look like tiny turnovers.

BATTUTO OF CALVES LIVER—Take some calves liver, clean it well of skin and glands; chop it evenly and add half a clove of garlic, some sweet basil, some parsley, thyme, a little piece of pounded pepper, nutmeg, a like quantity of bread crumbs soaked in broth, uniting all well and forming it into a paste.

Notice that the more penetrating seasonings are used for this than for the chicken. It is in this way that the Italians make the less fine kinds of meat palatable.

In making a stuffing of chicken livers, first scald the livers with boiling water; cut them into little slices and then dice. They are then fried with all manner of things, which are not common among us.

What the Romans call "rifatto," or a hash of boiled beef, the Neapolitans call "battuto," and they even take the stuffing of pig sausages and mix it with a like quantity of bread soaked in broth, adding eggs, Parmesan cheese, a clove of pounded garlic, laurel leaf, parsley, pepper, etc., and call it a battuto.

Out of the twenty-six recipes given in the above mentioned book five are for stuffings of raw meat, and eight for stuffings without meat, such as those used during Lent.

BATTUTO OF EGGS—Put the yolks of two hard boiled eggs into a mortar, a like quantity of grated Parmesan cheese, and the same amount of bread soaked in milk, with salt, pounded cinnamon, two raw eggs, and a piece of butter. Form thus a paste like a stuffing (ripieni). You may add to this some nutmeg, pepper, a little thyme, also mushrooms which have been cooked in oil and garlic, and artfully chopped with the same quantity of little peas.

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets.

Eyes.

[Copyright: 1913: By Lillian Russell.]

THE eye that lightens or laughs, that is filled with deep sympathy, is the one we remember as the beautiful eye, although its mere physical beauty depends more upon the size and elongation than upon the color. If the form is bad or the eye not set well in the head, no color can make it beautiful.

Deep frowning lines between the eyes give an expression of discontent, and the moment such lines appear one should begin to examine closely—not her eyes, but her heart—for the feelings which spring from the heart find quickest expression in the eye.

Bad eyesight, however, will often create this habit of frowning, and no amount of massaging will remedy the trouble. If one continues to glower and scowl the lines will grow deeper and deeper.

It is the optimist who goes through life with cheer and laughter, presenting a smooth face to the world; it is the optimist whose eyes are always bright and whose glances show the beauty of hopefulness and enthusiasm.

The eyeglasses of today are wonderful, their crystal clear lenses being fitted into light frames, which may be easily and securely adjusted to the nose. Great care should be taken in wearing glasses to adjust them properly. Most of us remember the dear old grandmother who wore her heavy gold bowed glasses on the tip of her nose and persisted in looking over them.

Glasses should be worn as near the eye as possible. When an inch or more from the eye they are not only unbecoming, but are a strain, as the lenses are rarely made for focusing at that distance.

Sties are a frequent cause of eye trouble in children, and also of older people. They are due to the irritation of the hair follicles out of which the eyelashes spring. They should be opened as soon as pus is formed and kept clean with a solution of boracic acid.

Puffiness under the eyes is usually due to one of two things—late hours or eye strain. Eye strain is generally caused by working or reading in a poor light, or in too great a glare, either being equally bad for the sight. You undoubtedly know of the danger of using the eyes in a poor light, but are you aware that too great a glare is equally bad for the sight? Bear this in mind while away on your vacation. Do not read on the beach or on the river while the sun is still strong, unless provided with an awning of some sort, or at least a parasol, as the strain on the sight resulting from this sets up inflammation which in its turn causes puffiness under the eyes. To relieve the inflammation use a soothing eye wash. An outward application to the skin beneath the eyes will also help. Mix together twenty grains of tannic acid with one ounce of pure glycerin, and paint the skin beneath the lower lid, using a fine camel's hair brush. Accompany this treatment with a course of gentle massage to the skin around the eyes, and in a short time the trouble will have disappeared.

Remember: Be good to your eyes if you wish to appear young.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

INQUIRER: To have the best and most normal carriage possible it is simply necessary to keep the chin in. This will have a tendency to keep in a normal and erect position the muscles of the back of the neck and will also pull out the chest and throw back the shoulders. All this, mind you, for the mere holding in of the chin in a proper manner.

MARGUERITE S.: Walking is an excellent exercise for developing the calf of the legs. Tennis, golf, or any exercise where you have to use the muscles of your limbs will develop them. Another good exercise is to sit in a chair and place the foot flat on the floor; press forward, throwing the weight on the ball of the foot; press hard against the floor. Relax the foot and repeat many times. Do not wear shoes while doing this exercise. Remember you must not expect results in a week, for this takes time, but if you will be persistent in the exercise I am sure you will obtain the desired results.

MILDRED L.: I do not care for a greaseless cream. It must be remembered it is the oils in the creams that properly cleanse the skin and nourish it. Here is a formula for a rose cream. You can make it up yourself or have it made up at any drug store: Ninety grains of white wax, ninety grains spermaceti, two ounces almond oil, one and one-half ounces rosewater, and four drops oil of rose. Melt together in a double boiler and beat until cold.

"In the Corner there is a request from 'N. B.' for an inexpensive but good pie crust. I think I have found one that never fails and is good for all occasions. This recipe is for one crust only, but could be doubled for two crusts. Three heaping tablespoonfuls of flour, a heaping tablespoonful white lard, two tablespoonfuls of ice water (if flour is very dry add one tablespoonful more), one-quarter spoon salt, and the same of baking powder. Sift flour, salt, and baking powder into the pan; add lard and chop very fine with spatula; add water and work with spatula. Do not use hands at any time until turned out on to board, then shape round with hands; roll out to desired thickness and line pan. Bake a light brown.

Number Two.

"'Darius Green and His Flying Machine' was published in the year 1860 some time, in Our Young Folks, a most excellent, deservedly popular young people's magazine of that time. It has long since merged into the St. Nicholas. Possibly there may be old files in existence.

"This poem, familiar to the boys and girls of the last generation, has just now—in view of the wonderful daily developments and progress in aerial navigation—a new interest. Poor Darius was a little ahead of his time and was laughed at, as seems to be the fate of 'advanced thinkers' generally until their theories have been worked out on a practical plan and accepted by the 'grinning brothers' of the race.

"The quoted note was copied from a newspaper clipping that was published at the same time as the poem entire. It is by John T. Trowbridge.

MRS. E. P. S."

Number Three.

"I would say to 'Englishwoman' that I am a member of the 'Daughters of St. George.' I saw her request and know how I felt when I was a stranger. I tried to find a lodge. I looked up the one at Denver, Colo., and find there is a good one called 'Queen of the West.' You could easily find out the address by looking in a Denver directory.

K. M. S."

Number Four.

"The question is often asked why seeds are planted according to the phases of the moon. The reason is very simple. Vegetables, whose values are in the top, such as lettuce, etc., should have as much light as can be afforded them at the start. If, when they come up, the moon is beginning to shed light for several hours during the night, the plant is strengthened. On the other hand, root vegetables, such as beets, etc., should not have so much light or the farmer will find the top developing at the expense of the roots. So for the exact time to plant ask a German gardener or any one who knows. Nature has laws and he who is wise enough to find them out will gain success when those who work blindly will fail to the last results.

"In answer to 'Mrs. A. D.' I send a recipe for mashed potato cake: Four eggs, one-quarter cake chocolate, one teaspoonful vanilla, one teaspoonful cinnamon, nutmeg, and baking powder, one cup sweet milk, two cups flour, one cup raisins, one sup chopped nuts, one-half cup butter, two cups brown sugar, one cup warmed mashed potatoes. Bake with a slow fire in a dripping pan. It is an excellent cake with or without icing and keeps moist.

"MRS. W. C. B."

Number Seven.

"I think this is what 'M. C. D.' wants for consuming ashes: Common salt, one pound; oxalic acid, two ounces; water, one gallon. Mix and moisten a mixture containing one part coal and three parts ashes, and a better fuel than pure coal is obtained. This mixture will, upon being placed upon a burning fire, fuse into a cokelike mass and deposit little residue. This is a cobbler's secret.

"In reply to the suggestion about keeping out ants, I will say I never found anything that did as much good as grease. I tried everything I ever heard of. A saucer containing formalhehyde will kill them, but, being a poison, it must be handled with care. I have at times been troubled with different kinds of ants, both large and small, black and red. I found a two gallon jar that they were fond of. I smeared the top rim of the jar and never saw another ant. I have been told that fresh tansy leaves—a May weed—and other things would drive them away, but I never had any success with them.

Inquiry of Mrs. J. E. H.

In answer to the inquiry of Mrs. J. E. H. I will say I have found the following: In the preface to a work on autographs among other albums noticed as being in the British museum is that of Kreig with Jacob Bobart's autograph and the verse:

"Count that day lost whose low descending sun

MRS. M. A. T.

In reply to Mrs. J. E. H.'s inquiry I would say that the lines she seeks are by Longfellow. Correctly rendered they are:

"Count that day lost whose low descending sun

Laura Jean Libbey's Advice

By Laura Jean Libbey

How to Pick a Wife.

[Copyright: 1913: By Laura Jean Libbey.]

THE worry of most people who have daughters is to see them married to the right kind of men. If there are sons in the household they worry lest they might marry the wrong girl and live unhappily ever after. The mother and sisters are eager to inform the boys how to pick out a wife.

As is usually the case, their ideas and his notions do not jibe at all. The mother talks to him by the hour of the advantages of a wife who can cook, keep house, make her own clothes, and be a jewel in the household setting. The girls tell him that, of all things, he must be careful not to choose a sweetheart who is envious or sarcastic.

The father airs his opinion that she should have common sense and, above all things, not be extravagant. She should not be given to furbelows, rouge, or fads.

When a son sums up what all of her good qualities are to be he finds that his folks expect him to marry not an ordinary girl of the earth earthly but an angel. He has not the ghost of an idea as to where he shall find such a one. If he is introduced to a girl whom he rather fancies he hesitates about permitting his folks to meet her, for he realizes that they are ready to pick no end of flaws with her after the shortest acquaintance. He doesn't know anything about her propensities in regard to breadmaking, bedmaking, scouring, cleaning, gown and headgear making, but he does know that she has a trim figure, a pretty face, and a voice that sounds good to him. He believes that's all the signpost he needs to study on the road to picking a wife.

If he finds one of the good traits described in the one girl she has few if any of the others. After he has passed a score of eligible girls by he concludes that the safest way is to go forward blindfolded, letting his heart blaze the trail, following blindly the path it leads to.

While he undoubtedly is grateful for the interest taken by his relatives, he figures it out that they won't have to live with his wife. But as he will have to live with her he must marry the girl who best suits him, without stopping to find out what faults she must have.

A married friend to whom he goes gives the marriageable young fellow this advice: "It isn't always wise to choose the wife who can do everything." The household drudge doesn't always have an easy time of it with her husband's family. If his mother's servant is off for a week's vacation the daughter-in-law often feels it her duty to proffer her services in helping out with the washing, ironing, baking, etc. If the seamstress disappoints the girls when all their spring clothes are cut out and ready for her hand the daughter-in-law cannot very well get out of rising to the occasion and doing the arduous planning and fitting. She's too weary to be envious. She is at every one's beck and call. Her own home must necessarily suffer for want of her supervision. She is so worn from helping the folks, being jack of all trades, as it were, that she has very little time to devote to her husband. Her own household becomes untidy in consequence.

The husband of such a woman wishes to goodness that he had not married some one who could turn her hand to almost every kind of work. Love should be the only safe guide to follow in the choice of a wife. If a man loves a girl he should marry her, regardless of her accomplishments, as long as her morals are pure and true.

"He May Ring Up."

"Dear Miss Libbey: I invited a young man to my house the other evening and he did not come. He has not even rung up to let me know why he did not come. He has taken me to numerous parties, where I have always had a very nice time. He seemed very attentive. Last night a friend of mine rang up and told me she was going to a party with him. If he wants me to go out with him, should I go? When he rings up what should I say to him. I have gone out with him since November, 1911, and have been going out with him to theaters and parties quite often. I am a young lady attending high school, and I have numerous other boy friends, but I go out with them very seldom. I should like to know as soon as possible, as he may ring up.

M."

The fellow owes you an explanation for not calling the evening he made an engagement to do so. Better ask him about it at the first opportunity.

The Girl Chum or the Man?

"Dear Miss Libbey: I am a young girl and am in love with a very nice young man, who comes to see me very often. I have known him for about six months. I also have a girl chum whom I love very dearly, and she is with me every day, and she also is in love with this young man. Will you please tell me what to do, as I don't think I can live without the young man. Should I give up my girl chum, or the young man?

M."

You better let the fellow solve your problem for you. He no doubt has a preference in the matter. If he proves that he is more interested in you than he is in the other girl there will be no need of breaking up the friendship between you and the girl, unless she wills it otherwise.

Should She Have Arisen?

"Dear Miss Libbey: The other evening, while seated talking to two young men, a third gentleman, an acquaintance of all three of us, came up to us and spoke. Should I have arisen to shake hands with him, as did the young men, or should I have remained seated? Please answer.

M. P. S."

A young lady never arises to shake hands under such circumstances. The young men arose out of deference to you.

EXPERT EXPLAINS NEED OF CHICAGO IN RAIL TERMINALS

Annual Traffic Increase of 10 Per Cent Makes Problem More Difficult.

ROADS MUST ACT TOGETHER

FREIGHT MOVEMENT CHIEF FACTOR

WHERE 'WE WILL' THERE'S A WAY
—Chicago's New Proverb.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

WE WILL

"The traffic of the railroads in Chicago increases about 10 per cent per annum. In twenty-five years the present terminals will be entirely inadequate and require more than twice the present areas.

"The areas will not be available, except at prohibitive cost. There must be an entire revolution in the manner of conducting the railroad traffic. . . . The business district of the city is practically circumscribed by areas used for railroad purposes. Much of this use is for purposes other than local traffic, and in the interests of the roads and for the commercial development of Chicago this condition should be changed. . . . The solution of the economical and expeditious handling of the vast freight traffic in the Chicago district presents a most perplexing problem, and one that will require the highest technical skill and the full coöperation of all the railways and the city in order to meet the demands of a rapidly growing commercial center and to enable the carrying out ultimately of the plan of Chicago. . . .

LOUIS C. FRITCH is a railroad and consulting engineer of the highest professional standing. After serving as division engineer, superintendent, and assistant to the president of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Cincinnati he came to Chicago as consulting engineer of the Illinois Central railroad company in 1908.

In that capacity he made complete plans for the electrification of the suburban terminals of the Illinois Central. For the last four years Mr. Fritch has been chief engineer of the Chicago and Great Western railroad company. In January, 1912, he made an address covering the whole subject of passenger and freight terminals in Chicago, from which the sentences printed above are taken.

All through his address Mr. Fritch makes clear his conviction that real coöperation among all the railroads is necessary if the big problem is to be really solved. He thinks the problem should be studied as a whole, and not gone at in a haphazard, selfish, hurried way. Downtown facilities, where property values are high and great congestion exists, should be shared in common by the various roads. And in that way only can Chicago ever hope to force the electrification of the railroads.

"THE use of facilities and approaches thereto on a common basis will tend to reduce the cost of operation and fixed charges, and will be in the interest of economy.

"The problem of electrification of the roads becomes much simpler where facilities are joint and approaches used in common by groups of roads. It brings the problem within the realm of economical possibility, whereas if attempted under present conditions the expense is practically prohibitive."

Mr. Fritch recognizes the importance of having convenient downtown stations for suburban traffic, exactly as do the advocates of all the plans suggested for new freight and passenger terminals. It is one of the unfortunate features of the present fight that many suburban communities seem to have been deceived into believing that the Hunt plan, for instance, proposes to stop all suburban trains at Twelfth street.

"THE suburban traffic," says Mr. Fritch, "is in almost every case but one handled in the same stations at which the through traffic is operated. The proper handling of this traffic requires station facilities located as near the center of the business district as possible.

"The two lines having the densest suburban traffic could provide such facilities substantially as at present. The remaining lines could make use of one station for this purpose and the La Salle street station would supply this need admirably.

"The future will develop that suburban traffic to be handled economically and provide the frequency of service necessary should be operated with electric power. This class of traffic operated with steam power is unprofitable. It cannot compete successfully with electrically operated service.

"The solution of handling the passenger traffic in Chicago is one that can be readily and practically reached if it is undertaken before any more large stations are erected that will defeat this plan."

MR. FRITCH recognizes the overwhelming importance of freight traffic as the chief factor of the terminal situation in Chicago.

"The freight traffic handled annually in Chicago amounts to upwards of 10,000,000 cars, or about 30,000 per day. About 70 per cent of this is local traffic destined to Chicago and forwarded locally from Chicago. About 30 per cent represents through traffic originating beyond and destined beyond Chicago, merely passing through Chicago.

"Chicago is interested directly only in the proper handling of its local traffic. To handle this local traffic requires receiving and forwarding stations and team tracks located in close proximity to the delivery and receiving points. The commercial growth of a city is more dependent upon its freight than passenger facilities. The growth of Chicago commerce has been so rapid that nearly every railroad's freight facilities have reached their limit of capacity.

"THERE will be a revolution in the method of handling local freight traffic in large cities in the future. A small city is adequately served with a single freight forwarding and receiving station, but, as the city grows, the trucking distances increase, requiring substations located with reference to the origin of traffic in order that trucking distances may be reduced. The average distance traversed by a single railway within the limits of Chicago is about ten miles. Obviously a single station could not properly serve such a vast area. This makes necessary numerous freight forwarding and receiving stations and team track facilities. The large terminal freight stations will in the future be replaced by numerous freight stations jointly used and located with reference to the center of gravity of traffic.

"This will release large areas now monopolized for railway use in congested centers of cities. Large consolidating freight facilities will be located in outer yards, where freight collected from numerous substations will be consolidated into cars for outbound movement. Inbound freight will be here distributed for delivery at various subdelivery stations. This practice is already in effect in some of the large cities of the country, but has not been adopted to any extent in Chicago, where such a system is in greatest need."

From beginning to end of his address Mr. Fritch speaks from the standpoint of an engineer who sees that the prosperity of the railways and that of the city are tied up in the same bundle.

"IT has been truthfully stated that 'Chicago has been made largely by the railroads and its future commercial supremacy is dependent upon them.' But, like other things, in its marvelous progress, it has outgrown its railroad facilities." So he begins his address. And he concludes with a word of warning to the business interests of the city:

"We are all interested not only in the growth of our individual railway systems but in the growth of Chicago, to make it the greatest railway center and commercial market in the world; but in order to accomplish this the facilities to handle the traffic must be provided, otherwise other gateways will develop and a large part of the traffic will find its way through those channels which afford the best facilities."

When the question of electrification of railway terminals in Chicago was up for settlement the Association of Commerce was able to persuade all the roads to coöperate in the establishment of a commission to investigate and report on the subject. Perhaps now that the quite as important subject of the location of terminals is pressing the same influential body might use its good offices and get all the roads to agree to at least discuss the subject from the broad standpoint of the good of all the city and its people.

Postmaster General Announces Ordinary Stamps May Be Affixed for Purpose Hereafter.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Postmaster General Burleson today issued an order discontinuing the use of the special 10 cent registry stamp and providing that no additional registry stamps shall be printed after the present supply is exhausted. Hereafter ordinary postage stamps may be used for the prepayment of registry fees.

LOOKS AFTER HIS BUSINESS WITH BROKEN NECK MENDING.

Plaster Cast Substituted for Head Harness, Denver Man Leaves Hospital Unmindful of Injury.

Denver, Colo., May 28.—Marshall Erb is attending to his business affairs as usual today, with only a plaster cast to remind him that he broke his neck ten days ago. Erb was getting out of bed when he gave his head a peculiar twist, and in some manner fractured the third cervical vertebra.

At first he thought the mishap trivial, but after several days went to a hospital, where the extent of his injury was discovered.

He was kept in the hospital until yesterday, strapped in bed with his head in a harness, with weights arranged in such a way as to keep the neck rigid. Yesterday a plaster cast was substituted for the harness and Erb was permitted to go home.

ERECTORS' SLEUTH NOT GUILTY.

Robert J. Foster, Alleged Assailant of Frank M. Ryan, Convicted "Dynamiter," Is Cleared.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—Robert J. Foster, the detective employed by the National Erectors' association during the investigation of the "dynamite conspiracy," was found not guilty of assaulting Frank M. Ryan, president of the International Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' association, in criminal court here today. Foster was fined $125, however, upon charges of carrying concealed weapons and of drawing deadly weapons.

SEEK HUSBAND OF DEAD WOMAN

Young Louis Schauers, Who Married Aged Joliet Widow, Vanishes After Funeral.

Joliet, Ill., May 28.—Louis Schauers, the young man who married Mrs. Mary Boyle Collins, the 70 year old woman, whose death in Aurora is being investigated by the authorities, disappeared immediately after the funeral yesterday in Morris, Ill. The relatives of the woman promise immediate legal action to protect their interests in a large estate. A Chicago chemist is examining the vital organs of the woman.

BACK PENNSYLVANIA SCHEME

WACKER AND DELANO ATTACKED

The west side had a chance last night to say what it thought of all persons who desire to remove the Pennsylvania union depot from its present location, and it minced no words in the telling.

The Chicago plan was called a "dream," a "delusion," and members of the commission were attacked as "working for their own interests."

A committee was appointed to attend the council terminal committee meeting this morning to aid in presenting the west side's cause.

The temper of nearly all the speakers and the audience, which partly filled the Haymarket theater, was mildly expressed in the resolutions adopted, which said:

"We recognize that some of the individuals who advocate the proposed plan have no personal interest to serve."

The resolutions declared the removal of the union station would be a detriment to west side business, and that the erection of a new depot on the same site would conform to "the best Chicago beautiful plan."

Condemns Congress Street Plan.

Andrew J. Graham, banker and veteran west sider, was the most temperate speaker. He mildly discussed the Chicago plan commission, of which he is a member. He considered it impracticable to make Congress street a main artery.

"There has been considerable fuss made about this west side improvement," said Mr. Graham, "but I do not recall any fuss when the Northwestern planned to build its new depot. If the reasoning of the opponents of the Pennsylvania plan is good the Northwestern depot should have been at Kinzie street. We are only asking the city council for the right to let a man tear down an old building and put up a new one.

"I do not believe the Pennsylvania, Burlington, and St. Paul roads will ever move from their present site, or that any power exists that can move them."

Attacks President Delano.

George L. Robertson, chairman of the meeting, characterized the opponents of the Pennsylvania plan as "a certain class of gentlemen that want to get the depot at Twelfth street, one of whom is Mr. Delano, president of a bankrupt railway system that possibly hasn't enough money to get downtown and wants others out south for company."

Chairman Charles H. Wacker of the Chicago plan commission was termed "an altruist" by Charles Lederer, attorney for the West Side Property Owners' association, and the plan was called "a fable, a fancy free delusion that no practical man could say ever will come into existence."

The speaker cited one business man as saying, after seeing the Chicago plan, "if this town was virgin prairie it might be possible, but there is only one thing that will help Wacker and that is another great Chicago fire to wipe out all the buildings."

Sends Satirical Telegram.

> The present depot site has been tried for fifty years and found practical and satisfactory. Why should the people be compelled to accept a new location just to please a few real estate gamblers and some lovers of art and the classics?
>
> The plan submitted by the Union depot interests is both practical and beautiful and will afford immediate relief and comfort, besides putting $20,000,000 eastern money into Chicago circulation, affording thousands of our good people work at good wages.

Wants a "Chicago Useful."

"It makes me exceedingly weary to hear men like Wacker declaim about the city beautiful," said Albert H. Tyrrell. "Let us have a city useful. It was certainly not to our advantage to have the lake front made into a parkway. If they place the union station at Twelfth street we might as well tear down ten city blocks on the west side and then wait in our graves for prosperity to come. Do not be deluded by those who are seeking this change for their own interests."

Judge Hosea Wells opined that "if we'd rather be rich than be beautiful we should have that right."

"It's merely a question as to whether we shall have a palatial depot or the world's greatest cuspidor," asserted Sidney Adler. "As I saw the beautiful pictures of the city beautiful we will have fountains in West Madison street, with poets and poetesses walking along Clinton, and the simple minded residents of the west side, after work is done, will take their gondolas and row on the limpid bosom of the Chicago river, idly strumming guitars."

Fears West Side Loss.

The proposed depot removal was termed by Walter S. Holden "a plan to take from the west side what is purely a west side proposition."

The committee which will attend the council committee meeting this morning consists of Andrew J. Graham, George E. Newcomb, and William J. Rathje. A committee on permanent organization of the Central West Side Commercial association was named as follows: John Anderson, Aleck Friend, J. S. Counsil, and Frank Hunt.

GARY DISCLAIMS MONOPOLY PLAN

TELLS VIEWS OF MORGAN.

Testifies for the Defense in Government's Dissolution Suit Under the Sherman Law.

New York, May 28.—Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, declared on the witness stand today that neither he, nor the late J. P. Morgan, nor anybody else concerned in the negotiations for its organization discussed the question of obtaining a monopoly in the steel industry or of suppressing competition.

Mr. Gary was testifying as a witness for the defense in the suit to dissolve the corporation under the Sherman anti-trust law. He told in detail of the circumstances which led to the formation of the corporation, and endeavored to show that the sole purpose of its organizers was to obtain "a rounded out, self-contained proposition, complete in every phase of manufacture from the mining of ore to the production of diversified finished products in the mills, with the ability to reduce costs to the most economical basis, and particularly to develop an export trade."

"Our effort," he said emphatically," has been to extend trade and to foster competition, and we have done that."

Property Worth Price Paid.

With equal emphasis Mr. Gary denied the steel corporation had been overcapitalized, as alleged by the government. The various properties acquired "were all worth the price paid for them," he declared.

The organization of the corporation was precipitated, Mr. Gary said, by the desire of the Federal Steel company, a J. P. Morgan flotation, to perfect a "rounded out" organization. This opportunity came when Andrew Carnegie offered to sell the Carnegie Steel company. The Federal previously had refused several proffers of the Carnegie Steel company, and had attempted to raise $40,000,000 to build new plants of its own. This attempt was abandoned, he said, when Charles M. Schwab outlined to Mr. Morgan the advantages of acquiring a then existing property. Mr. Morgan was "impressed" and called in the directors of the Federal Steel company.

Mr. Gary described the meeting of the directors, and laid emphasis on Mr. Morgan's desire to know whether it "was a good business proposition."

Action of Carnegie Company.

At this meeting the acquisition of other properties was proposed and adopted and Mr. Gary described how each fitted into the plan of a "self-contained organization."

"Was the alleged threat of Andrew Carnegie to go into the steel tube business discussed or alluded to by Mr. Morgan or any one else?"

"It was not," said the witness.

Mr. Gary said he would not deny that competition existed "to some extent" between the Carnegie company and the Illinois Steel company, a subsidiary of the Federal Steel company.

"The Carnegie company did sell rails in the Chicago district lower than the Illinois," he testified, "and could do what it came near doing at one time—forcing the Illinois company into the hands of a receiver—and the Illinois could retaliate. But I don't think that was the kind of competition that should be considered. Each company had a natural territory of its own and they were not in competition in the bulk of their products. They lapped over, but the competition was incidental."

MORSE, FREED FROM PRISON, AGAIN HEADS STEAMER LINE.

Man Whom Taft Released Because of Illness Regains Health and Place in Business World.

New York, May 28.—[Special.]—Charles W. Morse, once hailed as "the ice king" and the sovereign power of Hudson river and coastwise steamships, afterward caught in the panic of 1907, sent to a federal prison and released by President Taft when supposed to be dying, got back into the steamship business today.

Apparently restored to health, he became president of the Hudson Navigation company and moved into an office in the headquarters of the concern on pier 32, North river.

If Mr. Morse felt any alarm over the rumor that some of the stockholders meant to fight his election to the presidency, he gave no hint of the company, but he and his friends are said to own 35,000 of the 80,000 shares. That the owners of the 45,000 shares will attempt to oust him was regarded as largely conjecture.

PLANS NEW HOTELS FOR COAST.

Syndicate with $12,000,000 Capital, Dominated by Adolph Busch, Will Operate in California.

San Francisco, Cal., May 28.—[Special.]—The Pacific coast is to have a string of new hotels, built and managed under the direction of a $12,000,000 syndicate, dominated by Adolph Busch, the brewer. James Woods, manager of the St. Francis hotel, has been asked to become managing director of all the new hotels. Two hotels are to be built in Portland and Los Angeles and two in Santa Monica. The plan is to include the St. Francis. The Hotel Washington of Seattle also has been asked to join the syndicate.

KIDNAPED HUSBAND LOSES CASE

Louis Frank, Saloonkeeper, Who Says Wife Hypnotized Him, Ordered to Pay $100 Month Alimony.

The plaintive tale of Louis Frank, west side saloonkeeper, that his wife, whom he was suing for divorce, had kidnaped him and kept him in states of Illinois, New York, and intoxication for two weeks was thrown out of Judge Kavanagh's court yesterday.

"It sounds fishy to me," said the judge. He ordered Frank to pay his wife $100 a month temporary alimony, her hotel bills, and her solicitor's fees.

WILSON SMASHES BALTIMORE PLANK FOR SINGLE TERM

Declares Himself Against Any Limitation on the Tenure of the Presidency.

FAVORS A DIRECT PRIMARY

WOULD BREAK PARTY MACHINE

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—President Wilson is opposed to the limitation of the tenure of the presidency. But he favors the direct nomination of presidential candidates by a national primary, without the intervention of conventions, and the direct election of the president by the people without the machinery of the electoral college.

He expressed himself to this effect today in a talk with Representative Britten, the Chicago Republican who has introduced a resolution in the house calling for a constitutional amendment providing for direct nominations and elections, and a single six year term for the president.

In deference to the views of the president, Mr. Britten will abandon the movement for the single term limitation and concentrate his efforts on adoption of the direct elections resolutions. He will introduce the amended resolution tomorrow.

The opinions expressed by the president set at rest all uncertainties as to his disagreement with the Baltimore platform of the Democratic party indorsing the single term idea.

His attitude also makes it certain there will be no legislation on the subject during his administration.

Comment of Bryan Amended.

> We favor a single presidential term and to that end urge the adoption of an amendment to the constitution making the president of the United States ineligible for reëlection, and we pledge the candidate of this convention to this principle.

William Jennings Bryan has been held responsible for the inclusion of this declaration, but apparently he did not take the precaution of obtaining the pledge of Mr. Wilson, who was nominated before the platform was adopted. An inkling of the president's attitude was given last February when the judiciary committee of the house killed the senate single term resolution after Mr. Wilson's views had been ascertained.

Recently Secretary Bryan, in a speech at Harrisburg, Pa., asserted that any Democrat who disregards the Democratic platform is a "criminal." Immediately the politicians opined that the president would put himself in the criminal class if he should dare to be a candidate for reëlection. Bryan at once disclaimed such interpretation of his remarks. He said he was referring to legislators who ignored party platforms.

Opposes Limiting of Tenure.

Mr. Wilson's opinion is that the tenure of the presidency should be left as provided in the constitution. He believes when the people find a president efficient they should not be prevented from retaining him in office as long as they see fit to do so. Conversely, if a president proves a failure the people ought to be able to get rid of him as soon as possible. For that reason a four year is better than a six year term.

The president made it plain that he has no sympathy with those senators and representatives who sought to make Theodore Roosevelt ineligible to the presidency. He holds neither Col. Roosevelt nor Mr. Taft should be barred from renomination and reëlection if the people want them to serve again. But he favors the direct nomination and election of presidents. The party convention, said the president, is one of the strongest bulwarks of bossism, and when it is abolished bosses will have little power left.

Direct Primaries May Win.

The advocates of national direct primaries express confidence that some kind of legislation in this direction will be accomplished during the Wilson administration.

Last winter THE TRIBUNE conducted a poll of the members of congress to determine the extent of the sentiment in favor of national presidential primaries, the elimination of conventions, and the promulgation of platforms by the individual candidates of the primary. The result showed nearly one-half of congress noncommittal on the question and the other half about equally divided between approval and disapproval.

But if the president should get squarely behind such legislation his influence would command a majority of both houses without much effort.

COLLECTOR OF PORT CHOSEN.

Nomination of Joseph Ballister Russell of Boston to Be Sent to the Senate.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Joseph Ballister Russell, a Boston merchant, has been selected for collector of customs at the port of Boston. His nomination probably will be sent to the senate tomorrow by President Wilson.

FOURTEEN PILOTS QUALIFY FOR RACE

WITHDRAW TWO ENTRIES

BY REED L. PARKER.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—[Special.]—Two foreign entries and a pair of American machines are all that remain unqualified of the machines entered in the annual 500 miles race to be held on the speedway here Friday. Fourteen of the fastest automobiles ever constructed for races for such a distance as the coming event took the flag from Starter Root today and flashed over the wire under the required two minute mark.

Some of the drivers were satisfied merely to qualify, while others opened their throttles wide and turned in time close to the course record. The fastest lap so far of the qualifying round was made during the morning by Jack Tower in his little red Mason. Tower has his bee shaped car ready for the race and announced to the officials that he was ready for his trial spin. He left the tape with the throttle wide open and shut off but little when he hit the first turn. Driving an exceptionally good lap, he was credited with a lap in 1:42, which means to the interested ones that he traveled at a rate of 88½ miles per hour.

Although Tower's time was the best of the entire preliminaries, other pilots rushed their mounts down the homestretch in figures which predict that records may be established during the event Friday.

Endicott in Fast Trial.

"Farmer" Bill Endicott was one of the men who laugh at danger to keep the electrical timing device working at top speed. Endicott was forced to stop for minor repairs on his first round, but on his second trial he took the entire two and a half miles with his foot on the throttle and was clocked in 1:45:02. Trucco in his Isotta, Wishart with a Mercer, Disbrow in a Case, and Burman with a Keeton were other experts to break in to the speed class.

Two machines were withdrawn during the day. The Delling, which it was reported would be handled by Champion Joe Dawson, broke a crank case during the workouts and was forced to withdraw. The other car to be taken out was the Stearns Knight entered by R. Pennebaker. Pennebaker did not have time to put his entry in the proper shape, so decided not to drive.

Delling to Race at Elgin.

After his withdrawal Delling announced that machine would be taken to the Marmon factory, where Joe Dawson would put it in shape for the coming race meeting at Elgin. Several changes of construction have to be made.

Ralph De Palma and Bob Burman are having their troubles. De Palma appeared on the track for his trial and shortly after starting was forced to quit. He sheared a coupling pin and was hauled from the course. He will be ready for work tomorrow.

Barney Oldfield inspected Burman's car today and found that a steering knuckle was about to give way. A new knuckle was placed in the machine and Bob will take his last workout tomorrow. The cars which were qualified today follow:

No.	Car.	Driver.	Time.	Miles per hour.
22	Mercer	Wishart	1:49:77	82
12	Fox Special	H. Wilcox	1:50:48	81½

16	Peugeot	Goux	1:44:62	86

Pilots Draw for Positions.

At the drivers' meeting tonight rules were discussed but nothing materially different in the code was noticeable. Following the meeting pilots drew for their positions in the race. The cars will be lined up in seven rows for the blanket start, four machines will be in each row. In the first file will be Caleb Bragg's Mercer at the pole. The Sunbeam will be No. 2, Billy Leisaw's Anel No. 3, and the Deusenberg special of Bob Evans is No. 4. Herr's Stutz, Grant's Isotta, Goux's Peugeot, and Tetzlaff's Isotta will be in the second rank.

Bob Burman will have the pole in the third rank. Other cars in the file will be B. Endicott's Case, Nikrent's Case, and Mulford's Mercedes. In the fourth file will be Harry Endicott's Nyberg, the Henderson, De Palma's Mercer, and Pilette's Mercedes-Knight, Anderson's Stutz, Haupt's Deusenberg, Merz's Stutz, and the Schacht will have the fifth rank. Trucco's Isotta, Wishart's Mercer, the Fox special, and Disbrow's Case have the sixth rank. The rear guard will be composed of Tower's Deusenberg, Evans' Deusenberg, and the Tulsa.

MOTOR TOURISTS LEAVE TODAY.

Teams of the Chicago Motor Club and I. A. C. Start Early This Morning for Indianapolis.

Teams representing the Chicago Motor club and the Illinois Athletic club will engage in their second annual reliability match today with Indianapolis as the turning point. The start of the tour will be made from Grant park at 6 a. m.

Although the motor club rounded up an entry list of fourteen machines, as against ten for the I. A. C., it is likely the teams will be about even owing to a few withdrawals that are likely to be made from the first named team. W. E. Stainaker is captain of the C. M. C. team, while F. C. Lewin leads the I. A. C. contingent.

The schedule of twenty miles an hour is expected to land the first cars in Indianapolis about 4 o'clock. The route to be followed includes Lafayette, which has been selected as the noon control. Fuel controls have been located at Crown Point and Rensselaer. Contestants in the run will attend the 500 mile race tomorrow, and on Saturday will return to Chicago over the same route to be followed today.

Arrange for Motor Tour Today.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 28.—[Special.]—The Milwaukee Athletic club and the Milwaukee Automobile club will meet tomorrow night to arrange a joint reliability tour to Chicago on June 25.

St. Philip Trims St. Stanislaus in Catholic League.

FINAL SCORE, FIVE TO TWO.

Barrett Holds Losers to Three Safeties and Fans Fourteen.

St. Philips went into a tie for third place in the Catholic High school baseball race by defeating St. Stanislaus, 5 to 2, in a well played game at Logan Square park. Barrett hurled clever ball for the victors, allowing three hits and striking out fourteen batters. He was forced to quit in the eighth inning, when injured by a batted ball. Score:

Maroons to Play Alumni.

University of Chicago alumni will "come back" on Decoration day and stage a contest on Marshall field with the varsity baseball team. Many of the old timers who achieved athletic fame while undergraduates have signified their willingness to try out for the alumni team. Schommer, Steffen, Boyle, Sauer, Roberts, Page, Gale, Moulton and Steinbrecher are among those who have agreed to play.

Peoria, Ill., May 28.—A fine day for shooting brought out eighty-six entries for the events on the second day's program of the Illinois state sportsmen's shoot at the Peoria Gun club today. Jesse Young of Chicago was high in the 150 target event, scoring 146. Mark Arie of Thomasboro, Ill.; George Crosby of Ofallon, and Max Kneussel of Ottawa were tied for second place in the amateur standing.

HERRESHOFF TO BUILD YACHT.

Designer of Successful Defenders Probably Will Construct Yankee Boat for America Cup Race.

Bristol, R. I., May 28.—Nat Herreshoff, designer of many successful defenders of the America's cup, probably will build a candidate for the defense of the cup next year against Sir Thomas Lipton. A syndicate made up of former Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, C. Oliver Iselin, and other older members of the New York Yacht club, will furnish the funds. That Mr. Herreshoff has expressed a willingness to accept a commission from the syndicate was learned tonight on his return from New York after a long conference requested by members of the New York Yacht club who have been prominent in financing other cup races.

NOTES OF THE GOLFERS.

The qualifying round for the sports and pastimes committee trophy will be played tomorrow morning at the Beverly Country club, four players qualifying.

The year book of the Western Golf association made its appearance yesterday. It contains the usual interesting data and the handicap ratings for 1913.

By a vote of 64 to 63 the members of the Glen Oak Country club have decided to permit women and junior players to use the course on Sundays after 3 o'clock.

The annual competition for the Goodrich cup will be staged tomorrow at the Chicago Golf club. It is a choice score event, best eighteen holes out of thirty-six. In the afternoon there will be an eighteen hole medal play handicap for a special prize donated by A. H. Revell.

Victory by Phillips Clinches Honors in South Section of "Prep" League.

BY PREP.

Wendell Phillips clinched the sectional honors in the southern division of the Cook County High School Baseball league yesterday by defeating La Grange, 8 to 2, at Jackson park. Incidentally the victory was the seventh straight for the W. P. squad. The victors worked an inverted batting order successfully, pitcher and catcher leading the lineup. Phillips sewed up the game in the first by scoring three times. Pethybridge, the second pitcher, figured prominently in the scoring, getting three tallies. Koehler swatted a homer which resulted in three counters. Score:

DE ORO INCREASES HIS LEAD.

Cuban Outplays John Horgan in Three Cushion Championship and Is 29 Points Ahead.

San Francisco, Cal., May 28.—At the end of the second night's play in the 150 point match here for the three cushion billiard championship, Alfred De Oro had increased by a wide margin his lead over John Horgan, the title holder. Horgan ran only 27 points tonight. The total score stands: De Oro, 100; Horgan, 71. The breaks tonight were in the challenger's favor and he made a high run of five.

SCHOOLS FORM NEW LEAGUE

ORGANIZATION MAY EXPAND

Dr. J. W. Monilaw Chosen to Draft Chart for Football Elevens.

BY JACK PROCTOR.

Nine high schools in Chicago and vicinity formed the Chicago-Suburban High school conference at a meeting at the City club last night. Principals and physical directors were present from all the institutions which will be enrolled permanently at a meeting next Tuesday night. Principal Franklin Johnson of University High was chosen temporary chairman and J. H. Heil of Morgan Park was selected secretary.

The schools enrolled were: University High, New Trier, J. Sterling Moton of Clyde, Evanston Township, Proviso Township of Maywood, Oak Park, Thornton of Harvey, La Grange, and Morgan Park. Suggestions also were made to secure Highland Park, Blue Island, Chicago Heights, Hinsdale, Riverside, and Maine Township. These schools will receive invitations this week.

Dr. J. W. Monilaw, one of the sponsors for new organization, was chosen chairman of the football committee. Within the next week he will draft a plan for running off the championship next fall.

The Northern Illinois High School Athletic association rules were adopted, with some of the features of the Cook County High School Athletic asociation code. According to the leaders, the new rules will be the best formulated for high schools in the country, as all the best features will be embodied in the adopted code.

Every school in the organization has a field of from five to ten acres devoted to athletics. This is not found in the Chicago schools, which must seek public playgrounds to hold their various competitions. Six of the nine schools have cinder tracks and equipment for all branches of athletics.

ZBYSZKO COLLAPSES ON MAT.

New York, May 28.—Stanislaus Zbyszko, the Polish wrestler, collapsed from weakness in his bout with George Lurich of Russia after 16:21 of wrestling at Madison Square garden tonight. The Pole entered the ring with his head swathed in bandages, as the result of an injury received in his match with Constant Le Marin at Montreal last Saturday night. After a minute's wrestling the bandages came off, showing a wound over the left temple. Zbyszko remained on the defensive until his collapse. Referee Charley White refused to let the men continue. Vladek Zbyszko threw Paul Samson of Germany with a body hold in thirty-four minutes.

SPORTING NEWS NOTES.

In the interclass meet held at Proviso High school the Juniors won with 41. Seniors were second with 34. The sophomores scored 13 and the freshmen 2.

Lake View High school's tennis team defeated the Harrison Tech squad in straight sets yesterday at Sears-Roebuck field. Noble Shumway outplayed A. Smial in the singles, winning, 6—1 and 6—1. The Ries brothers, Harry and Arthur, disposed of Smial and Horacek in the doubles, 6—0 and 6—0.

When the representatives of the MacDuff and Campbell Rover clans meet tomorrow at Fifty-second street and Cottage Grove avenue in their annual soccer battle for the Williamson cup they will be encouraged by the "skirl o' the bagpipes." President Robert Black of the MacDuffs hired pipers and drummers to furnish real Scottish music.

Lewis institute almost doubled the Lake Forest academy score in a dual track meet on the north shore field yesterday, winning, 81 to 41. The Chicagoans took firsts in ten of the fourteen events. Wallen was the individual star, getting fourteen points with firsts in the shot and discus, second in the broad jump, and third in the hammer throw. Donaho was second with firsts in the two hurdle races and second in the high jump. Stager carried off the Lake Forest honors by winning the 440 and 880 yard runs.

Evanston academy's tennis team clinched the academic title of the state by defeating the Morgan Park academy squad yesterday, 5 to 1. Evanston won both doubles contests. Denny and James defeated Hubbell and Kochs, 6—3, 6—4, and Little and Williams won from Kirkpatrick and Galligan, 9—7, 7—5, 8—6. In the singles Hubbell scored the only victory for Morgan Park, defeating James, 6—1, 6—1. Denny beat Kochs, 9—7, 0—6, 7—5, and Williams bested Kirkpatrick, 6—8, 6—3, in the other events.

The Loyola university baseball team was given a banquet last Tuesday night in the university restaurant on the north side. Coat jerseys bearing the monogram "L. U." were awarded to Capt. Pechous, Connelly, McCaughey, Kerwin, Horn, Smith, Noonan, Taylor, Boyd, Holland, Saigh, Duffy, and Manager Wagner. By a unanimous vote Pechous was chosen captain for 1914.

WHITE TOPPLES MEYERS IN HURRY

VICTIM FLOORED IN FIRST.

Aurora, Ill., May 28.—[Special.]—Charlie White of Chicago scored a hurryup victory over Jack Meyers, suddenly ending the feature bout of the show given here tonight in the second round. A right uppercut to the stomach put the finishing touch to the contest. Meyers claimed the blow struck foul, but the referee refused to listen to the protest.

In the first round White floored his adversary three times, and each time Meyers took the count of nine. At no stage of the proceedings was White's victim a factor in the bout. The Chicago scrapper gave away considerable weight. He tipped the scales at 124 pounds, while Meyers had a nine pound advantage. The fight was staged in Klein's grove, west of the city, and drew 800 fans.

Freddie Enck, an 18 year old Aurora boy, who has won eight of his ten fights by knockouts, was given the decision over "Kid" Clipper of Chicago, who battled at 124 pounds. Clipper was in distress the last two rounds, but hung on desperately, sticking through because of the inexperience of the Aurora boy.

WISCONSIN FIGHT BILL PASSED.

Assembly Adopts Hedding Measure Legalizing Ten Round Bouts.

Madison, Wis., May 28.—[Special.]—The Hedding bill, legalizing exhibitions and creating a state commission to control them, was passed by the assembly under suspension of the rules by a vote of 53 to 35. Assemblyman C. D. Hawn of Pierce county introduced a resolution pretending to extend the sympathy of the legislature to the widow of Luther McCarty, the boxer who was accidentally killed in a bout in Calgary, Alberta, and congratulating John L. Sullivan and Jack Johnson on their prowess in the ring. The resolution was rejected. The Hedding bill is similar to the New York law and provides for licensing ten round no-decision boxing exhibitions under the supervision of a state commission. The license fee runs from $25 for small cities to $250 for large cities. The bill will come before the senate for consideration next week.

PELKEY'S TRIAL ON JUNE 23.

Charges Against Fighter and Promoter Burns Will Be Heard at Calgary Next Month.

Calgary, Alta., May 28.—[Special.]—June 23 was set today for the date of the Arthur Pelkey and Tommy Burns trial at the Supreme Criminal court session. The fighter and promoter, who are charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Luther McCarty last week, are under bonds. Burns, it is understood, will abandon all connections with the fight game. Fargo dispatches giving McCarty's estate as worth $65,000 are exaggerated. His property is worth about $12,000.

JACK DILLON AND KLAUS READY.

Middleweights End Training for Scheduled Ten Round Contest at Indianapolis Tomorrow Night.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—Jack Dillon and Frank Klaus, middleweight boxers, who are scheduled to meet in a ten round bout tomorrow night, completed their training today with light workouts. The weight will be 160 pounds and they will go on the scales at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Ferns and McCoy Draw.

Dayton, O., May 28.—[Special.]—The main bout between "Wildcat" Ferns of Kansas City and Al McCoy of New York tonight proved to be a tame and uninteresting affair. Neither man did much fighting and after twenty rounds of milling the referee declared it a draw. In the semi-windup Charles Goldman stopped Bobby Burns in the seventh round with a hard left to jaw.

Harry Trendall Awarded Decision.

St. Louis, Mo., May 28.—Harry Trendall received the referee's decision over Leo Kelly in an eight round bout for the championship of Missouri tonight. Kelly did most of the leading. The newspaper experts thought a draw decision was about right, while most of the spectators gave the bout to Kelly.

Leach Cross Shades Maloney.

New York, May 28.—Leach Cross of New York had little trouble outpointing Teddy Maloney of Philadelphia in a ten round bout tonight. Maloney fought hard, but the local lightweight had the better of every round.

AMERICAN GOLFER IN FINAL EIGHT

TO PLAY HILTON TODAY.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 28.—W. Heinrich Schmidt, the Worcester player, is the sole survivor among the American entrants in the British amateur golf championship. He won in both the fourth and fifth rounds today and will meet in the sixth round tomorrow H. H. Hilton of the Royal Liverpool Golf club, who has held the British open title twice, the British amateur title three times, and the United States amateur title once.

Playing with machine like accuracy and showing no signs of fatigue despite the grueling fight with A. V. Hambro of the Royal St. George's club, whom he defeated by 1 up earlier in the day, Schmidt in the fifth round fairly smothered Willie Grieg of New club, St. Andrews, who yesterday downed Munn, the famous Irish player, and a hot favorite for the championship.

The American was out in 38 and stood 1 up at the turn. Coming in he holed out in four, three and four, never giving his opponent a chance, and won 8 up and 6 to play.

Harold Weber of Toledo, O., was eliminated by Worthington of the Midsurrey club, who won by 1 up. Weber's defeat leaves Schmidt to represent America among the eight who remain to compete for the championship. But the form he showed against Grieg was in such striking contrast to that displayed by Hilton, who only just scraped through in his match with Gillies, winning at the nineteenth hole after a tie, that the Massachusetts youngster has been made an even money choice against the renowned English player for tomorrow's match and only 6 to 1 is laid against Schmidt as the ultimate winner.

EASY FOR CHICAGO RIDERS.

Local Team Smothers Cleveland in Intercity Motorcycle Races at Riverview Motordrome.

The Chicago riders smothered the Cleveland team in the intercity motorcycle races at Riverview motordrome last night, Mike Caffarella and Joe Wolter winning every heat on the card except one which went to Henikman of the visiting team. In the match race, one heat at three miles, Caffarella and Wolter ran one, two, with Henikman of Cleveland third. This proved the fastest race of the night, the winner covering the three miles in 2:16 flat. In the final of the Paul Cooper sweepstakes the Chicago riders finished one, two, three, Wolter getting first money, with Caffarella second and Harmer third. Only local riders qualified in the preliminary heats of the league championship race, which brought four of them together in the five mile final. Caffarella won, with Wolter second and Walklet third.

CUBS BEAT CARDS IN 17 INNINGS, 8-7

Mitchell Drops Fly in Ninth, Resulting in Two Tallies; Five Hurlers in Game.

BY SAM WELLER.

Mike Mitchell dropped a fly ball in the ninth inning after two men were out at the west side combat yesterday, and the result was the longest game that has been played in Chicago in ten years. The Cubs finally obtained the winning run on the Cardinals in the seventeenth inning after two men were out. The final score was 8 to 7.

If Mitchell hadn't muffed that little fly the game would have been over in regulation time. As it was three hours and forty-six minutes of time was consumed to gain the verdict and the Cubs barely had time to eat a quick supper before taking the train for Pittsburgh, where they play today.

There was bum pitching for the first eight rounds, and runs came so freely that one had trouble in keeping count. The bum pitchers were eliminated after the Cardinals tied the score on Mitchell's error, then Larry Cheney, the west side moose, and Bob Harmon, the clever curve ball artist of St. Louis, battled in desperate fashion until the last half of the seventeenth, when Vic Saier started a rally that won the game.

Saier Starts Final Rally.

With one out Vic slammed a line smash right at Charley O'Leary's toes. Charley backed up with the hope of grabbing the ball on the first bound, but the bound was too short and hit him on the shin, falling dead in front of him. He didn't locate the ball until it was too late to get the man. Leach followed this with a clean poke over first base that sent Saier to third, Leach being held to a single by the speedy fielding of James Tilden Sheckard.

There was a conference among the brainy fellows of the Cardinals. It was decided to pass Bridwell, filling the bases and take a chance on a double play. Archer was the next hitter and already he had two doubles and two singles to his credit. The small crowd cheered, but Archer bounded one straight to big Konetchy, and Saier was forced out at the plate.

This brought Cheney to bat and Larry labored with Harmon's curves, fouling off good ones until he had the call of three and two. It was apparent Harmon had weakened a bit in his control and Larry got the sign from the manager to let the next one go by, no matter if he thought it was squarely over the plate.

Leach Scores Winning Run.

The St. Louis pitcher took much time getting set for the final heave, and the ball was at least six inches outside and low. Tommy Leach trotted in from third with the winning run, while all the others advanced a base. Cheney jogged to first and the game was over. Harmon had forced in the winning run after blanking the Cubs since the eighth inning.

It was the longest game played at the west side grounds since the summer of 1902, when Chicago and Pittsburgh went nineteen innings, Chicago winning. The following year there was a seventeen inning game at Comiskey's park on the south side. At the close of the game yesterday the sun was still shining and it would have been possible for the teams to have played at least three more rounds before darkness would have stopped it. If Harmon had stuck that ball over the plate to Cheney the chances are the game would have gone on for at least twenty innings.

Many thrilling bits of fielding took place to prolong the game. The two left fielders, Ward Miller of the Cubs and Lee Magee of the Cardinals, turned out the biggest sparklers. Once early in the game, when Cather of St. Louis was on first base with one out and big Ed Konetchy at bat, the latter lined a terrific drive to left center. Cather started to leg it for the plate and Tommy Leach lit out in a bee line for the fence, but Ward Miller made a desperate dash across the green and speared the ball off his ankles, then with Evers relaying it back to first base, Cather was doubled.

Oakes Makes Great Catch.

In the sixteenth after two were out Mike Mitchell raised a high one to left center. It seemed to be out of the reach of all, but Magee went across the lot in great strides with his gloved hand extended and the ball fell into it and stuck. Once "Rebel" Oakes went dashing back to right center and with one hand stabbed a line drive by Evers that was ticketed for the fence.

On the infield Huggins, O'Leary, Evers, Bridwell, and the great Heine Zim turned many a sharp play that helped to prolong the pastime until long past the supper hour.

George Pierce, the southpaw spitball flinger, started for the Cubs and he labored in fair fashion for five innings. In the fifth he stopped a red hot smash from Koney's bat and appeared no more, as his hand was bruised by the ball. Jim Lavender took his place and the Cubs whaled in some more runs, getting well to the front, when in the seventh Jim got into a mess. The bases were full with no one out, so he was removed and Cheney called to save the game. When Cheney got the side out the Cubs had a lead of only one run, the count being 8 to 4.

Griner, the big youth who beat the Cubs once before this year, was slabbing at the start. He stuck until the Cardinals had batted in their half of the ninth inning, and he helped largely in tying the score by driving out a two base hit. As soon as it was tied Griner was through for the day and Harmon was called to take up the contest with Cheney.

Each Poles Sixteen Hits.

For a long game the playing of the two teams was remarkably even. There were sixteen base hits for a total of twenty bases on each side. The Cardinals got a few more bases on balls than the Cubs, but the latter excelled in stolen bases. Each team was charged with three errors.

The Cardinals busted into the lead in the second round by pushing over a run. Konetchy reached first on Zimmerman's error and took second when Oakes singled to left. The base runners were advanced a notch on Whitted's sacrifice and Koney dashed home when Pierce cut loose with a wild pitch.

The Cubs came back with determination in the third, scoring twice. Archer cracked a double to right near the foul line as a starter and took third when Pierce scratched a single to Mowrey. Miller went out, Griner to Konetchy, and Archer stuck to third while Pierce went to second. Evers flied far out to Oakes and Archer came home on the sacrifice. Mitchell whaled a triple to right and Pierce rode home on the bingle. Zim went out, Huggins to Koney, ending the round.

In the fourth Huggins' sluggers came back with the tying counter. After one down Whitted tapped a hard one through Zimmerman for a single and took second when McLean hit over second base. Griner then doubled to left, scoring Whitted and putting McLean on third. Huggins bounded to Bridwell, who shot to Archer, getting McLean at the plate. Magee ended the rally by fouling to Archer.

Cubs Go Back Into Lead.

The Cubs regained the lead in the fourth by getting a loner. Saier reached first on Whitted's boot and took second when Leach grounded out to Konetchy. Bridwell singled cleanly to center and Saier came home on the hit. Bridwell attempted to reach second, but was cut down, Oakes to Griner to Whitted. Archer then doubled, but the hit was wasted because Pierce went out, Whitted to Koney.

The locals' lead was increased two tallies in the sixth inning. Zim opened with a single to center. Saier skied out to Huggins, but Leach hit sharply to right, advancing Zim to third. Bridwell walked, filling the sacks. Archer then poled his third hit, a single to center, and Zim and Leach scored. Lavender and Miller then breezed, ending the inning.

The visitors came within a run of tying the count in the seventh by shoving two men across. Huggins secured a single through Zim. Magee and Sheckard, who replaced Cather, strolled to first, filling all corners. Mowrey scratched a single through Zim, scoring Huggins, again filling the sacks. Cheney then cut loose with a wild pitch, on which Magee rode home. Using more steam Koney was whiffed on three fast ones. Oakes then walked, filling the bases for the third time in this round. Evans was rushed in to bat for Whitted. He swung at the ball for the third strike which hit him on the leg, but Umpire Klem called him out. McLean then smashed through short, but Mowrey was unable to get out of the way of the ball and was called out for the third out.

Locals Score Two More Runs.

Two more runs were added to the Cubs' total in its half of the seventh. Mitchell reached first after one down when Koney dropped O'Leary's throw. Zim was hit by a pitched ball. Saier swatted a single to right and Mitchell scored, Zim going to third. Leach rapped to Mowrey, but Zim was cut down at the plate, Mowrey to McLean, while Saier took third and Leach second on the play. Bridwell singled to left and Saier crossed the plate, putting Leach on third. On an attempted double steal Leach made the third out, McLean to Huggins to McLean.

Two walks and a double gave the Cardinals one in the eighth. Huggins was given a base on balls after one down. Magee struck out and Sheckard was passed. Mowrey doubled to left and Huggins came home while Sheckard took third. Konetchy wound up the inning by going out, Bridwell to Saier.

With the game apparently clinched with two down in the ninth McLean hit a tall one to Mitchell, who allowed it to slip through his fingers. Griner swatted a double through center and McLean scored after a desperate slide. Huggins scratched a single through the pitcher's mound and Griner took third on the play. Cheney then let loose his second wild pitch and Griner scored, while Huggins took third. Magee then fanned.

In the next eight rounds the Cardinals got men on bases in four, but brilliant fielding shut off runs. The Cubs also had several chances, but failed to count until the seventeenth when victory was gained.

SAM WELLERISMS.

James Sheckard, late of the Cubs, appeared at bat four times, drawing three walks and getting a single, which nearly upset the beans in the thirteenth.

In the seventeenth Saier jumped feet first at McLean in an attempt to score. Saier's spikes grazed Larry's shins, but outside of a wicked look he had little to say.

The Cubs boarded the train at 8 o'clock last night for Pittsburgh, where they open a four game series with the Pirates today. Two games will be played tomorrow.

The team will go to St. Louis for a single game on Sunday, after which there are two open dates in the schedule before Boston, the first of the eastern teams, comes next Wednesday.

The Cubs left in third place, and will remain there for a day at least. It will take two defeats for Brooklyn and the same number of victories for the locals to put them in second place.

Bridwell and Evers played sensational ball in the field, cutting off at least four hits between them. At bat Bridwell showed better than the manager, getting two hits which drove in two runs. He also walked three times.

The Cubs had a grand chance to score in the fourteenth, but a nap by the great Heine Zim stopped it suddenly. Zim reached first on a single and Saier walked after one down. Leach flied to left, and then Harmon and Huggins caught Heine off second base by two feet.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS.

Reuben N. Oldring, the heavy hitting outfielder of the Philadelphia Athletics, celebrates the thirtieth anniversary of his birth today. He was born in New York City May 29, 1883. In his early career he played semi-professional ball with the Ontarios and All-Nationals of New York and the Hoboken, N. J., team. He became a professional in 1905, when he joined the Montgomery team of the Southern league. Oldring's fine work with Montgomery caused several major league managers to try to land him. Connie Mack finally secured his services. Rube joined the Athletics in 1906 and make good from the jump. For several seasons past he has stood with the real stars of the big leagues, both in batting and in fielding. He has helped the Athletics win two championships, and has fond hopes that he will take part in another world's series next fall. Rube's batting average last season was .301, with .974 in the column of fielding figures.

KIDS PUZZLE RAY COLLINS.

Boston Pitcher Unable to Answer All Questions Asked by Boys of Greenwich Settlement.

New York, May 28.—Ray Collins, pitcher of the Boston Red Sox, world's champions, addressed an attentive class of boys on baseball at the Greenwich settlement house last night. In answer to his request to ask questions one youngster's query was: "How does it feel to pitch against 'Ty' Cobb, wit' de bases jammed?" Collins decided that it was a trifle unpleasant. There followed a fusillade of questions, ranging from, 'Is it true that Germany Schaefer was a drummer boy in the revolutionary war?" to "How much moisture does Ed Walsh use on his spitter?" The boys asked who was the better, Ty Cobb or Honus Wagner, and they appeared incredulous when Collins said he never had seen the flying Dutchman.

ARRESTS THOMAS AS SPEEDER.

Cubs' Treasurer "Pinched" on First Lap of Trip to Indianapolis to See Motor Race.

In his first lap on the way to the automobile races in Indianapolis, Ind., Charles H. Thomas, 1027 Argyle street, auditor for the Chicago National league baseball club, was arrested yesterday afternoon by South Park Policeman Matthew Foley for speeding his automobile on the Midway plaisance. According to Foley, Thomas was going twenty-eight miles an hour from Cottage Grove avenue to Jackson park. Thomas was taken to the Hyde Park police station. At first he thought that he would have to go to trial today and miss the races, but a cash bond was taken for his appearance in court on either Saturday or Monday.

Trempealeau, Wis., May 28.—Intense rivalry on the baseball field between Trempealeau and Onalaska, Wis., was to have been decided today and a thousand fans had gathered early from the whole countryside when it was announced that the game was off. The weather was fine for baseball, but it was also fine for hoeing corn, and four members of the Tempealeau team, including the star battery, were obliged to respond to the call of duty. Disappointed fans left for home by automobile, buggy, and afoot.

REDS BUMP PITTSBURGH, 3-1

BUNCHED HITS AID TINKERS.

Great Catch by Devore Features Combat; Umpire Ousts Wagner.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 28.—The Pirates could not hit Suggs and Cincinnati won its second straight from Pittsburgh, 3 to 1. Long hits off Hendrix at the right time by Clarke, Suggs, and Groh netted the Reds two runs. The other was scored in the second inning on a muffed throw by Hyatt, Tinker's steal of second and a passed ball which allowed Tinker to score.

The Reds played a brilliant fielding game. Devore made a sensational running catch of Booe's difficult long drive in the sixth. Hyatt's two bagger, an out, and Byrne's sacrifice fly in the seventh saved the Pirates from a shutout.

Hans Wagner protested Umpire Byron's decision on Groh at second base so violently in the ninth inning that he was put out of the game. Score:

Grab Four of Six Games by Taking the Final When Hits Meant Runs—Hall Puzzle to Losers.

St. Louis, Mo., May 28.—Detroit, by winning today, 6 to 3, took four of a six game series with the Browns. Two St. Louis pitchers were hit when hits meant runs. Baumgardner, who started for the home team, was wild. Hall was a puzzle to the locals, and although he gave seven hits he kept them scattered. St. Louis' pinch hitters were powerless before him. NAPS HAND CALS DOUBLE BEATING

Walsh Routed Early and White Yields Two Runs; Weaver's Playing Features.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Cleveland, O., May 28.—[Special.]—The Naps today won two games from their regular meal ticket, Chicago's White Sox, cleaning up both ends of their delayed double header by scores of 2 to 1 and 5 to 3 respectively.

The Callahans made both scraps interesting, and probably would have copped one of them against any other team than their ancient jinxes. By playing baseball the Sox could have annexed both, but they appeared to have forgotten much of what they knew about the national outdoor pastime in the two days they spent playing the national indoor pastime while waiting for the rain to cease.

The first game was tossed off by a combination boot by Collins and Umpire Ferguson. The player muffed a foul fly which let in the winning run in the second inning because the umpire called it a fair ball. Collins was standing on fair territory at the time as to his feet, but was reaching over foul territory when the ball hit his hands. Mr. Ferguson apparently applied the American association interpretation of the rules instead of deciding it in the major league way. However, there would have been no winning tally if Mr. Collins had frozen to the ball, so we are inclined to blame him more than the umpire.

Walsh Easy in Second.

The second game started out to be a farce and a pitiable one. Ed Walsh was selected to lead the White Sox out of their slough of despond and tried to do it with nothing but his reputation. He could not get the ball up to the plate some of the time and wild pitched two runs home in the first inning. He was kept at work until two ringing doubles, one of them by the light hitting Gregg, made it plain to every one that Walsh was not there or even thereabouts.

Doc White took the game with nobody out and three runs to the bad in the second session and finished it with fair success. He probably would have enabled the Sox to break even if he had started. The only runs scored off him were in the fourth inning, when three singles, a wild pitch and an error by Bodie were good for a pair of tallies.

The White Sox offense was as weak as their defense. They outhit the Naps in the first game, but could make nothing of the openings they had. The Callahan tribe tagged Kahler a lot harder than they got credit for, as his support was sensational in places. This in part explains their failure to make more than one run, but their manner of attack was faulty and they made some bad breaks on the bases.

White Sox Lose Chances.

In the second game the White Sox hit Vean Gregg nearly as hard as the Naps did Walsh and White. The home southpaw was wild in spots, but it seemed impossible for the visitors to profit by their dealings with the lean product of the coast. Right up to the last out there was a chance for the White Sox to win the second game, but a swell play by Chapman robbed Collins of a base hit, which would have scored at least one run. It also terminated the doings.

George Weaver reported to Acting Manager Lord in the morning and broke into the game in the afternoon. After watching him play eighteen innings we ask Manager Callahan to inject ptomaine poison into all his players. Weaver led the Sox in batting, with two clean swats in each game, and fielded like a threshing machine.

Weaver and Chapman furnished a lot of the fireworks. Chapman had the better of the fielding game, for he amassed the unusual total of fifteen putouts and three assists during the day. But Weaver had it on the local star in hitting. Rath and Turner shared the defensive laurels with the shortstoppers in the first game, and Berger, who replaced Rath against the left handed pitcher in the second game, was there with some good plays.

The Sox were first and last to score runs, but were shy in both encounters. In the opening inning of the day Schaller struck out, but Rath worked Kahler for a pass. Lord popped out and Rath stole second. Collins scored him with a timely single to left. The Naps evened that right up in their half. Johnston attacked Cicotte with a single and was sacrificed to second by Chapman. Olson followed with the necessary bingle to produce the run. Then a double play, started by Cicotte, stopped the round.

The White Sox did not get another tally in that game, but ought to have had several. The Naps got one more, but ought have had none. In the second inning, with one gone, Ryan was passed. Graney struck out, then Ryan stole second. O'Neill lifted a fly to right and Collins got to it all right, but muffed. As he was standing on fair ground at the time it was called a two base hit, although all agreed the ball hit Collins foul. Ryan scored and the game was over.

Naps Pound "Big Reel."

The afterpiece looked to be all over before the first round ended. Walsh started by passing Johnston on four straight balls. He got one over for Chapman, who mauled it to center for a single, putting Johnston on third. Walsh wild pitched Johnston across the plate and Chapman to second. Olson popped out and Schaller pinched Turner's liner. Walsh then passed Jackson intentionally, but it proved bad dope. He let loose another wild pitch, putting the runners on third and second. Chapman scored when Berger knocked down Ryan's base hit, but could not recover in time to get the out.

In the second inning Carisch opened with a screamer to left center for two bases. Gregg sent one just like it in the same direction scoring his catcher. This convinced both Walsh and Lord that the Big Reel needed repairs, so White was sent to the slab, three runs behind, nobody out, and a man on second. Doc disposed of the side without letting in more tallies and sailed through the third easily.

The Sox made only one hit off Gregg in three rounds. Weaver got that at the start of the third and was on first base when the side went out. In the fourth the visitors scored. Berger struck out, but Lord walked. Collins flied and Lord stole second. Fournier was passed. Bodie stung a single to center, scoring Lord and driving Fournier to third. Weaver popped out this time.

The Naps made two in their half of the fourth. Carisch started with a single. Gregg struck out, but a wild pitch put Carisch on second, and he scored on Johnston's hit to Bodie, whose throw home let Johnston to second. Chapman singled to center, scoring Johnston. Olson lined a drive to Bodie, who pinched it off his shoe tops. Ping tried to double Chapman off first, but threw wild, letting the runner to second. Chapman tried to steal third and was out.

The Sox grabbed a pair of lucky tallies in the sixth and tightened up the count. Lord singled and reached second on Collins' out. Fournier popped out and Bodie walked. Weaver hit a high one into left and Graney lost it in the sun. It fell for a double, scoring both Lord and Bodie. Kuhn struck out.

In the eighth, with one out, Zeider replaced Fournier and walked. Bodie singled and Weaver's out advanced both men. Schalk batted for Kuhn and rapped off one against Gregg's shins. It was awfully close at first, but Ferguson called Schalk out, retiring the side. In the ninth the Sox tried again and failed. Lange struck out for White. Schaller walked and Berger singled. Lord was called out on strikes and Collins stung a liner over short, but Chapman jumped and speared it with one hand.

BACHELOR TALLY WINS FOR BROWNS

TWO DOUBLES IN NINTH.

McGuire Holds Visitors to Two Hits, Keeley's Men Getting Nine Swats Off Miller.

BY HANDY ANDY.

A double by Gertenrich in the ninth inning, following a similar swat by Kavanagh, sent the latter home with the only run of the game in the opening battle between Chicago's Browns of the Federal league and Cy Young's Cleveland team yesterday and gave the locals the verdict, 1 to 0. Air tight hurling and regular big league fielding featured the combat.

McGuire, pitching for the Browns, held the Green Sox to two safe swats. Only twenty-nine batters faced Keeley's slab artist, and only one of the visitors reached second base. Four got as far as first, two ambling to the initial sack via the pass route. Patton was the lucky individual to reach the keystone station. After walking with two out in the fourth, he moved up a station when Kading heaved wildly to Farrell after McGuire had trapped Patton off first.

The Browns found Walter Miller's offerings for nine safeties, but only once, outside of the ninth, could they bunch two hits in one inning, and then a Birmingham throw by Harley, the visitors' left fielder, cut off a tally at the plate.

Previous to the battle "Old Cy" was called to the plate and presented with a bouquet, a remembrance for the Monroe A. C. Vice President Racey of the Chicago club delivered an oration while handing Cy the flowers, and the veteran hurler was given a warm reception by the 500 fans present.

Jack Kleinow, the veteran catcher, formerly of the New York Yankees, did the receiving for the Green Sox. Tomorrow a double header will be staged at De Paul field, the first game starting at 1:30 o'clock. Friday usually is ladies' day at the Federal park, but because of the holiday the rule will not hold good for tomorrow's bargain attraction. Score:

SOX SIDELIGHTS.

Cleveland, O., May 28.—[Special.]—That will be all with Cleveland for a while, thanks.

Home again with Detroit tomorrow.

They started the double header at 2 o'clock and it was dark at the finish. In these modern days of early openings 2 o'clock is late for bargain bills.

The Callahans left early tonight by the long route back to Chicago to remain until Sunday. They will entertain the Tigers in five games during that time.

Chapman pulled a Johnny Evers slap play in the first inning when Collins tried to steal. The throw was wide, but the shortstop took it with one hand and impaled the runner with the same motion.

Jackson had a bad day, making only one hit in each game. He would not have had just one in the first battle if Fournier and Cicotte had not got tangled up over a measley grounder and let the batter beat it out.

After Carisch and Gregg had sloughed doubles into left center off Walsh in the second inning of the second game a wag in the upper deck seats yelled to Johnston, "Make another double and bring Callahan all the way back from Chicago." Johnston didn't.

Weaver showed he had recovered from his sickness by the first play he made. He ran far across the foul line and pinched Jackson's foul fly at the start of the second of the first game. Buck's best play came off in the fourth of the same battle. With Jackson on first and none out Ryan hit one through Cicotte's legs. Weaver took it on the run, met Jackson half way down, and tagged him out, then pegged to first, but too low to get the runner there.

NEW RESIDENCE IN ASTOR STREET

FACTORY PURCHASES SITE

Morris Sons Co. Buys 284,882 Square Feet at 50th and Grand Trunk.

There is to be a notable addition to the residences in the Astor street district, to be erected by William O. Goodman, president of the Goodman Lumber Co. It will occupy the site of the Gazzolo homestead at 1357 Astor street, between Schiller and Banks streets, which Mr. Goodman has just purchased from the estate of Frank Gazzolo.

The lot has a west frontage of 80 feet, with a depth of 150 feet, and is improved with a three story gray stone residence, containing about fourteen rooms, which will be razed to make place for the Goodman home.

Residence to Cost $125,000.

Plans are being prepared by Architect Howard Shaw, and while all the details have not been decided upon, it is stated that it will cost not less than $125,000. The work of construction will not begin within a year, however, as the present dwelling, which has been the home of the Gazzolo family for more than thirty-five years, has been leased to Frank H. Gazzolo for one year at a monthly rent of $150.

A stated consideration of $50,000 is given in the transfer to Mr. Goodman, but the actual consideration is said to have been considerable in excess of this.

W. B. Longmore of James A. McLane & Co. represented the Goodman and Fred J. Temble & Co. the Gazzolo estate. Mr. Longmore also negotiated the lease to Frank Gazzolo.

J. M. Browarsky Gets Property.

In a transfer filed for record, Joseph M. Browarsky takes title to the property at the southeast corner of Forty-seventh street and Lake avenue, which Montgomery Ward recently sold, Henry B. Smith, a real estate dealer taking title. He has now conveyed to Mr. Browarsky for whom the property was acquired.

The lot fronts 146 2-3 feet on Forty-seventh street and 195 feet on Lake avenue, the Forty-seventh street frontage being improved with a four story store and flat building, with a two story building in the rear on Lake avenue, there being altogether ten stores and twenty-seven flats. A nominal consideration is given, the transfer being subject to an incumbrance of $155,000.

Factory Buys Tract.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company has sold through McGuire & Orr to William Morris Sons company, an old established concern, manufacturing sash doors and woodwork, the tract of land bounded by the Grand Trunk road on the north, Fiftieth street on the south, Morgan street on the east, and Aberdeen street on the west, containing 284,882 square feet. A nominal consideration is given.

The purchasing company is having plans made for the improvement of a part of the property for its own use at an approximate cost of $100,000, and will offer the balance for sale or will improve with manufacturing building on long term lease.

Thompson Gets More Space.

E. F. Keebler & Co. have leased for David Mayer to the John R. Thompson company two stores with a frontage of 50 feet on Quincy street in the new Lanbard building at the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Quincy street, for ten years from the completion of the building at a term rent of $100,000. A previous lease to the Thompson company covering one store in this building was canceled. The present lease will give the Thompson company approximately 2,500 square feet of floor space with access into the lobby of the 200 room hotel, which is to occupy all the upper floors in the building; also space in the basement.

Keebler & Co. also have rented additional ground floor space to the hotel tenants in the building, to be occupied as a writing and reading room, the lease running for ten years at a term rent of $20,000.

Deal at Evanston and Crescent.

The estate of Elizabeth Klaner has sold to I. Oppman and S. Milton Eichberg the vacant at the southeast corner of Evanston avenue and Crescent place, 152 feet on Evanston avenue and Crescent place. The consideration said to be $20,000. The purchasers will improve with a building containing nine stores with offices. Regelin, Jenson & Co. were the brokers, and will have charge of the property.

BILLINGS LIABLE FOR LOSSES?

Minority Stockholders in Walsh Banks Start Suits.

ACCUSE FORMER DIRECTOR.

Charge Him with Lack of Vigilance in His Duties.

Whether or not Cornelius K. G. Billings, New York and Chicago capitalist, is liable for approximately $5,000,000 due to the failure of the John R. Walsh institutions, the Chicago National bank and the Home Savings bank, is the question which was presented to Judge Honoré in the Circuit court yesterday.

Stockholders in the two banks, which closed their doors in 1905, have begun the suits. In an interlocutory appeal from the order of Judge Tuthill appointing W. C. Niblack receiver for the banks, the Appellate court has sustained the lower court.

The Appellate court, however, dissolved a temporary injunction against the officers, directors, and stockholders of the Chicago National bank, restraining them from negotiating with Mr. Billings for a settlement of his liability as a director in that bank. A plan to accept $152,125 from him in full settlement was frustrated through the order of Judge Tuthill, and it is still pending.

Stockholders Bring Suits.

Two suits, one by A. G. Becker, a stockholder in the Home bank, and the other by Becker and others, as minority stockholders in the second bank, are now before Judge Honoré for a hearing on their merits.

Attorneys representing the stockholders argued yesterday that Mr. Billings is liable for the losses sustained by both banks because of his alleged lack of vigilance as a director in each.

Says Billings Is Liable.

Because he remained away from directors' meetings John R. Walsh was able to operate his schemes which led to the wrecking of both banks without interruption, it is contended. The amount lost by the Chicago National bank is placed at $3,500,000, and by the Home bank $1,500,000, for which Mr. Billings is liable, it is charged.

JUSTICE CARTER A WITNESS IN KIRBY CONTEMPT HEARING.

Illinois Jurist Testifies as to Character of Attorney Thomas B. Lantry, One of Those Cited by Landis.

Orrin N. Carter, associate justice of the Illinois Supreme court, was a witness yesterday in the contempt proceedings against the four lawyers for the Kirby defense. The hearing was held before Federal Judge Sanborn. Justice Carter was a character witness and testified the reputation of Attorney Thomas B. Lantry, one of the respondents, for honesty and veracity is good.

Testimony regarded by the government as prejudicial to the defense was presented by Dr. James C. Belsan of 1757 West Fifty-first street. Dr. Belsan said Mrs. Margaret L. Kirby offered him her personal note for $2,900, the amount he had on deposit in the Kirby bank, if he would testify Dr. William T. Kirby was insane. He refused.

"I met Mrs. Kirby in the office of Attorney Lantry," said Dr. Belsan. "The attorney was not present at the meeting."

The other three attorneys involved are James Rosenthal, Francis J. Houlihan, and Patrick H. O'Donnell.

MAY STOP INQUIRY ON TARIFF LOBBY

Democrats of Senate Probably Will Refer the Matter to Committee.

FEAR DELAY IN REVISION.

Cummins Remains Confident That His Proposal Will Be Carried Out.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., May 28.—[Special.]—Democratic senators insisted today, after their conference adjourned, that they had not considered what their action would be on the Cummins resolution directing an investigation into the charge that a lobby is trying to influence action on the tariff bill.

And yet there was a general understanding that the Democrats will vote tomorrow, when the Cummins resolution is expected to come up, to refer it to the subcommittee on finance, where it will be given a long sleep.

Regret Charge Was Made.

There are many reasons why the Democratic leaders do not care to start an investigation. First of all, they realize the danger of the delay it would involve in passing the tariff bill through the senate, which under the most favorable circumstances is likely to be delayed until August or September.

There was universal regret among the Democratic leaders today that the president had launched the charge, and yet it could be easily seen that the effect of it had been to solidify the Democratic ranks for the bill and the prospects for putting it through with wool on the free list and sugar to be free after three years were greatly enhanced.

Cummins Still Holds Hope.

This was the verdict of men who have been watching the progress of the fight, some of whom had expressed confidence heretofore that duties would be restored on both wool and sugar.

Senator Cummins is still hopeful of passing the resolution. He insists it is not subject to a reference to a committee, because it involves no expenditures of public funds.

POLICEMEN GET BACK WAGES.

Firemen Also Figure in $600,000 Disbursement Following Passage of Juul Law Amendment.

Checks amounting to $60,000 were distributed among the members of the police and fire departments yesterday. The money represented the 20 per cent withheld from salaries since the first of the year, pending the action of the legislature on the Juul law amendment. Other departments will be paid in the same way as rapidly as the rolls can be handled.

HEAR NOISE COMPLAINTS TODAY

Additions to the list of noises that complainants have said make Chicago "a correct representation of hell" are expected today. The noise committee of the city council will hold its second complaint hearing in the committee rooms at 2 o'clock. A number of protests against unnecessary racket have been received by mail, and it is expected a large number will be presented orally.

River Forest Loses Suit.

The village of River Forest lost its two suits against the Public Service company and the County Traction company yesterday when Judge Ryan decided an ordinance passed by the village board requiring a tax of $1 on all poles over eight feet supporting electric wires was invalid.

HULBERT FINDS EAST LESS BLUE

Chicago Banker Says Banks of New York Do Not Expect Real Trouble.

NO FEARS FOR AUTUMN.

Believes Crop Moving Will Be Financed Successfully; Sees High Interest.

E. D. Hulbert, vice president of the Merchants Loan and Trust company, returned yesterday from New York. His observations of the condition of pessimism in Wall street were of a more cheerful character than ordinarily find their way out of the eastern banking center. Mr. Hulbert said among other things:

"In certain money quarters I found a considerable degree of blueness. Upon pressing for reasons why the New York banks held such unfavorable views, the responses indicated that no panic is anticipated by the New York banks.

"I am inclined to think that we shall get through the coming autumn in fairly good shape, although interest rates will probably remain high. But if New York, with its blueness, can feel the situation is solvable there is no reason why we in the west should look for more than a close money market."

Mr. Hulbert went to New York to confer with Secretary McAdoo concerning currency legislation.

American Public Service.

The American Public Service company, which was incorporated last October with a preferred and common stock capitalization of $25,000,000, and has $1,817,000 stock and $1,054,000 first lien 6 per cent bonds, due in 1942, outstanding, has taken over all the electric light and power companies and ice-making companies in Abilene and Marshall, Texas, and Okmulgee and Hugo, Okla.

The properties serve a population of 40,000 and report the following combined earnings for the calender year 1912, and for the twelve months ended March 31, 1913:

	Dec. 31, 1912.	Mch. 31, 1913.

Illinois Brick.

It is announced that directors of the Illinois Brick company took no action at their regular meeting looking toward a change in the dividend rate. It is asserted a number of the directors favor a larger return to the shareholders.

Associated Oil Earnings.

The annual report of the Associated Oil company of California for the year ended Dec. 31, 1912, shows gross receipts of $16,772,618, which compares with $20,337,684 in 1911. After deducting operating expenses, fixed charges, and depreciation reserve, there remained a balance of $1,230,044. This was equivalent to 3.07 per cent on the $40,000,000 capital stock outstanding. In 1911 the balance for dividend was 4.11 per cent. The present small earnings are said to be due to the general overproduction of oil.

Dividends Declared.

The Labelle Iron works has declared the usual quarterly dividends of ½ per cent on its common stock and of 2 per cent on the preferred stock. The common dividend is payable July 31. Books close July 19 and reopen Aug. 1. The preferred dividend is payable June 30. Books close June 20 and reopen July 1.

The Childs company declared regular quarterly dividends of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock and 2½ per cent on its common stock. Both payable June 10. Books close June 3 and reopen June 11.

The Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railway company declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent on its preferred stock, payable at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co on July 21 to holders of record June 27.

It is understood in London circles that the Royal Dutch Petroleum company declared 40 per cent out of earnings for 1912 as against 19 per cent for 1911. It is said the Shell Transport company will pay 35 per cent, against 20 per cent in 1911. Has an authoritative basis.

The regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent has been declared on the preferred stock of the B. F. Goodrich company, payable July 1 to stockholders of record June 20.

LATEST WALL STREET GOSSIP.

New York, May 28.—[Special.]—People who have asserted all along for the last month that the stock market, so far as the active speculative medium were concerned, was in a thoroughly sold out, if not oversold, condition, consider that today's developments favored their contention. Reading closed half a point down, Steel was unchanged, and Union Pacific gained a quarter on the day. Amalgamated Copper scored the largest loss, with a net decline of ⅞, but even then was ⅜c above the low of the session.

These results were obtained in what was commonly described as a weak stock market. Moreover, it appeared that all the little "auxiliary committees" were hard at work doing their best to put the worst possible face on things, and there were plenty of "little helpers" to reward their efforts, such as the pronounced breaks in Distillers' Securities stocks and bonds and the weakness in Central Leather, Corn Products, Beet Sugar, and the minor copper stocks.

On numerous occasions in the recent past it is remarked that the market, when it seemed just on the point of plunging downward, has developed a notable power of resistance, and the leading stocks have somehow managed to wriggle back over the ground lost. This characteristic was again present.

It has always been considered worth while to pay attention to the views of the market observers away from the street. The effect of distance upon the appearance of the stock market is frequently supposed to more than make up for the lack of detail included in a short range view.

A Wall street man living abroad and keeping in close touch with things through the study of quotations, writes his friends here that in his opinion the behavior of Steel common in the last two months has been a revelation of stubborn strength. To him the stock looks as steady as consols.

At the time of writing Steel common was at 59½. That was ten days ago. Steel common touched 59½ again yesterday, and from the general Wall street point of view it looked pretty dear at that figure.

Rumors regarding the unfavorable state of affairs in Canada seem to increase in proportion to the decline in the price of Canadian Pacific stock. In the gossip of the financial district the Canadian situation has taken the place of Berlin's interpretation of foreign politics as the ever ready explanation of movements in C. P. R. stock.

Canadian Pacific touched a new low point on the present downward movement, and reports of financial conditions in the Dominion grew perceptibly worse. It is currently related that Canada has been going ahead at a dangerous pace in the past year or two; that there has been a tremendous land boom in the country, and that speculation in many lines has been pushed to unhealthy limits.

The foreign financial press does not appear to have yet discovered this relationship between Canadian conditions and the price of Canadian Pacific stock.

Much debate centers around the question of the future value of the Frisco stocks, of which there is about $50,000,000 outstanding. Current market quotations indicate a rather feeble conviction on everybody's part that they will be worth anything much at all. Nobody seems to be much concerned with the future of the stock, although protective committees have been formed for all other classes of security.

The only asset that the stock seems to possess is control vested in it through its voting power, but the receivers of the road will take that into their own hands, and in its place the stockholders may get that part of the business of the road into their hands.

It is suggested that the stockholders may get in its place a chance to pay a considerable assessment on their shares. Selling of the stocks went on rather freely today, sending the common down to 3½, the preferred to 15 and the second preferred to 6⅜.

Presumably some of this liquidation proceeded from stockholders who were surprised by the receivership and sought to save what they could from the wreck. It was also suggested that speculators lacking the moral sense were selling them short on the theory that here was something that wasn't likely to kick back.

The financial district in its present state of mind seems disposed to dwell on the unfavorable influence which is likely to be exerted upon the mind of the prospective investor here and abroad by the 'Frisco receivership. That a disagreeable impression is likely to be created nobody attempts to deny, but the seriousness of this argument may be easily exaggerated. It is questioned whether the incident may be expected to influence the attitude of the investor toward all stocks and bonds, and whether the ultimate effect will not be to cause a return of investors to the best class of securities.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

LONDON, May 28.—The general settlement and the congestion of new issues checked business on the stock exchange today. American securities opened quiet and unchanged. Trading was light during the forenoon, and prices moved irregularly within narrow limits. Later the whole list became weak, but the market hardened under the lead of Union Pacific in the late trading, and the closing was steady.

Money was in increased demand and discount rates were firmer.

BANK PRESIDENT TESTIFIES HIS JOB IS ONLY 'ORNAMENTAL.'

Head of Elgin National, on Stand in Worthless Draft Cases, Says He Also Runs a Farm.

D. E. Wood, president of the Elgin National bank, testified yesterday that he is only the "ornamental head" of the institution and said he signed the monthly reports of the bank without reading them.

He was a witness before Judge Seaman in the trial of Louis N. Seaman and Melvin C. Jocelyn, former cashier and assistant cashier, respectively, of the bank. They are charged with misapplying $45,000 of the bank's funds by means of alleged worthless drafts.

Wood testified the bank loaned the Peter Bros. Paving company two sums, one of $12,000 and one of $15,000.

"I told Seaman when these loans were made that this was the end of it," said Wood. "When I was suddenly called to Elgin from Lake Geneva and told by the bank examiner of the drafts for $45,000 I was astonished."

Under cross examination it was shown Wood had stood sponsor for notes of $10,000 and $8,000 to clear the indebtedness of the concern. Wood said his salary as "ornamental head" of the bank is $500 a year.

NO MAIL DELIVERY TOMORROW.

Letters May Be Obtained at Postoffice for Two Hours During Morning—Stations Will Close.

Announcement that there would be no delivery of mail on Memorial day was made yesterday by Postmaster D. A. Campbell. The general delivery will be open from 10 a. m. to 12 m. One stamp window will be open all day. One collection will be made throughout the city. The substations will be closed.

MILWAUKEE'S COAL RATE HERE; COMMISSIONERS HOLD UNJUST.

Advance of $3.25 on Ton to Chicago Points Ordered Canceled—Carriers Must Fix Schedules.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—An advance of approximately $3.25 a car on shipments of coal to points in Chicago on the lines of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway today was held by the interstate commerce commission to be unreasonable and the tariffs were ordered canceled.

The advance was effected through the cancellation by all coal carrying lines operating in the Chicago district of their joint through rates with the Milwaukee road, because the latter had demanded 20 cents a ton for the switching of coal bearing cars from Galewood to other destinations on its lines in the Chicago district.

The commission held that the result would be to make the freight charges to Chicago shippers excessive. The commission expects the carriers themselves to make an equitable division of the through rates.

TELEPHONE SUIT UP TODAY.

A decision in the replevin suit brought by the Chicago Telephone company to recover a telephone from the residence of Hadrian H. Baker, 4648 Vincennes avenue, is looked for today, when the case is brought up in the Municipal court before Judge Prindiville.

Feb. 27 the incoming calls at the Baker house were cut off by the telephone company following a dispute over settlement of tolls. Mr. Baker refused to pay $2.50 demanded by the telephone company to reinstall the instrument afterward, and the replevin suit followed.

Baker will make it a test case and, if necessary, appeal to a higher court.

NEW YORK STOCKS UNDER PRESSURE

ALARM FELT ABROAD

Liquidation of Canadian Pacific One of Chief Features of the Day.

New York, May 28.—The stock market again was under a cloud the greater part of today's session, sentiment being even more unfavorably affected by overnight developments connected with the St. Louis and San Francisco receivership.

The securities of that system were subjected to further heavy selling, which resulted in new low prices. Shares of the Pennsylvania road were among the stocks which today sold at low record figures for a considerable period. The market manifested a rallying tendency towards the close under the lead of Reading and the Harrimans.

Foreign Markets Alarmed.

Advices from abroad suggested that foreign financial interests were much surprised and somewhat alarmed at the outcome of the St. Louis and San Francisco situation. London, whose own market was heavy and dull, sold upwards of 15,000 shares here, with a goodly sprinkling of Canadian Pacific, presumably for Berlin account.

Liquidation of Canadian Pacific was one of the prominent features of the day, which was motionless except at periods when the selling was under way. On these occasions the movement embraced other high priced issues, including Union Pacific, Reading, Amalgamated Copper, and American Smelting.

Obscure Specialties Weak.

Obscure specialties, such as American Beet Sugar and Distillers' securities, manifested acute weakness, Distillers' common yielding four points and the 5 per cent bonds nine points.

Selling of Copper and Smelting seemed to have its origin in rumors pointing to slackening operations in that industry, the same reason applying to Steel.

The general bond market was heavy. In government bonds Panama coupon 3s advanced ¼ per cent on call. Total sales, par value, aggregated $2,371,000.

Money on call steady, 2¾@3 per cent; ruling rate, 2¾; closing bid, 2¾; offered at 3. Time loans steady; 60 days, 3¾@4 per cent; 90 days, 4; six months, 4¾. Prime mercantile paper, 5½ per cent. Sterling exchange steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.83 for 60 day bills and at 4.8640 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.82½. Bar silver, 60⅛. Mexican dollars, 48. Government bonds firm. Railroad bonds heavy.

WHEAT HOLDERS HEAVY SELLERS

MAY OATS HAVE UPTURN.

Shorts Are Worried Because of Light Local Stocks; Receipts Show Increase.

Local bulls in wheat became too enthusiastic on a midday advance yesterday and were loaded up with a lot of wheat. The load was too much for them, and during the last hour prices broke sharply when they tried to unload. The news was no different than it has been the last two or three days, Oklahoma advices being of an even more sensational character than recently, but the market lacked buying power to hold the advances, and commission houses were disposed to sell.

Armour, Barrett, Bartlett-Frazier, Logan-Bryan, and Ware-Leland were sellers on the advance, with the local longs dumping their wheat on the break. Early there was buying by Bartlett-Frazier, Logan-Bryan, Armour, Jackson Bros., Lamson, King-Farnum, and Kidston. Final prices were a shade to ⅝c off.

Southwest Reports Bullish.

Weather conditions were unfavorable southwest, it being dry and hot, but in some sections it was reported clouding up, and the fear of general rains naturally made holders timid, and checked new buying. In the northwest the sudden change to excessively warm weather after several weeks of cold caused some apprehension, and reports from northern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota were less favorable. There were also unfavorable reports from Ohio and Illinois.

Predictions were for local showers northwest, and for fair and warm southwest. The cash trade here was without much feature, mills being fair buyers, sales for shipment being 55,000 bu. Receipts were 51 cars here, with 25 cars inspected yesterday.

Foreign News Colorless.

Foreign news generally was colorless. Broomhall's weekly international review expressed the same bullish views as for weeks past. Weather conditions abroad are excellent in most countries, prospects being better than a year ago. Cables were unchanged to ¼d up from Liverpool, ⅜c higher at Paris, unchanged at Antwerp and Budapest, and ⅜c lower from Berlin.

Clearances for the day were liberal of both domestic and bonded wheat, the total being 823,000 bu wheat and flour. Primary receipts were 349,000 bu compared to 384,000 bu a year ago, and northwest arrivals at 140 cars were 7 cars less than a year ago. Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 550,000 bu for four days. Receipts at Winnipeg were 310 cars, or 19 cars more than a year ago.

Corn Prices Hold Steady.

In spite of larger receipts, more liberal country offerings and a drop of ¾@1c in cash prices, there was no material weakness in corn. The May closed ⅛@¼c higher, while other months were ⅛ to ⅛@¼c lower. The weakness in wheat caused some selling. Weather conditons were favorable. Receipts have increased materially the last few days, indicating a desire to take advantage of high prices the last few days of the month. Arrivals were 350 cars, with 362 cars the estimate for today.

Primary arrivals were 829,000 bu, 20 cars more than last year. Cables were ¼d off. Cash sales for shipment were 100,000 bu. The demand generally was reported light. Receivers reported quite liberal purchases to arrive from Illinois points.

Oats Active and Higher.

Oats were active and showed a strong tone in spite of the weakness in wheat. Prices at the close were ⅛@¼c to 1⅛c up, the May leading the upturn and closing at 42⅛c. Shorts were eager buyers of the May and offerings also were quite fair. Lowitz sold quite a little May. Commission houses sold the deferred months early, but later there was a good general demand. Crop reports continue mostly of a discouraging character and a much smaller crop than last year is indicated. Receipts were 376 cars, with 388 cars inspected yesterday. Sales to go to store were 290,000 bu. Receipts in the west were 1,116,000 bu, compared to 467,000 bu a year ago.

Hog Receipts Are Larger.

Provisions were weakened early by the decline of 5@10c in the price of hogs and by the large receipts here and at western points. Later there was a rally and prices closed fairly steady. Local arrivals were 36,000, or 10,000 more than expected, and in the west receipts were 116,400, against 115,900 a year ago. Estimated receipts for today were 27,000. The cash trade continues good. Liverpool prices were unchanged except for hams, which were 6d higher. Receipts of products here were 23 cars; shipments, 113 cars.

Rye Quiet and Steady.

Rye was quieter, but steady, with sales of No. 2 at 64c, and No. 3 at 59½@62c. Receipts, 9 cars.

Barley was firm, with malting 56@66c; feed, 48@55c, and screenings, 24@44c. Receipts, 34 cars.

Timothy seed was firm at $3.25@4.00 for cash lots.

Duluth flax closed ⅛c lower at ½c higher, with cash on track $1.28¾; May, $1.29¾; July, $1.30⅛. Receipts, 13 cars. Minneapolis was ⅛c lower at $1.29⅛ for cash on track. Receipts, 5 cars. Winnipeg closed 1@1⅛c lower, with May $1.14¼ and July $1.16⅛. Receipts, 128 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

"The demand for Duluth wheat from the east is very slack," said a Duluth message to Shearson-Hammill. "We have not been able to effect a sale in the last three or four days, whereas previous to that we were able to sell a little along to the Buffalo millers. The export bids, of course, are entirely out of line. I think that in about ten days or two weeks from now the country deliveries in the northwest will increase considerably, and then there may be a little movement of wheat for possibly two or three weeks, which always occurs every spring after the seeding time.

"We have 9,500,000 bu of domestic wheat in store here now, and while a little of it is sold east, I think the great bulk of it is on tap for sale east. The best bids we are getting from the east now only net about ½ cent under the Duluth May price in store here."

Lyle wired from Kansas City: "From information gathered here, Kansas wheat is deteriorating rapidly from drought in parts of the state. Other parts in good promise from sufficient rain. Weather dry. No rain indicated. For those who have been optimistic on Kansas will say if the government had given quantitive expression on the state on the acres and condition of May 1, based on last five years, the crop suggestion would have been 103,000,000 bu. In those years June conditions showed average 6.4 points under May. A June condition of 84.6 this year would mean same as May, 91. Condition is probably less than 84.6 and falling. Needs rain to rescue crop over large area."

News from Oklahoma in regard to winter wheat was even more sensational than the previous day. In the section around Enid it was claimed the damage was 60 per cent, advices to this effect being forwarded by Hall-Baker of Kansas City, who had them from their own agent. Other reports were of the same kind. In southwestern Kansas the crop is not so far gone that general rains would not help it, but in Oklahoma much of the wheat is said to be beyond help. Bennett had a large number of reports from different points in Illinois, most of which said prospects were not nearly so good for wheat as they were two or three weeks ago. The chief complaint was that it was heading out short.

The cash demand for wheat was moderate, shipping sales being 55,000 bu to mills. Export business appears to be out of the question at the present. Outside markets were firmer, Kansas City spot prices advancing ½@1c, while Omaha was ½c higher. Omaha reported Minneapolis trying to buy wheat there, but that it was pretty well cleaned up. Minneapolis receipts were light, and this gave the market a little stronger tone, mills being fair buyers. Corn offerings from the country were larger, and sample prices here were ¾@1c lower, with the eastern demand slow, sales being 100,000 bu. Oats were steady to shade lower, and there were sales of 185,000 bu for shipment.

"The manufacturing position is a good one, with all the product selling at better prices than prevailed when hogs were nearly a dollar a hundred higher," said Gregson & Co. "It is just a question of maintaining any such volume of hog receipts as the present one as to whether the market will hold, many in the trade believing that we are in for the better hog receipts long forecast for this season. A lower range after the May futures are disposed of will help to keep the general position healthy."

Snow wired from Cincinnati: "Wheat in central and southern Indiana is not making good its early promise. In Wabash and White River valley on overflowed lands the water killed stools, leaving only seed stalk to mature. Stalks are well headed, but necessarily stand is thin, on high lands particularly. Seymour and Greensburg to Indianapolis prospect is much better, but even here straw is short and stand not of the best. State as a whole will hardly get an average yield. Harvest about June 16 to 20, or a week earlier than normal. Oats are spotted, some early fields good, but prospect as a whole is poor."

One of the best posted and most conservative Minneapolis grain men says: "As I see it, you will have northern Minnesota and northeastern North Dakota ahead of you all year as crop damage possibilities. Last year's crop went under same condition as this year, but in 1912 we had rains and sunshine just at the right moment during development of crops. We must have the same this year to harvest anything near last year's yield. Southern and central Minnesota, South Dakota, and Montana are in good shape up to this time."

An Oklahoma City message to Ware-Leland said: "There has been some new crop wheat contracted for export in Oklahoma. The price was about 77c on track at the Oklahoma points. July shipment from Galveston was specified. I think the state will raise about 23,000,000 bu. Harvesting will be general about June 15. Corn is all up; has good stand. Oats are poor."

Inglis wired from Liberal, Kas.: "Wheat through southwestern counties going back daily. Still a large acreage in Pratt, Kiowa, and Clark showing good stand and color. Rain within a week would make a wonderful change. About 25 per cent a failure. Meade and Seward almost a total loss. Oats gone; alfalfa poor. Cloudy; looks like rain."

May oats were again tight yesterday, although at times there were quite liberal offerings. The close was at 42⅛c, or an advance of 1⅛c for the day. This in the face of the weakness in wheat indicated the tight position of May shorts. Sales to go to store were 290,000 bu.

Bids on the call for wheat to arrive were ⅛c higher to ⅜c lower; corn, unchanged to ⅜c lower; oats, steady to ⅛c higher; rye steady.

Deliveries on May contracts were 595,000 bu wheat, 10,000 bu oats, 750 tcs of lard, and 50,000 lbs of short ribs.

Minneapolis wheat stocks showed a decrease for the day of 550,000 bu.

LIVE STOCK RUN PUTS MART DOWN

Unusually Heavy Receipts Result in Lower Prices in All Branches.

PACKERS BUY UP HOGS.

Porkers Drop 5@10 Cents; Cattle Even Weaker; Sheep and Lambs Lose Most.

Live stock receipts at Chicago yesterday were surprisingly heavy, and lower prices were made in all branches of the trade. Packers took advantage of the opportunity to amass the largest droves of hogs they have purchased in several days, taking 33,800 out of the fresh receipts of 38,000 head posted. Shippers bought only 3,000. Prices were largely 5@10c lower, with the average at $8.57 and the top $8.70.

No signs of Tuesday's buying enthusiasm could be discerned in the cattle trade. Receipts of 19,000 head precluded the possibility of a higher market and most of the receivers offered to make concessions of 10@15c to effect sales. They met with little success and part of the run had to be carried over unsold. Best beeves on sale were yearlings that made $8.80.

Sheep and lambs were 10@25c lower, with matured offerings showing the big end of the decline. Receipts were 24,000 head and the trade was slow, with best shorn lambs at $7.55@7.65 and prime wethers at $5.85.

POTATOES LOSE HEAVY GAINS

FRESH RECEIPTS ARE LARGE.

Butter Grows Firmer; Cheese Slightly Higher; Eggs Steady.

Potato prices at Chicago yesterday reverted back to the low level in force previous to the recent sensational bulge, showing a loss of 15c a bu for the day. Sales were made at 45@50c a bu, as contrasted with transaction at 80@85c a bu a week ago. Buyers took hold sparingly at the reduction, but this did not discourage holders, many of whom refused to accept the reduced bids, believing a higher market will be experienced before any further decline is made.

New potatoes also sold at lower prices, with fresh receipts of 20 cars as the principal factor in weakening the market. Sales of Texas triumphs were made at $1.10 to $1.25 a bu in car lots.

Firmness returned to the market for butter, and prices made a rally of ½c a lb. Cheese prices also showed slight gains, reflecting firmness in country markets. Eggs were unchanged.

More activity developed in the market for live poultry, but receipts were ample and prices held at former levels.

RAILROAD DEMAND FOR IRON BETTER

HIGHER PRICES FOR PIPE.

New York, May 28.—[Special.]—Reviewing the situation in the iron market, the Iron Age says:

"In the midst of reports generally dwelling on the low rate of new buying in rolled products, encouragement is taken in some quarters from the railroad demand of the last week. Car orders from the Erie, the Chesapeake and Ohio, and the Lehigh Valley roads make a total of 10,000. Locomotive orders, including 179 for the New York Central, also have been a factor.

"Our Chicago report calls attention to the railroad specifications there, which have been on a larger scale than for some time. In track fastenings, counting in current orders, there were 80,000 kegs."

Advance on Steel Pipe.

"The one definite change in finished material prices is an advance of about $1.00 a ton in steel merchant pipe and line pipe. Wire manufacturers still have the price problem with them in view of the slow movement of their products. Prices of plates and structural steel, as with those for steel bars, are maintained on contract business, but earlier deliveries are possible in plates and shapes, particularly the latter.

"The condition of the sheet market will be the subject of conference of manufacturers at Pittsburgh May 22 and 27.

Buying Movement Still Slow.

"The expected additions to open hearth steel capacity are having their effect on the sheet bar market. Sales are reported at $27 Pittsburgh for June and later delivery. One contract for the second half, 4,000 to 4,500 tons, was made at $27.50 at Youngstown.

"Foundry iron has declined 25 to 50 cents in the past week, as low as $11.25 Birmingham basis being reported for southern No. 2 from a Tennessee furnace. Eastern sales have been made indicating a $14.50 Buffalo price for No. 2.

"The buying movement is not yet here, but there are a few signs of closely impending contracts."

Plumber Seeks to Enjoin Village.

Because the village of Maywood is attempting to charge him $3 for each plumbing job he performs, Reuben Rabinovich filed an injunction suit in the Circuit court yesterday. He alleges the tax is unjust and will drive him out of business.
